BRITISH HEAR U. S. PLANS ON CRUISER NEED

Americans Ask 21 With 15 for England and 13 for Japan.

Reports of Agreement on Global Tonnage Held to Be Premature.

SPEECH OF TARDIEU CALLED TOO STRONG

Great Britain Puts Out Counter-Proposal to French Scheme,

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, Feb. 3 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—While on the surface the delegations of the five powers represented at the London naval conference are still concentrating exclusively on attempts to reach a compromise on the French proposal to settle the issue of whether navies should be limited by their total tonnage or by classes of fighting ships, the most important event today was a two-hour session in Premier MacDonald's office at the House of Commons between him, Secretary of State Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Adams, Senator Reed and Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson.

No statement was issued after this meeting, but it was not difficult to glean in American circles tonight that the all-important problem of cruiser ratios occupied the five statesmen. It is probable that a decision of the American delegation to ask for 21 Washington treaty cruisers has been conveyed to Prime Minister MacDonald and that the American suggestion for Great Britain to build only fifteen of these cruisers was put forward. The American desire that emerges after three lengthy and difficult sessions between the American delegates and their naval advisers last week is for Japan to take thirteen treaty cruisers of 10,000 tons with 8-inch guns against Great Britain's fifteen and America's 21.

British Dislike Suggestion.

All that can be safely said tonight is that the British do not like this suggested ratio and neither do the Japanese. It is unlikely that the matter has gone beyond the first tentative discussions, and it will not be raised at tomorrow's meeting or officially for some time.

It probably represents the first issue on which something like a deadlock may for the time appear to exist, for the Japanese remain firmly wedded to their demand for a 7-to-10 ratio in these cruisers and the British are no less firm in voicing Australian objection to Japan possessing a larger fleet of modern fast cruisers than Great Britain.

It is already clear that opinions expressed last week that the French compromise on global tonnage represented any sort of agreement were much too optimistic. The Americans are far from pleased at the French transfer suggestions, but have veiled their displeasure under the diplomatic pretext that they do not understand what it meant.

Gibson Sees French Expert.

Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson, of the American delegation, had a conference here today with Rene Massigli, principal French expert, on the meaning of the French thesis, and put several searching questions, though not in writing.

The United States negotiators have, however, decided, it seems tonight, to let the British do their fighting for them on this issue, since American and British views are fairly close and the British today circulated to the other delegations counterproposals to those put forward by France last Friday. These British proposals will be discussed tomorrow by committee No. 1, which is really the whole conference.

The Japanese, who at one time seemed to be flirting with the French thesis, tonight appear inclined to support the British, while the Italians, although protesting that they won't discuss these problems until their demand for a statement of naval needs by all the powers is met, are paradoxically entirely on the French side in hoping for the widest latitude in the right to transfer warships from one class to another.

British Tone Sharpens.

There was a sharpening in the British official tone toward the French scheme today, possibly due to Premier Andre Tardieu's speech in France which was considered here to go rather far in indicating that the other powers had capitulated to French viewpoints. Instancing this new mood, a British official spokesman dismissed the French scheme with the remark that the result of

Chicago Man Quizzed In Dreyfus Mystery

Broker Refuses to Answer Some Questions on Advice of Counsel; Rover May Summon Him to Come Here.

Informed of a report that a Chicago broker possessed information "which would startle the public" in connection with the death of Mrs. Aurelia Fischer Dreyfus, pretty 28-year-old divorcee, United States Attorney Leo A. Rover stated last night that the report would be investigated and the broker summoned before the District grand jury if necessary.

An investigation into the death of Mrs. Dreyfus, who plunged 20-feet from a porch of the Potomac Boat Club to her death on October 20, was begun yesterday by the grand jury with Assistant District Attorney Neil Burkinshaw in charge.

James E. Dowd, former head of a Chicago brokerage house, according to Associated Press dispatches, was questioned yesterday by Pat Roche, chief investigator of the State's Attorney's office at Chicago, in connection with the death of Mrs. Dreyfus, but declined to answer all questions on advice of counsel.

Among the effects of Mrs. Dreyfus, according to the report, a picture of the divorcee, Dowd and Edmund J. McBrien, a broker and her companion at a dance in the boat club on the night of her death, was found. Dowd's refusal to answer questions, the report stated, was on advice of his counsel, Arnold M. Harris. The attorney, according to the report, stated:

"Dowd told me that he thought he had information which would startle the public if it became known, but he declined to answer all of Mr. Roche's questions pending advice from me."

United States Attorney Rover stated that he was unaware of the Chicago broker's connection with the case and

WEDDING RING LOST BY MRS. CHEWNING

PAIR TO LEAVE NORFOLK

The golden wedding ring that William Jeffries Chewning, jr., slipped onto the finger of Margo Couzens last Saturday was lost for one terrible hour yesterday.

And then it was found, and the black cloud that had suddenly darkened the honeymoon trail scooted away.

The Post learned about the near tragedy in an interview that the bride granted over the long-distance telephone from her room at the Monticello Hotel in Norfolk, Va.

"We went over to Virginia Beach for tea," she said. "I took the ring off when I went to wash my hands, and then I forgot all about it.

"I didn't notice that it was gone until we got back here, and then I almost fainted. We rushed back over to the Cavalier at Virginia Beach, and there I found it just where I had left it."

Here the bride, 21-year-old daughter of Senator James Couzens, of Michigan, sighed happily.

Traveling light—they have only two suitcases between them—Mr. and Mrs. Chewning will leave Norfolk today and extend their honeymoon trail to Yorktown and other historic towns of Virginia.

They will travel in a mud-spattered Ford coupe, and at the wheel will be the bride. The heiress and her bank clerk husband, who eloped to Baltimore early Saturday, expect to return here on February 9, the day before the Bachelor cotillion.

The cotillion will be the occasion of Mrs. Chewning's debut as a bride in Washington and she will be in the receiving line. Two nights later she will attend a dance to be given in her honor at the Carlton. This was planned long before the elopment, but Mrs. Couzens sees no reason to call it off now.

In the course of their journey through Virginia, the couple will go to Warrenton, where Mrs. Chewning hopes to do some riding. Warrenton is a celebrated horse center, and knows former Margo Couzens well. A daring rider, she has frequently thrilled the crowds that gathered for the horse shows there.

She admitted last night, however,

DISMISSAL OF FLYNN AS DRY AID IMPENDS

HERBERT REACHES CITY

The impending dismissal of Capt. Frank S. Flynn, a stormy petrel of the Prohibition Bureau, and the appointment of Robert D. Ford, former assistant prohibition administrator of the Maryland District, to the post from which John J. Quinn was recently ousted were revealed yesterday.

Capt. Flynn will be notified today or tomorrow that he has been dropped from the bureau roll, it was learned, because he failed to report for duty in Baltimore yesterday. It was because of his sensational charges against Col. John F. J. Herbert, prohibition administrator of the District of Columbia, and Mr. Quinn that Senators Borah and Wheeler demanded that Col. Herbert be removed from the Idaho-Montana District, where he was shifted following the exposure.

Since Mr. Quinn's removal, Mr. Ford has been acting assistant administrator. He was appointed deputy administrator in September, 1927, by Col. Herbert. Prior to that time he was stationed in Washington, where he was in charge of enforcement activities. He was appointed to the Prohibition Bureau in 1920 by Thomas E. Stone, Maryland District administrator, who ordered his elevation yesterday.

For the second time during his stormy career in the prohibition unit, Capt. Flynn is said to have disregarded orders involving his transfer or assignment and failed to report to Prohibition Administrator Thomas E. Stone, in charge of the Baltimore office.

While Capt. Flynn's refusal to report at Baltimore yesterday does not automatically sever his connection with the service, Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran stated that failure on the part of Flynn to follow orders would result in his being suspended, the charge being "insubordination."

Administrator Stone last night refused to say whether Capt. Flynn was at his post in the clerk's office of the Prohibition Bureau in Fort McHenry. Capt. Flynn had been employed in the Fort McHenry bureau as a clerk.

"It is a personal matter," Administrator Stone stated, "and I can't discuss it."

None of the other prohibition of-

Rum Squad Man Is Charged With Driving While Drunk

Originally Accused of Recklessness Only, G. C. McCarron Demands Jury Trial, and Prosecutor Files More Serious Accusation; Released on Bond.

Policeman George C. McCarron, a member of Sergt. O. J. Letterman's liquor squad, yesterday was charged in Police Court with driving while drunk and suspended from duty pending the outcome of his scheduled appearance before a Police Trial Board and a jury trial in Police Court which he requested.

McCarron had been arrested early yesterday morning by Sixth Precinct police on charges of reckless driving after he was reported to have crashed into an automobile of Lemuel Griffis, of 208 Linworth place southwest, which was parked at John Marshall place and C street northwest. He was released on $25 bond.

On appearing before Judge Isaac Hitt in Police Court yesterday morning to face this charge, he pleaded not guilty and requested a jury trial.

A conference in the offices of the corporation counsel immediately afterward resulted in a change of the charge to that of driving while drunk. McCarron was released on $300 bond, with his case postponed until the usual jury trial day on Friday.

Inspector Albert J. Headley was assigned to investigate and upon his recommendation Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, ordered McCarron's suspension and cited him for appearance before the Police Trial Board.

Policeman Floyd A. Truscott, on duty in liquor detail work in the Fourth Precinct, in the same order of Maj. Pratt, was assigned temporarily to Letterman's squad.

McCarron, according to the report, was off duty at the time of the collision and had attended a Chinese New Year celebration at the establishment of Charlie Chew on Pennsylvania avenue northwest. He was said to

CROSBY ASKED TO TAKE JOB AS DISTRICT CHIEF

Hoover Offers Head of Cavalry Post as Commissioner.

ARMY MAN PONDERS DECISION ON TENDER

PRESIDENT MOVED BY BUDGET REASONS

H. D. Brown, Efficiency Bureau Director, Seen in Place of Taliaferro.

President Hoover late yesterday sent a letter to Commissioners Proctor L. Dougherty and Sidney P. Taliaferro, asking them to continue in office for a month or two more. Their three-year terms expire today.

At the same time, the President called in Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, chief of Cavalry, United States Army, and offered him the office of Commissioner. So far as is known, however, Gen. Crosby has not made up his mind as to whether he will accept.

In his letter to the Commissioners, President Hoover expressed the hope that they would stay on for a month or two and see the District budget through Congress. Hearings on the budget now are being held at the Capitol.

White House Reticent.

In the meantime, it was stated at the White House, no announcement will be forthcoming as to the future make-up of the Board of Commissioners.

Although he could retire in March when his term as chief of Cavalry expires, and thus make himself eligible for appointment as Commissioner, Gen. Crosby also is in a position to continue in the Army for several more years.

The question confronting him now is which would be the more desirable, early retirement from the Army and service as a Commissioner or continuance in the Army and possibly a post even higher than he now holds.

Herbert Brown Mentioned.

If Gen. Crosby should accept the local office, he probably would be made Commissioner in charge of the Police and Fire Departments, the departments now in charge of Commissioner Dougherty. This is admittedly a tough assignment.

Herbert D. Brown, chief of the Bureau of Efficiency, was mentioned yesterday as a possible successor to Commissioner Taliaferro. No formal offer of the job has been made to him, however, and there is some doubt as to whether he would accept if one were made.

Gen. Crosby has spent 37 of his 58 years in the Army. He was born in Fairmont, Kans., December 24, 1871, and was appointed to the Mili-

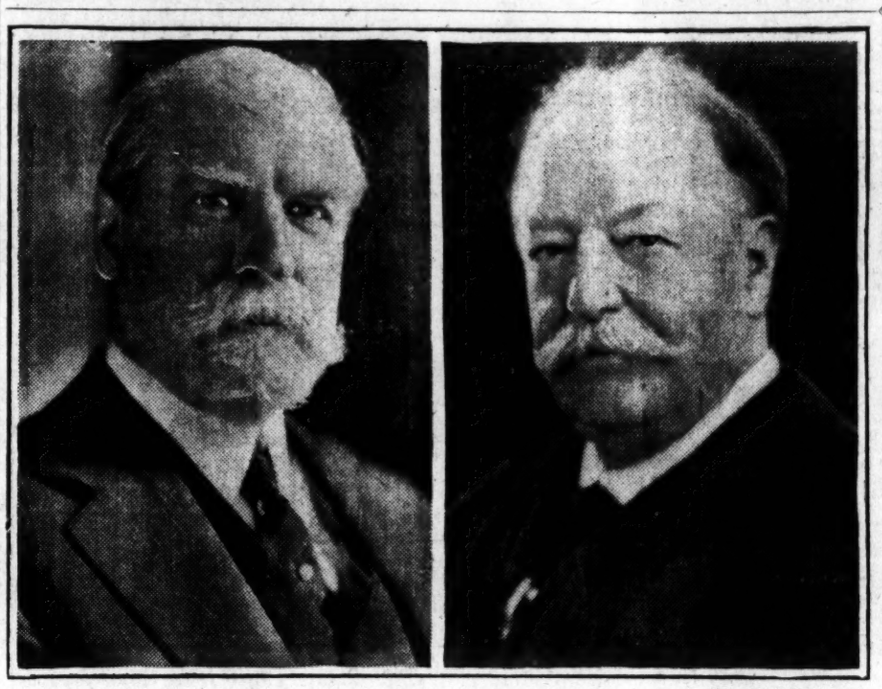
CHARLES E. HUGHES APPOINTED CHIEF JUSTICE AS TAFT YIELDS POST BECAUSE OF BAD HEALTH



Underwood & Underwood.

Nomination of Former Secretary of State Sent to Senate.

QUICK CONFIRMATION OF CHOICE EXPECTED

HOOVER INFORMS NEW JURIST BY TELEPHONE

C. E. Hughes, Jr., Solicitor General, to Resign From Position.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Charles Evans Hughes was late yesterday named Chief Justice of the United States by virtue of the retirement of William Howard Taft, the man who once before had placed him on the Nation's highest court.

President Hoover sent Mr. Hughes' nomination to the Senate at about 4:30 o'clock. It was promptly referred to the judiciary committee on motion of Senator Watson. Some surprise was expressed because a man of Mr. Hughes' prominence was not immediately confirmed, but Senator Norris, chairman of the committee, said later that the appointment undoubtedly would be unaimously approved.

Earlier in the day, the retiring Chief Justice's son, Robert A. Taft, had carried his father's resignation to the White House. But, although it was generally a surprise to the public and in official circles, it was learned that Mr. Hoover had been expecting Mr. Taft's ill health to force him to relinquish his post, and that the matter had been discussed recently with Mr. Hughes upon the occasion of his visits to the White House.

Hoover Phones to Hughes.

So all that remained for the President to do after hearing definitely from the Chief Justice was to communicate with Mr. Hughes in New York by telephone.

Shortly after the appointment of Mr. Hughes was made known, his son, Charles E. Hughes, jr., announced that he would resign as solicitor general. Some question had arisen as to the propriety of his appearance before his father as Government counsel.

In the meantime, the man whose happy philosophy has served him well in his 73 years of life, was returning from Asheville, N. C., where he went three weeks ago seeking rest from the recurrence of an organic ailment. This fact, above all else, was a reassurance to his friends that his decision to resign his high post was prompted more by precaution than a complete surrender to his illness.

Thus in the brief span of a day was written an epochal chapter in the Nation's history and concerning two men who have almost been brothers in the vicissitudes of national life.

Put on Bench by Taft.

It was President William Howard Taft who first appointed Mr. Hughes, then a former Governor of New York, to the bench. The political story of the time is that Mr. Taft wanted to appoint him Chief Justice later upon the death of Chief Justice Fuller, but that Elihu Root and some of the members of the court objected. At the last minute President Taft elevated Justice White.

Then in 1916 Justice Hughes resigned to carry the Republican standard in the party's desperate effort to recover from the debacle of four years previous when the party badly split and Mr. Taft went down to defeat.

For several days after the election it was thought that Mr. Hughes had won but late reports from the West pronounced the reelection of Woodrow Wilson.

But private life was not yet for

CUT IN PHONE RATES TO BE DEBATED SOON

Utilities Commission Gives Notice It Will Take Up Problem Before Long.

DATA ALREADY GATHERED

By BERNARD McDONNELL.

The public utilities commission has given informal notice to the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. that it intends to take up in the near future the question of reduction of existing telephone rates.

The commission already has begun the collection and study of data bearing on the question of telephone rates preliminary to taking formal action in the matter.

An exact date has not been determined on by the commission for a formal calling on the telephone company to show cause why its existing rates should not be reduced, but it is expected that the commission will be ready to take up preliminary discussions with company officials in the first few days of next month.

Whether reductions in present rates will be ordered can not now be forecast with definiteness. The telephone company is prepared to show that the country-wide system of which the local company is but a unit has reduced its charges for long-distance telephone calls, has separated its work so that accounting and many features of administration now are separate tasks for

Taft, Ailing, Takes Train For Capital

Asheville, N. C., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—William Howard Taft, a "pretty sick man," left Asheville late today for Washington. With his wife, his personal physician, Dr. Francis Hagner, of Washington, and a nurse, the former President boarded a train which was scheduled to have him in Washington early tomorrow.

Although he was able to walk the few steps from his automobile to the railway car, it was evident he was forced to exert himself.

CHEST TOTAL FAILS TO CHEER LEADERS

Week-End Donations Reach $75,162 Mark; $750,000 Still Lacking.

RABBI THANKS WORKERS

With three more days remaining in which to collect $750,000, the 4,500 workers for the Community Chest will have to average $250,000 a day in order to complete the 1930 budget quota which has been set at $1,786,737.07.

This was revealed yesterday at the daily report meeting at the Mayflower Hotel, when it was announced that the collections over the week-end were only $75,162.67. Chest officials admitted they were discouraged by this showing, but expressed confidence that the end of the drive Thursday night will see the total of pledges and contributions equal to the goal sought.

HUGHES TO ACCEPT CHIEF JUSTICE POST

PRAISES TAFT'S CAREER

New York, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Charles Evans Hughes today said that he would accept the nomination as Chief Justice of the United States.

Mr. Hughes said he would resign immediately from the world court, on which he is serving as a justice, filling out the unexpired term of John Bassett Moore.

Mr. Hughes said he considered his appointment not only a very high honor but also considered it the greatest opportunity for service ever offered him.

He had not received official confirmation from Washington of his nomination, and said that until he received such confirmation he would issue no formal statement. He was informed of his nomination by the Associated Press.

In connection with his resignation from the world court, Mr. Hughes said that he had already informed the court he would not consider a nomination to continue after his present term expired, which is this year.

Almost simultaneously, however, with the announcement in Washington that Mr. Hughes had been nominated to be Chief Justice, through his secretary he issued a statement regretting the resignation of Chief Justice Taft.

"I regret most deeply that Chief Justice Taft is unable to continue in office," the statement said. "His work as Chief Justice has fitly crowned a great career and will have an abiding influence.

"It was both the fine quality of that work," the statement continued, "and the spirit in which it was performed evincing not only the most conscientious industry and judicial

Lindbergh Uninjured As Glider Tip Breaks

Flying Colonel, Undaunted by Mishap, Brings Sail Ship Safely to Earth in Trial Flight Among California's Hills.

Lebec, Calif., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh treated a few flying friends, news-reel cameramen and newspapermen to a real thrill today. He disappeared in the heart of the Tehachapi Mountains in a disabled sail plane, causing grave concern for his safety. For an hour or more in this isolated area it was unknown whether the famous flier had cracked up or whether he had mastered a crippled motorless ship.

Then he came up smiling. Just another experimental flight and no harm done, he revealed.

Col. Lindbergh came here Sunday with Hawley Bowlus, of San Diego, champion American glider pilot, to play and experiment with a sail plane, motorless flying ship. They established a camp 10 miles beyond the Ridge route, main highway through the mountains.

It was revealed late that they expected to break the world's record for gliders, eight hours in the air, now held by Germany. For that reason this mountainous area, with its diminishing hills leveling out into the Mojave Valley to the north, was selected for the experiment.

Pilot Bowlus holds the American record of six hours in the air. Immediately after the assembly of the sail plane, which was brought here on a motor truck, he made two trial flights, hopping in each flight from hill to hill.

Then "Lindy" took off. As he sailed into the air the right aileron, one of the ship's controls, fell off. This control, attached to the wing as a wing tip, was regarded as essential to the safe piloting of the craft. As warning shouts on the ground sought to apprise him of the mishap, the colonel circled around, gracefully maneuvering the sail plane on the air currents.

Then he soared over a distant hill and descended out of view.

Fearing disaster, the little group started from the camp to seek the missing flier. They had not gone far, however, when they came to a point where it was seen that the sail plane had landed safely. Col. Lindbergh was found surveying the ship. It was undamaged other than the loss of the aileron.

At no time was the sail plane out of control, he revealed, and he was merely descending to a landing when he disappeared from the view of the men at the camp.

Today's flights were merely test take-offs to determine the condition of flying in this area.

Further tests will be made Wednesday and as soon as Col. Lindbergh and Pilot Bowlus are satisfied with conditions here, the flight seeking to break the world's record will be made.

Coolidge's History in Rock To List Only Eight Events

500-Word Carving on South Dakota Granite Will Omit Names of Washington and Lincoln, But May Mention Jefferson and Roosevelt.

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Former President Coolidge's tabloid history for the Mount Rushmore, S. Dak., memorial is to be as limited in historical references as it will be sparing in words.

Eight events, considered the most epochal in the evolution of the colonies, are listed for inscription. These were selected by the design committee of memorial commission, Gutzon Borglum, designer of the project, and one of the committee, said. The sculptor is spending the winter here.

The names of Washington and Lincoln may not appear in the engraved history; the names of Jefferson and Roosevelt likely will, while Mr. Coolidge's name is certain to be etched in the granite wall of the Black Hill's peak.

The memorial will consist of colossal figures of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Roosevelt, and the Coolidge history, hewn upon the 1,000-foot side of the mountain.

The eight events upon which Mr. Coolidge will touch upon, include:

July 4, 1776, Declaration of Independence.

1787, framing of the Constitution.

1803, Louisiana purchase.

1846, admission of Texas as a State.

1848, Oregon boundary settlement.

1849, admission of California.

1865, Civil War ends.

1914, completion of the Panama Canal.

Mr. Coolidge's wordage is limited to the number that can be inscribed in a space 90 feet by 130 feet and cut in such dimensions that they may be read 3 miles away. These conditions would limit the history to 500 words.

"Our monument," said Mr. Borglum, "is a memorial to the great na-either of these men—neither Mr. Hughes nor Mr. Taft.

President Harding, coming into office in 1921 on a landslide, named Mr. Taft as Chief Justice and Mr. Hughes as his Secretary of State.

Thus it came about that the one was to have a most important post in the Nation's foreign affairs, as they were left by the havoc of the World War, and the other the place of the Nation's chief magistrate in its great economic turnover, in that period of its shifting from a creditor to a debtor nation, from an agricultural to an industrial nation, from the work of man to the work of machine, and carrying with it a vastly new social outlook and social regime.

It was Mr. Hughes' lot to steer through to accomplishment the Washington arms limitation conference, a meeting of international minds striving to minimize the possibility of recurring war.

It was the task of the ever genial chief magistrate to interpret the intent and validity of the eighteenth amendment, and then and there, it might be said, he interpreted it to be the intent of Congress to make the country bone dry.

Decisions Follow This Line.

And his many decisions since on collateral questions of prohibition dealing with its enforcement and the like, have been with this thought in mind—this despite the fact that before going on the court he had been looked upon as what would now be termed as a "wet."

For more than a quarter of a century, in fact, has Chief Justice Taft, now very ill, been wrapped up in public life, first as a superior court judge in Cincinnati, way back in 1887, and then as solicitor general of the United States, then Federal circuit judge, as governor of the Philippines and as Secretary of War under President Roosevelt.

Throughout that long period his happy philosophy and an inimitable chuckle sustained him through adversity, through criticism and through success and acclaim.

It is unlikely that anything ever cut him quite as much as the criticism years ago by Samuel Gompers, then president of the American Federation of Labor, against his receiving an annuity of $10,000 a year from the Carnegie Foundation, an annuity given to all former Presidents.

(In more recent years he has given freely of his time and his soul toward relieving what he considered to be the most serious menace to the nation, the growing disrespect for law.

Effects Many Reforms.

He strove endlessly and succeeded in effecting many reforms in the Federal judiciary designed to expedite the handling of business to give men swift punishment and justice.

With the coming of Mr. Hoover to the Presidency, he had received considerable encouragement. Together with Mr. Hughes and Mr. Root he is looked upon as being the President's principal counselor in appointments to the judiciary and to the Department of Justice.

It is believed, too, to have been at his instance that the President broadened his proposed prohibition inquiry to one covering the whole field of lawlessness.

Named Elder Statesmen.

The three of them, indeed, Mr. Taft, Mr. Root and Mr. Hughes, came to be called the Nation's elder statesmen, to whom Mr. Hoover looked frequently for guidance.

The happy way in which Mr. Taft had of shaking off ailments seemed to suffer a sharp setback last summer. With the summer recess of the court he went to visit his brother, Charles P. Taft, at Cincinnati, who only recently died. This trip severely taxed his strength and when he returned here it was to go to bed. Shortly afterward he was carried to the Union Station, still chuckling and smiling, but ailing painfully, in a wheel chair, to go to his summer retreat at Murray Bay, Quebec.

He was rested sufficiently through the summer to resume his duties upon the bench in the fall and life kept up his constant attendance until the death of his brother about a month ago. He went to Cincinnati, this time against the advice of his physician, and upon returning from his grief-laden mission, went immediately to his office. But it was only for a day. Three weeks ago he went to Asheville in search of relief.

His letter, taken to the President yesterday by his son, and ending his quarter of a century of service to his Nation, was a most simple thing; as simple, indeed, as the life which Mr. Taft has led. It was not made public, but it is understood merely to have given the Chief Justice's wish for retirement and to have pointed out that in addition to the eight years that he has served as Chief Justice he served ten years as a Federal circuit judge. This, and this alone, makes him eligible for retirement at full pay, $20,500 a year. The retirement law provides for retirement of a judge who has reached the age of 70 and who has served ten years on the bench. The service does not have to be continuous, the law having been modified a year or so ago in this respect.

Now Mr. Hughes, who is five years the retiring chief's junior, being 68, returned to the private practice of law after his retirement from the Cabinet, some time after President Coolidge came in.

But much of his work has been that of assisting the Supreme Court. He served particularly as special master in the Chicago drainage case, and a few months ago was elected to be a justice of the Permanent Court of International Justice. Presumably, he will have to resign from this.

Despite the high legal seat which the retiring Chief Justice has occupied and which his successor will take over, there is a decided difference in their personalities.

Hughes' Attitude Changes.

Mr. Hughes was until a few years ago the essence of dignity and formality and of most severe mien. But upon the occasion of the exercises notifying President Coolidge of his nomination for another term in 1924, a great change came over him. He startled a vast audience in Continental Memorial Hall at that time by leading the cheers for Mr. Coolidge and from that time Mr. Hughes has been as easy of approach as Mr. Taft, and none is easier to meet, to talk with than he.

There is a question as to just how far Mr. Hoover had gone in his determination to name Mr. Hughes when the Chief Justice's resignation arrived yesterday. But the White House was most anxious to be able to announce his appointment before the end of the day, to keep down the mindless speculation that was inevitably to come.

Mr. Hughes' selection and the conversations the President has had with him recently were in fact, quite a surprise, even to those close to Mr. Hoover. The speculation had concentrated on Associate Justice Stone, a member of the President's "medicine ball" cabinet—that much of a friend.

Is Prohibition Liberal.

Particularly was it important for the President to act quickly in announcing Mr. Taft's successor because of the contending economic and social forces that are so bitterly at loggerheads just now.

On one particular question, quite prominently to the fore—that of prohibition—Mr. Hughes has always been looked upon as liberal. Indeed, when this matter was such an issue in the last Presidential campaign, he discussed it several times in a vein calculated to appeal to liberal elements in behalf of Mr. Hoover.

Mr. Hughes was not an original supporter of the President. Until almost the very eve of Mr. Hoover's nomination there were influential elements who wanted to nominate Mr. Hughes himself. But after the convention Mr. Hughes rendered yoeman service for the President. It was he who made the last speech for Mr. Hoover on election eve, a nation-wide radio appeal.

It is doubtful, however, if the Western political elements would call Mr. Hughes "progressive."

Taft Held Conservative.

While he was on the court Mr. Taft was regarded as a conservative, while Justices Brandeis and Holmes and Justice Stone, to a lesser degree, are looked upon as liberal. On many matters, too, the division has been as close as 5 to 4, some highly controversial social and economic questions having been disposed of by this narrow margin.

Added significance is given to the selection of one of Mr. Hughes' views to the Chief Justiceship because of the fact that Mr. Hoover probably in this term and certainly if he receives another one, will have the reorganization of the entire court to effect.

Justice Sutherland has long been in ill health and is expected to resign unless he improves; Justice Holmes is in his eighty-eighth year and eligible for retirement, and Justice Vandevanter, also eligible for retirement, is said to be remaining on the bench only at the earnest solicitation of his friends.

Nomination of Hughes Delights Navy Envoys

London (Tuesday), Feb. 4 (A.P.).—Members of the American delegation to the five-power naval conference said today they were delighted to hear that Charles Evans Hughes had accepted the nomination to be Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court.

Secretary of State Stimson and his colleagues intend to send Mr. Hughes personal messages of congratulation.

The news that President Hoover had nominated Mr. Hughes arrived in London too late to arouse any detailed comment in British official circles.

Workers Warned Away From Boulder Dam Now

(Associated Press.)

Workmen of the Nation were warned yesterday by Francis I. Jones, director general of the Federal Employment Service, not to go to Boulder Dam Canyon at this time to seek employment on the dam project.

Calling attention to what he said was a general impression that construction was to start at once, Mr. Jones asserted it would be several months before any work begins. He also warned against sending money to any private employment agencies that might offer to supply information about the need for workmen at the dam.

"Freed from the exactions of the office, it is hoped that he will find his days lengthened and his heart will be cheered by the tributes of esteem and warm affections which he will receive in abundant measure from his grateful fellow countrymen."

Mr. Hughes' face was wreathed in smiles as he received newspaper men in his law offices in the financial district.

His usual sober manner was missing as he smilingly accepted their congratulations on his appointment to the highest judicial post in this country.

At the end of the conference Mr. Hughes intimated to the reporters that he might have a statement for them tomorrow morning when he invited them to return and see him then.

MORE SHIFTS LOOM IN SUPREME COURT

Hughes' Appointment to Taft Post Is Beginning of Reorganization.

RETIREMENTS DUE SOON

(Associated Press.)

The resignation of Chief Justice Taft and the appointment of Charles Evans Hughes to succeed him are the beginning of a reorganization of the Supreme Court.

Already three of the remining eight members are eligible for retirement, and two more will be eligible in two years. While vacancies can be forced only by impeachment proceedings by Congress, based on disqualification, it is reasonably certain that during his present administration President Hoover will have the appointment of a majority of the members. Should President Hoover be reelected, probably only one of the present members of the court, Justice Stone, will be on the bench at the close of his second administration.

Justices Holmes, Van Devanter and Brandeis are now eligible for retirement, all of them having reached the prescribed age of 70 and having served ten years on the bench. Justice Holmes has remained on the bench because of his deep interest in his judicial duties and because he feels that his work is beneficial to his health. He feels that, should he retire, the release from the exactions of his office might hasten death.

Brandeis Strong for Age.

Justice Brandeis remains on the bench because of his keen interest in the work. He is exceptionally strong for his age and would, under ordinary conditions, be expected to remain there several years longer.

Justice Van Devanter became eligible for retirement last spring, and is likely to be the first of the three eligible members to retire. Justice Holmes' health remains remarkable for one of his advanced age, but, under the most favorable circumstances, it is regarded as doubtful whether he can remain more than a year or two. He will be 89 in March.

Justice McReynolds and Sutherland both will be eligible for retirement in two years. Justice McReynolds may be expected to resign soon after becoming eligible, and may not remain that long.

Justice Sutherland is in poor health. On several occasions he has been forced to absent himself from the bench because of illness. While he is now in better physical condition than for a year or more, it is a serious question in the minds of his friends whether he will be able to remain on the bench until he is eligible for retirement.

Sanford Eligible in Five Years.

Justice Sanford will be eligible for retirement in five years, and Justice Butler in six. It will be thirteen years, however, before Justice Stone will reach the retirement age of 70.

Much speculation is developed as to the character of the court, which is reasonably certain to be organized by President Hoover.

Judge Hughes' selection as Chief Justice will leave the court divided as at present on all questions of national importance. This is particularly true in such matters as rate regulation of railroads and public utilities, although as counsel he recently urged upon the court a construction of the methods which the Interstate Commerce Commission should follow in railroad valuation for rate-making purposes which the court did not follow.

Dry Attitude Unchanged.

Should subsequent appointments which are bound to follow during this administration be of the character of that made yesterday, the court's general attitude will remain what is termed conservative by some and reactionary by others.

Judge Hughes' views on prohibition are much in line with those of the retiring Chief Justice, and his selection is expected to cause no change in the attitude of the court on that much-discussed question.

Chief Justice Taft is the fourth to hold that high office to resign. The first Chief Justice, John Jay, resigned to become Governor of New York; Chief Justice Rutledge, who was not confirmed by the Senate, resigned after presiding over the August, 1799, term of the court, and Chief Justice Ellsworth resigned after a few years' service to become Minister to France. The other six Chief Justices died in office.

TAFT, "PRETTY SICK," LEAVES FOR HOME

gers and curious onlookers gathered at the station and watched him silently as he was assisted from his automobile and with the aid of his physician, who braced him from behind, pulled himself slowly up to the car platform.

The announcement that he would leave Asheville came as a surprise this morning. It had been believed that he would remain here for some weeks longer but in a statement issued here this afternoon, Dr. Hagner said Mr. Taft is "very weak and not improving and as he is not improving we feel that it would be safer to get him back to Washington."

During the day, announcement was made in Washington that he had resigned as Chief Justice. Dr. Hagner would not permit reporters, who sought a statement, to see Mr. Taft. The former Chief Justice, however, sent word by a member of his party that he had no comment to make.

Speaking of Mr. Taft's condition, Dr. Hagner said that "for the first ten days after coming to Asheville, he improved but since that time he has not been doing so well."

Dr. Hagner referred to his charge as a "pretty sick man."

The trip to the railway station this afternoon was uneventful. He walked out of his hotel assisted by both nurse and physicians and after getting in the automobile robes were tucked around him.

By request of his party, there was no escort of motorcycle policemen such as accompanied his automobile through the streets on his arrival here.

At the station the automobile was driven through the gates and under one of the sheds until it was almost touching the train.

Throughout the three weeks Mr. Taft has been in Asheville he has remained in seclusion, seeing no visitors and not even reading his own mail. He has taken daily automobile rides and on several occasions short walks.

He was brought here in an effort to recuperate from an old organic ailment.

Duties of Two Highest Jobs Compared by Justice Taft

Only Man to Be Both President and Supreme Court Head Says Executive's Position Is More Nerve-wracking Than Bench Experience.

(Associated Press.)

Being the only man to hold the exalted offices of President and Chief Justice, William Howard Taft alone has had opportunity from personal experience to compare the duties and demands imposed by those offices.

"If one is constituted like an ordinary man," he once said, "life in the Presidency, while not presenting as hard mental and intellectual labor as that of Chief Justice, does enormously consume nervous energy, and is greatly more trying than work on the bench. At least that was my experience.

"The difference between the exactions of the two offices is that in work on the bench you have the assistance of your colleagues, who share the responsibility of the decisions. You have the benefit of oral arguments by counsel, briefs submitted on both sides of the controversy, and control of your time for careful study.

"In the Presidency you often have to make a decision on the instant or overnight, when the risk of faulty judgment is great. Often the President is required to reach his decision without being fully advised, and frequently without an opportunity to consult his Cabinet.

"The Presidency attracts in the sense of authority one is supposed in that high office to exercise, and there are those who greatly enjoy its constant exercise. But even in the strongest, it takes much out of a man, and the strain of office is felt long after retirement to private life.

"I do not mind what sometimes is called the monastic life of the bench, and, as I have stated, the duties of the President are more exacting, difficult and nerve racking than those of Chief Justice."

PRECEDENT IS SET IN HUGHES SELECTIO

New Yorker Is First Former Supreme Court Member to Preside There.

HAS HAD ACTIVE CAREER

(Associated Press.)

When Charles Evans Hughes takes the oath as Chief Justice of the United States, he will be the first man in history to have resigned to preside over that august tribunal after once having resigned from its membership.

Tempted by the Presidency, he reentered private life in 1916, after six years on the highest bench. Th Republican ticket he headed was defeated by Woodrow Wilson, and Mr. Hughes began again to practice law.

As an outstanding leader in national and international affairs, he has been prominent in many movements and tireless in his efforts. In addition, he has repeatedly argued cases before the bench where he once sat as a judge and which he now will lead.

During the Washington naval limitations conference, as Secretary of State, he dealt confidently with the vast and complex forces of armament and war. During the period of European rehabilitation, he adroitly employed the force of American public opinion to bring the allies into agreement.

In March, 1925, he took up the mending of his private fortunes, and since then has been frequently before the Supreme Court as counsel in important cases as well as in aiding the court as special master in solving some of the problems. He has been acting in that capacity in the dispute over diversion of water from Lake Michigan.

As Chief Justice, Mr. Hughes will be disqualified to sit in the decision of any of the cases in which he had been counsel, and will be unable to participate in the final decision of the lake diversion case in which he acted as special master.

Teacher, 62, Is Barred From Retirement Fund

Holding the compulsory leave of absence imposed by the board of Education, following her refusal to be examined by the medical inspectors, had broken the continuity of her service, Comptroller General McCarl yesterday ruled that Ursuline V. Brooks, 62, colored school teacher, was not entitled to the privileges of Government retirement and could not be paid the money to her credit in the retirement fund.

When she refused to submit to the examination, the woman was granted a "compulsory leave of absence by the Board of Education on March 1, 1923," his decision explained. She has not taught in the District school system since, but upon attaining the age of 62 last August 29, she requested to be retired under the law providing for retirement of teachers. She taught in the schools of the District for more than 25 years.

LEGISLATORS PRAISE BOTH TAFT, HUGHES

Regret Over Resignation of Former Mingles With Welcome of Latter.

(Associated Press.)

Regret over the voluntary withdrawal of Chief Justice Taft from public life was mingled last night with praise for his successor, Charles Evans Hughes, as official Washington discussed the rapid-fire developments that made the one a private citizen and brought the other for a second time upon the Supreme bench.

Among the scores of persons who expressed regret for the retirement of Mr. Taft was Vice President Curtis.

"I am sorry, indeed, to hear that the Chief Justice regarded his physical condition such as he thought it necessary to resign," he said. "I hope that the relief from the work of the bench will enable him to regain his health."

Work in Past Praised.

Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the Republican floor leader, said, "Knowledge of his condition brings profound regret."

"He is a noble man and he has performed much public service well," he added.

Republicans and Democrats in the Senate and the House joined in commending the selection of Mr. Hughes for the post.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, referred to Mr. Hughes as "an able lawyer and an outstanding jurist."

"The President could have done no better," he said.

Wise Selection, Says Longworth.

Speaker Longworth said: "The President made a wise selection in appointing Mr. Hughes, who has distinguished himself as one of the most illustrious legal minds in the country."

Senator Swanson (Democrat), Virginia, lauded the Hughes appointment as "very good."

"He has had an illustrious career," Swanson said. "He is intellectually and morally well equipped."

Senator Jones (Republican), Washington, said: "The President couldn't have made a better selection."

Senator Caraway (Democrat), Arkansas, said: "I think Mr. Hughes has ability and will make a great Chief Justice." He also expressed belief that "the country as a whole will approve of the nomination."

Norris Predicts Unanimous Report.

Senator Norris, of Nebraska, chairman of the judiciary committee, predicted a unanimous report for him from his committee.

Senator Johnson (Republican), California, said: "I have no comment to make. He will be confirmed instanter. There is no question of that."

Senator Fess (Republican), Ohio, pronounced it "an ideal appointment from every standpoint."

Representative Snell (Republican), New York, said: "He brings to that bench that great ability and legal attainment of which he has such masterly possession. There is no question that his appointment will meet the approval of the people of this country."

Chance for Late Entrants In Post Drive Pointed Out

Warmer Weather Permits Those Just Realizing Opportunities of Contest to Catch Up With First Comers Afflicted With Spring Fever.

"The Weather Man sure did give you a 'break,'" said a reporter as Old Man Opportunity strolled into the city room arrayed in white flannels topped by a straw hat.

"I'm not so sure of that," answered Joe. "It seems now that all the candidates have spring fever. At least I haven't heard that any have been showing unusual activity today. But let's wait for C. D. Chance to come in. Perhaps he will have an encouraging report."

Shortly thereafter, Chance's police dog dashed madly into the room, chasing a piece of "Kosher" pork which was attached to a stick projecting forward from his collar. Around and around the room he went, vainly trying to reach the meat with his watering jaws until the reporter took pity on him and cut the string with a pair of shears.

"What's the idea of treating the dog like that?" he asked as he turned to Chance who was stacking a pair of oars in a corner.

"Necessity," returned Chance. "In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love, and this young gentleman-dog deserted me all day and spent his time with a beautiful young, blond collie, living out in Chevy Chase."

"What's that got to do with this piece of meat?" queried Opportunity.

"The way to a man's heart is through his stomach," quoted Chance, "and I didn't want to lose the dog just yet, so I fastened this gadget on his collar and aimed it toward The Post Building."

"All's fair in love and war," acknowledged Opportunity, "but tell me. How did you make out with my $20,000 Post Campaign today?"

"Fine, Chief," replied Chance. "You may make the finest offer in the world, but it takes C. D. Chance to show men and women how it applies to them.

"You know, many people have the mistaken idea that if they were not among those who first sent in their nominations there is no possibility of their winning. But I took along the list of candidates today and showed how few contestants were really active, and how energetic men and women could make use of 100,000 extra votes to be given for each $20 worth of new subscriptions turned in before 9 p. m. on February 19. Most of my prospects realized right away that by getting the members of their circle of acquaintances to subscribe to The Post through them, they could exceed the present highest total of votes, possibly within a week's time."

"Any one who doesn't enter this campaign must be as blind as the front of a speak-easy," remarkekd the reporter. "If I wasn't barred, as an employe of The Post, I would enter myself."

"Maybe if the boss sees you with your feet on his desk, you will be able to enter," suggested Opportunity.

"I shall pass myself off as a paperweight," said the reporter. "If that pup can masquerade as a police dog, my disguise is perfect."

"If you'll pull an oar," announced Chance as he arose to go, "I'll ferry you fellows over to the lunch counter."

TARIFF FIGHT TURNS TO DUTIES ON DYES

Repeal of Postwar Rates on Coal-Tar Products Urged by La Follette.

(Associated Press.)

Reaching the important section of the tariff bill, which continues, in effect, the postwar policy of basing duties on coal-tar dyes and medicinal products on American valuation, the Senate yesterday heard monopoly charges against both the American and European chemical industries in arguments for and against repeal of the section. A vote probably will be reached today.

Arguing for repeal, Senator La Follette (Republican Independent), Wisconsin, said the American dye and chemical companies were engaged in "combinations to fix prices and to control the American market." He declared use of the American instead of foreign valuation provided an embargo against foreign dyes, and that domestic producers not only supplied 94 per cent of the American market and made huge profits, but exported dyes at prices below those charged in this country.

Hatfield Urges Continuation.

Senator Hatfield (Republican), West Virginia, urged continuance of the present valuation formula in the interest of national defense and protection from what he termed the European "monopoly" built up by the German I. G. He read Government reports asserting the European combination was organized to fix prices and said if there were any price fixing in this country, he would side with the Americans rather than the Europeans.

Both parties are expected to be divided on the vote on the coal-tar paragraphs. Some Democrats feel that to vote for repeal would be inconsistent with the wishes of the late President Wilson, who urged an embargo on German dyestuffs after the war and called upon Congress to enact high tariffs to build up a domestic industry.

Harrison for Retention.

Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, one of those favoring retention of American valuation, prepared an amendment providing for an investigation and report by the Tariff Commission by January 1, 1932, on rates on the dyes and chemicals in question converted into ad valorems based on foreign valuation, but carrying the same degree of protection as now in force under American valuation.

Under the proposal, the commission also would be asked to ascertain whether there exists abroad "any cartel, trust, combination, or association," in the coal-tar products, the effect thereof on international commerce, and the extent to which prices are affected.

Speaking for more than four hours, Senator Hatfield made his maiden address by attacking as "full of efforts and gross misstatements" a speech on the chemical schedule delivered by Senator La Follette last September and appealing for no change in the existing rates or valuation.

Boy Goes on Soda Orgy After Theft

Paroled Lad, 9, Robs Filling Station and is Brought in by Armed Guard.

Escorted by a heavily-armed Maryland policeman, a 9-year-old boy was brought into Detective Headquarters yesterday and accused of violating Juvenile Court parole by robbing a gasoline filling station at Cottage City, Md.

"I've seen it done in the movies and it looked easy," the boy explained to Detective Sergt. James Kane when asked why he took $20 from the filling station.

After a week-end "orgy" of motion pictures, sodas, candy and other luxuries, the boy was captured by Constable H. L. McCormick, of the Maryland force. Police said he freely admitted taking $20 from the filling station office and had spent $10 of the amount when captured.

With a meancing revolver swinging at his side, McCormick stalked into the Detective Headquarters with his prisoner at his side. The boy was accompanied by his mother. According to police, the boy was recently placed on probation by Judge Kathryn Sellers in Juvenile Court for a similar offense. He was held for action of the Juvenile Court.

The committee also favorably reported the nomination of Andrew B. Dunsmore to be Federal attorney for the Middle District of Pennsylvania.

FRAUDULENT TRADE LAID TO FIRM HERE

S. W. Hood and B. H. Wills Sued for $1,900 by Virginia Woman Investor.

ATTORNEY FEES ASKED

Samuel W. Wood and B. Hansford Wills, operating as partners of B. Hansford Wills Co., Barr Building, 910 Seventeenth street northwest, yesterday were sued in the District Supreme Court by Mrs. Fredericka E. Thoma, of Warrenton, Va., for $1,900 damages resulting from an alleged fraudulent stock transaction.

Mrs. Thoma's complaint, filed through her attorney, Raymond M. Hudson, states that the defendants on April 30, 1928, sold her 160 shares of a good dividend-paying stock for $2,000, and that having gained her confidence through this transaction, approached her at her home on January 9, 1929, and induced her to exchange her shares for two $1,000 bonds of another company and $100 in cash.

She asserts that the defendants told her that the bonds were worth $2,000 and were selling at that price on the market. That evening, after talking the transaction over with her husband, she became suspicious, the bill states, and endeavored to cancel the exchange the following morning by telephone. She was told, however, that the stock had been sold and the transfer already made on the company's books.

Mrs. Thoma alleges that the stock had not been sold, and never has been, and that the bonds for which it was exchanged could not be sold or used as security for loans in any bank. She has been informed, the bill states, that the defendants paid only $10 per 100 for them.

The bill cites the Virginia security law, under which it contends the defendants were not qualified to deal in securities in the State, and that the corporation whose bonds she received was a foreign concern that had not been granted permission for the sale of its securities in Virginia, as reasons why the transaction should be voided. Mrs. Thoma also asks $500 for attorney's fee, in addition to cost.

Golden Eagle Captured By Ranger in Maryland

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., Feb. 3.—A huge golden eagle, rare in these parts, was caught in a fox trap in Path Valley north of here by John Ziegler, forest ranger, who had seen the big bird feeding upon a deer carcass several days before.

The bird put up a terrific fight before it was securely tied.

Woman Sues Sister-in-Law, Charging Alienation of Mate's Affections.

POISONED MIND, CLAIM

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Charging alienation of her husband's affections, Mrs. Mary Ball today filed suit in Circuit Court here for $1,000,000 damages against her former sister-in-law, Mrs. Jessie Ball du Pont, and the latter's husband, Alfred I. du Pont.

Although the bill of complaint made the charges specifically against Mrs. du Pont, Gordon McCauley, attorney for Mrs. Ball, explained that under the law it was necessary to name Mr. du Pont jointly with his wife in the litigation. Twelve counts were contained in the suit.

Mrs. Ball was divorced about two years ago from her husband, Thomas Ball, a Los Angeles attorney.

The suit charged that Mrs. du Pont "maliciously poisoned and prejudiced the mind of Mrs. Ball's husband against her by telling him false stories about Mrs. Ball," and that she "wrongfully, wickedly and maliciously enticed, influenced and induced" Ball to abandon his wife.

It was also set forth that Mrs. du Pont had "degraded" Mrs. Ball among the latter's associates and acquaintances and had charged Mrs. Ball of being "poor white trash, extravagant, wasteful and suspicious of her husband."

The suit further set forth that while Ball was in a Redlands, Calif., hospital in May, 1927, suffering from injuries received in an automobile accident, Mrs. du Pont took charge of her brother and refused Mrs. Ball the privileges of caring for him as she desired. Mrs. Ball also charged that Mrs. du Pont took Ball to Baltimore and refused to deliver messages from Mrs Ball to her husband.

Mrs. du Pont also was alleged to have encouraged Ball to abandon his wife and finally divorce her "on statements and representations and charges against Mrs. Ball which were untrue."

CHICAGO GANG'S FOE ESCAPES BOMB PLOT

ROW OF STORES BLASTED

Chicago, Feb. 3 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Racketeers and gangsters, annoyed by the activities of Pat Roche, chief investigator of the State's attorney's office, made the second attempt today to dispose of him. Last week a garage employe routed two gangsters who were wiring a dynamite bomb to the starter of Roche's car.

Today's effort displayed more cunning. A mysterious telephone call to Roche said a stolen car had been hidden near a church and that by quick action he might get it before the thieves came for it.

The theory was, of course, that Roche would get into the big car and drive it to the police station. Instead, he drove to the spot with two of his deputies, and they carefully went over the abandoned car, finally discovering a bomb 2 feet long loaded with dynamite. It was wired to the starter and had the machine been started would have smashed everything within a radius of a half-block.

Cincinnati Paper Found.

Further examination of the automobile, after it had been towed to a station, disclosed a Cincinnati paper bearing a September date and addressed to Dr. E. A. Leroy. Search for him is under way.

Meanwhile, police and other authorities continued the search for bombers who blew up three stores, hurled many people from their beds, and did damage of $100,000.

A band of high-pressure grocery "salesmen," headed by the North Side gang chief, Joe Aiello, is the especial object of a search by Roche and his men. This gang is suspected of planting a bomb that wrecked a row of stores at 3 o'clock this morning. Windows were broken for many blocks and a hundred families were driven in terror to the streets.

Two Stores Wrecked Recently.

Only a few days ago bombers wrecked the big grocery store of J. J Cullotta and that of Clement Jesutis.

Gangsters have been circulating among Italian and other grocers demanding that all supplies be bought through them. In several instances supplies were left over the protests of the merchants, who were forced to pay for them. It is assumed that Cullotta, Jesutis and the others refused to pay, resulting in the bombings of their establishments.

Bombings so far this year have caused loss of $200,000. All last year's bombings caused damage of only $197,000.

His wife and daughter died within the past few years.

NEW MAN ENTERS DREYFUS MYSTERY

MAY BE CALLED HERE

added that the report would be thoroughly investigated today.

Two detectives of the New York police force will appear before the Grand Jury here today to relate the past life of Mr. McBrien, New York broker.

Mr. Burkinshaw spent several days last week in New York interviewing numerous persons whom he thought might be able to cast some light on the relations between McBrien and Mrs. Dreyfus, in view of the belief expressed by members of the girl's family that she had been slain because she knew too much about the death, in 1923, of Dot Xing, "Broadway butterfly."

The two sleuths were the principal investigators in the King murder mystery, in which Mrs. Dreyfus established an alibi for Albert E. Guimares, the King girl's Porto Rican lover, who had been taken into custody in connection with her murder. Later, according to affidavits signed by members of Mrs. Dreyfus' family, the girl told her mother and sisters that the alibi which she gave for Guimares was false and that she had been forced by McBrien to perjure herself.

Hides Witnesses' Identity.

Mr. Burkinshaw yesterday refused to divulge the identity of the two New York witnesses, but admitted when questioned that "they are thoroughly familiar with McBrien's activities and his relations with Mrs. Dreyfus." Among the 22 witnesses still waiting to testify are several others who will tell the grand jury of frequent occasions upon which McBrien is reported to have beaten Mrs. Dreyfus and otherwise abused her, the most recent occasion being at the dance a short time before the fatal fall.

Seventeen persons testified at the opening of the investigation yesterday. None of these, however, were regarded as "key" witnesses. They were Dr J. Ramsey Nevitt, coroner, and his assistant, Dr. Joseph D. Rogers; Dr John Schwarzmann, Dr. Thomas W. Mattingly and Miss Virginia Leftwich, nurse, all of Emergency Hospital, who attended Mrs. Dreyfus after her plunge in a vain effort to save her life; Policemen E. L. Taylor, Frank Stroman and Norman Hodkinson, and Capt. Morris Collins, of the Seventh Precinct; Headquarters Detectives George E. Darnall, Joseph F. Waldron, Ben Keuhling and Arthur Fihelly, who investigated the tragedy.

Also heard yesterday were Charles B. Eaton, Louis H. Hoelman and W Otis Biggs, who were present at the tragedy and rushed Mrs. Dreyfus to the hospital, and George Duvall, embalmer, who prepared her body for burial. Duvall told the grand jury that he had not seen any fingerprints on Mrs. Dreyfus' neck.

Five Saw Finger Marks, Claim.

Among the witnesses to be heard today, on the other hand, are five persons, in addition to members of the Fischer family who will testify that they saw and discussed what appeared to be finger marks on Mrs. Dreyfus' neck when they looked at her body as it lay in its casket at the funeral services. These witnesses are Mrs. Maud Davis and her daughter, Suzanne; Mrs. Mabel Masi, Mrs. Sara Warnke and Mrs. Marion Coster.

Members of Mrs. Dreyfus' immediate family were at the courthouse all day yesterday, but were not called into the jury room. They are scheduled to be heard today. These include Miss Freda Fischer, Mrs. Louise Reinberger, Mrs. Elsa Knorr and Mrs. Johanna McNamee, sisters of the dead girl; William and Helmuth Fischer, her brothers, and Mrs. Carl Fischer, her mother.

Other important witnesses to be heard today include Anna Leonard, who was on the Boat Club balcony at the time Mrs. Dreyfus fell to a boat landing 20 feet below, and Doris Myers Wildman, leader of the orchestra which played for the dance.

Jury Completed to Try Youth in Bank Shooting

Bowling Green, Ky., Feb. 3 (A.P.). The jury to try James Elmer Grayson, charged with the murder of J Robert Kirby after a bank robbery, was completed today and court was adjourned until tomorrow after the indictment had been read. Motion for a change of venue was overruled before the jury was chosen.

Grayson, only 21 years old, confessed, according to county officers, that he and two other men robbed the Oakland, Ky., bank of approximately $1,500, but denied that he had any part in the slaying of Kirby, president of the Farmers Bank at Smith Grove, who, with several other men, tried to halt the robbers as they fled from Oakland.

FRENCH NAVAL MEN RAP PARIS SEA PLAN

Tonnage Transfer Regarded by Experts as Aid to Italians.

ONE BIG CLASS URGED

London, Feb. 3 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Cleavage of opinion between statesmen and naval experts on the French delegation to the London naval conference has been developing over the question of whether the French proposal for a compromise between the rival methods of limiting navies—by total tonnage or by types of fighting ships—is really to the advantage of France.

As a result of a certain coolness which the French naval experts have been manifesting toward permitting transfers of tonnage from one class of ship to another, the delegation as a whole is much less determined to support its own plan than when the outline of it was circulated among the other delegations Friday. Discussion of this plan and of the British counter-proposal, but forward today, was expected to occupy most of the time of the conference session to open tomorrow in St. James' Palace.

Danger to France Seen.

French naval experts are beginning to see the proposed transfer privileges envisaged in their delegation's scheme as useful to Italy and dangerous for France in the Mediterranean. Since France first advocated such transfer rights at Geneva, naval experts have been arguing to the political members of their own delegation, the French navy has begun to take form under a new building program and France, instead of considering herself as a minor naval power, must consider herself one of the major sea powers and, though fourth in strength, not separated from the others by such a wide gap as to be longer much inferior, at least potentially. By pushing the transfer idea, the experts contend, the French delegation would therefore simply be helping the Italians and making future trouble for themselves.

Objections by other delegations to transfer privileges, or strict limitation of such privileges is going to worry the French—at least French naval men, considerably less than otherwise might be the case.

The French proposal has, however, another angle in which the French are specially interested and which they are particularly eager to put over, although it does not look likely that they will be able to do so: First, they want one category to include all vessels of 10,000 tons or over or vessels carrying 8-inch guns, including battleships.

They have two reasons for not making a distinction within this class; they want to get away from the Washington ratios, to remove the inferiority implied by them, and at the same time open the way for the French to bring forward a type of vessel designed to meet Germany's Ersatz Preussen type of which Germany is entitled under the treaty of Versailles to build six.

Opposition Was Foreseen.

The determination of other delegations to prevent any grouping of heavy cruisers with battleships, already apparent, was anticipated by the French and they hardly expect to carry their point in the face of immediate British and Japanese opposition and a probable similar attitude on the part of the Americans later. By sticking to their position for a while the French hope to draw whatever advantage they can from disputing the Washington ratios.

Their stand is based on realistic reasoning also, the French argue, as the Ersatz Preussen has in fact changed technical divisions and it is necessary to revalue all armored vessels in the light of present advances in naval construction.

The French are pleased, in consequence, at the American delay, made known today, in taking a definite position respecting the French proposal as they believe the Americans will help in working out a compromise between themselves on one side and the British and Japanese on the other, and also will help remove the prejudice to the French position caused by the Washington treaty ratios.

Canned Fruits and Soap Stolen.

A dozen cases of assorted canned vegetables and fruits and several boxes of soap were discovered stolen from the warehouse of the J. E. Dyer Co., at 3336 M street northwest yesterday by Judson R. Creecy, shipping clerk of the firm. The robbers gained entrance over the week-end by smashing the lock of a rear door.

BRITISH OFFER NEW NAVAL POWER CURB

Plan Is Counter Proposal to One Put Forward by French Group.

FIVE CATEGORIES RATED

London, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—The British delegation to the naval conference late today circulated to American, French, Italian and Japanese delegations a counter proposal to the French plan.

A British spokesman announced that the British plan was intended to widen the scope of discussions in a spirit of conciliation and agreement. The French delegates, after being informed of its details, accepted the proposal as such. They expressed the opinion that general disarmament discussions would be advanced thereby.

The British plan recognizes the ultimate necessity of the five great sea power nations fixing a total tonnage for each navy. This is in complete agreement with the French plan.

The feature of the British plan is that it divides seacraft into five categories instead of six, as in the French plan.

An important point in the British plan is that cruisers are not lumped together in the same category, but under the two headings of 8-inch guns and 6-inch guns craft.

There is provided a very limited transfer downward in the large cruiser class, but in the 6-inch class there is provided a 100 per cent transfer downward to destroyers under certain circumstances which have not yet been disclosed.

Under such a system tonnage could be transferred from a cla. of larger ships into a class of smaller ships, but not from the smaller class to the larger.

The British plan leaves the categories of battleship and aircraft carriers with no provision for the transfer of tonnage. The submarine class also is stationary. The five classes under the plan are:

(1) Capital ships.
(2) Aircraft carriers.
(3) Cruisers.
  (A) Eight-inch cruisers.
  (B) Six-inch cruisers.
(4) Destroyers.
(5) Submarines.

Death of Woman Hit By Auto Held Accident

A verdict of accidental death was returned in the case of Gladys Brooke, 44 years old, of the Cathedral Mansion Apartments, secretary to G. L. Boothe, president of the First National Bank, Alexandria, Va., yesterday by a coroner's jury at an inquest in the District Morgue.

The verdict exonerated Dr. Percy L. Hodges, driver of the automobile, which struck the woman as she was crossing the street near her home on Saturday night.

the discussions will be "an island of global tonnage in a sea of categories."

The British proposal for a compromise within a compromise provides that there shall be two categories of cruisers, 8-inch gun cruisers and 6-inch gun cruisers, and that transference shall be permitted between cruisers carrying guns of less than 6 inches and the destroyer class, but not otherwise, and that no destroyer tonnage shall be used for submarines. There is a wide gulf between this and the French desire for greater elasticity and for transfers both upward and downward. It remains to be seen how this gulf can be bridged.

Briton Ignores French Hint.

It was considered remarkable, especially by the French, that the British reply to the French memorandum makes no reference to the French hint that their basis of elasticity might be accepted for smaller navies and that Great Britain, the United States and Japan might make stricter rules among themselves. More will be heard of this ingenious idea, but it is not welcomed by the British, whose admiralty experts have their eyes on the French building program and demand exact figures.

In an American quarter tonight a hint was conveyed that the American interest in this question of transfers up and down within categories is largely in the attitude of Great Britain toward it, since British interest in the French navy affects the parity issue. For this reason it was said that Secretary Stimson will have no figures to present and only noncommittal views to express at tomorrow's committee meeting.

The fuss has died down over First Lord of the Admiralty Albert V. Alexander's ultraquiet method of announcing a cut in the British naval program this year—by burying the decision in an appendix to the British Congressional Record so that only one parliamentary correspondent saw it and the rest of the London press got scooped.

May Scrap Four Cruisers.

Definite statement is made by the London Times, and a hint of confirmation was given today by a British spokesman, that four highly controversial cruisers of the Hawkins class are to be scrapped.

These are vessels of 9,800 tons each carrying 7.5-inch guns and have been the subject of much heartburning among American admirals because they are so nearly, and yet not quite, Washington treaty cruisers. They represent, therefore, great difficulties to application of a naval yardstick.

Their disappearance before 1936, the year of Anglo-American parity, would leave Great Britain, if she built no more cruisers until then, with 40 cruisers. The admiralty has announced a British minimum of 50 cruisers.

Elementary arithmetic shows that the British will, therefore, lay down ten new cruisers to be completed by 1936, which means that ten will be started within three years since cruisers take three years to build.

The Americans aren't going to object to this 50 cruiser program, but there will be argument about how many of them are to be of the 8-inch gun Washington treaty type. Present American plans are based on fifteen Washington treaty cruisers for Great Britain. The admiralty will press for at least seventeen if the United States builds 21.

Air Crashes Kill One, Hurt Another

Two Mail Pilots Victims of Wrecks in New York and Connecticut.

New York, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Two air mail planes of the Colonial Air Transport Co. crashed in the East today, one at Hartford, Conn., and the other near Silver Creek, N. Y.

Carey E. Pridham, 29, of Lexington, Mass., carrying mail from Newark to Boston, was killed when he misjudged his altitude in landing at Brainard Field, Hartford, and hit an observation platform. The impact tore the left wing from his plane, and the wreck landed in the Connecticut river upside down.

Ernest E. Basham, who carries mail between Cleveland and Buffalo, was injured as his disabled plane crashed into a grove near Silver Creek, before daylight. He stood by his mail cargo until it was light enough for him to find his way out of the woods, delivered it at the nearest postoffice, and then collapsed and was taken to a hospital unconscious.

Man Germans Hold For U. S. Escapes

Sandowski, With Long List of Criminal Charges, Scales Wall.

Berlin, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Herbert Sandowski, notorious international crook wanted by the American police for robbery, added another prison escape today to his already long record of getaways.

Profiting by a moment when he was unobserved, he scaled the high wall of the Tagel Penitentiary. He was serving a 3½ years' sentence for inciting a convicts' rebellion at Kottbus Penitentiary prior to being extradited to the United States.

Sandowski was said by police to have stolen hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of jewelry in New York, Palm Beach and elsewhere. He was alleged to have broken out of jail at Palm Beach and also to have escaped from Sing Sing while serving a 7-year term for burglary. While Sandowski was in jail, a Mrs Taylor, of New York, notified police that she was owner of a necklace of 864 pearls found in Sandowski's loot.

Gala Party Marks End of Auto Show

1930 Event Characterized by Largest Crowds as Well as Heaviest Sales.

Following a triumphal run which was characterized by the largest crowds, the keenest public interest, and the heaviest sales recorded for any similar exposition, the tenth annual automobile show held under the auspices of the Washington Automotive Trade Association, was brought to a gala close at the Auditorium last night.

Favored by splended weather yesterday, a capacity throng visited the Auditorium. Extended two days beyond the scheduled week due to intense public interest, it was estimated by Rudolph Jose, chairman of the committee in charge, that substantially more than 80,000 persons attended the exposition. The attendance thus ran well ahead of last year.

Members of the show committee and exhibitors generally, were agreed that the 1930 show was the most successful ever held in Washington. In addition to Mr. Jose, the show committee this year included Raphael Semmes, Frank G. Stewart, and J. E. Dugan.

$15,000 Damage Suit Filed in Auto Collision

A suit for $15,000 damages against Joseph Keys, of the Highlands Apartments, was filed in the District Supreme Court yesterday by Harriet Eck, of Pittsburgh, Pa., for alleged personal injuries received in an automobile collision May 29, on the Shenandoah Valley Pike, near Edinburg, Va.

The plaintiff, through her attorneys, Ellis, Ferguson, Houghton & Gary, charges Keys with carelessness and negligence in operating his vehicle, and with driving it while one of the brakes was faulty. She alleges that she suffered severe and permanent injuries.

OKLAHOMA OFFICIAL QUITS IN BRIBE CASE

Aid of Attorney General Accused of Rum Graft, Resigns High Post.

COUNTY OFFICERS IN NET

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—The resignation of W. O. Gordon, assistant attorney general of Oklahoma, who was accused by a witness in Federal district court today of accepting bribes for withholding prosecution of Earlsboro City officers, was announced today by W. A. Murphy, ranking assistant attorney general.

Murphy made the announcement after a telephone conversation with J. Berry King, attorney general, who is in Austin, Tex. He said King had "requested, received and accepted" Gordon's resignation.

Homer Knappenberger, former Mayor of Earlsboro, testified today at the trial of 30 persons charged with conspiring to violate Federal liquor laws that he had paid Gordon a total of $2,300 when Gordon threatened to expose him for accepting protection money from bootleggers.

Testimony today also implicated the present sheriff of Pottawatomie County and the chief of police of Shawnee.

Two More Plead Guilty.

The ranks of the defendants in the case were thinned further today by the pleas of guilty of Bill Rigney, former chief of police at Earlsboro, and Ralph Adams, an alleged bootlegger. Twenty-seven of the 102 persons indicted have pleaded guilty, 30 are on trial, 5 are dead, and the remainder are fugitives.

Former Mayor Knappenberger, who admitted he had accepted protection money, testified to one payment of $1,000 to Gordon at the latter's office in the capitol.

The first payment, Knappenberger said, was in August, 1927, when Gordon was sent to the oil fields by Edwin Dabney, then Attorney General, to investigate reports that law violations were rampant there.

Gordon forced the resignation of Marion Fuller, chief of police, the witness said, but insisted that Knappenberger remain in office, threatening him with prosecution if he resigned.

Says Sheriff Aided Still.

Clarence Burdette involved Frank Stewart, present sheriff of the county. Burdette said Stewart came to his home in Shawnee early in March, 1929, and listened to the former's proposal to establish a large still.

"Stewart told me whatever deal I made with Frank Fox would be all right with him," Burdett testified. Fox was Stewart's predecessor as sheriff.

The still was brought in from Chickasha and put into operation about March 15, 1929, Burdette said.

Testimony that he paid Jim Yoder, chief of police at Shawnee, $250, and Yoder's brother, Ollie, $100 for city protection for January and February, 1929, was brought out in cross-examination of Burdette.

Shots Halt Liquor Car in Hyattsville

Abandoned Truck Coasts Backward Into Auto of Policeman.

Traffic on the Baltimore boulevard at Hyattsville yesterday was paralyzed when several shots were fired by Deputy Sheriff Ralph Brown, of Prince Georges County, at a fleeing truck loaded with alleged liquor. The shots stopped the truck and the occupants jumped out and ran, leaving the truck to coast backwards on the overhead bridge over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks until it collided with the policeman's car.

Brown spotted the alleged rum truck at Riverdale shortly after noon and gave chase. As the truck approached the crest of the overhead bridge, he fired several shots in the air. The occupants stopped the truck and began running. As soon as he could disentangle himself from the cars, Brown struck out in pursuit afoot, but failed to get his men.

The truck was loaded with 1,200 quarts of alleged liquor and was turned over to Federal agents.

have been driving to his home when his machine crashed into the parked machine.

Miss Eleanor Raymond, of 4303 Kansas avenue northwest, said last night that she and her companion, John Ballinger, of 636 South Carolina avenue southeast, saw McCarron crash into the parked car and followed him a short distance along John Marshall.

She said Ballinger, assuming that the other motorist might be a hit-and-run autoist, parked his machine and walked over to McCarron, a short distance away. She said she heard McCarron arguing strongly and that he apparently was infuriated that anyone should quiz him. She said she heard "something about a pistol" and from the machine in which she remained persuaded Ballinger to leave. She said she did not see any policemen, other than McCarron, at the scene and that they drove away at about 15 minutes of 12 o'clock, midnight.

Lieut. J. A. Sullivan, of the Sixth Precinct, declared last night that McCarron remained at the scene of the accident and that he made no resistance to arrest. He was booked at 1:05 o'clock yesterday morning.

Princess of Japan Is Wed To Brother of Emperor

Oldest Reigning House in World Is Joined to Strong Dynasty.

Tokyo (Tuesday), Feb. 4 (A.P.).—Prince Takamatsu, brother of the Emperor of Japan, and Princess Kikuko Tokugawa, granddaughter of the last of the Shoguns, were married at 9 o'clock this morning.

The wedding joins the oldest reigning house in the world and the once all-powerful House of Tokugawa, whose Shogun, established at Yedo, now Tokyo, in 1603, actually ruled the empire during two and a half centuries of peace aloofness from the world, while the emperors lived in cloistered seclusion at Kyoto.

The little 18-year-old girl who became Princess Takamatsu today is the granddaughter of the fourteenth and last of the dynasty, Keiki, who handed back the power to the imperial house in 1868.

Prince and Princess Takamatsu will be the first Japanese imperial couple to journey abroad for their honeymoon. In April they are to sail for England, by way of the Suez Canal, and in June will make a visit of state at the British court.

chairman of the campaign. "On the fourth day of the campaign we received only $75,162.67, as compared to $72,253.34 on the fourth day last year. As the fourth day came on Saturday last year, and on Monday this year, giving a week-end in favor of this year's campaign, the results should have been much greater if we are to reach our goal.

"True," he continued, "we are far ahead of the sum in hand on the fourth day last year, which was $833,166.61, but we must consider that this year the special gifts committee has raised approximately $799,000, or $195,000 more than was raised in special gifts last year. In its three last days last year the special gifts committee added $161,000 more to its total, whereas it will be lucky to get $60,000 in the remaining days of the present campaign."

Statement by Chairmen.

Mr. Poole declared that the workers are displaying fine spirit, despite weather handicaps, but added that:

"Unless Washington realizes that there are now 75 organizations in the chest, instead of the 57 last year, and produces corresponding increases in gifts, as well as new gifts, to meet the situation, it will appear as if Washington does not want to be relieved of the 75 appeals that would follow were it not for the Community Chest. The object of organizing the chest was to combine as many appeals as possible into the one gift Washington must realize this and give accordingly, else the chest will not be able to accommodate any more organizations.

"We feel, however, that if our cause is presented properly, Washington will rally in the last few days of the campaign and will subscribe the quota which is necessary to continued existence of the Community Chest."

In reporting for the special gifts committee, which yesterday added $2,945 to its previous total, Chairman Newbold Noyes explained that this group has "skimmed the cream" of its list of prospects, and that gifts from now until the end of the campaign will be more or less in the nature of gleanings.

Work of Stores Cited.

Frank R. Jelleff, reporting for the group solicitation unit, which yesterday turned in $6,373.80, introduced Charles A. Goldsmith, who stated that the larger stores, of which he has charge, are gathering their contributions but are not yet complete. He stated that better and larger reports may be expected from now on.

An address was delivered at the meeting by Rabbi Abram Simon, of the Washington Hebrew Congregation, who paid a striking tribute to the 4,500 workers of the Community Chest army and thanked them personally for what they are doing "to relieve the other more than 500,000 people of the community from the work of raising this money.

Rabbi Simon told the solicitors that whether or not the community at large realizes the burden the chest army is carrying, "I feel that you have conferred a greater benefit on Washington than you know by developing a Community Chest fellowship which has lead to a community feeling among all who believe in Washington and the one great cause which brings us all together."

Exhortation by Rabbi.

The speaker quoted the story of Joshua who "caused the sun to stand still," and explained the miracle by saying that he believed that when Joshua found the time was growing short, he simply redoubled his efforts and worked and fought so hard in the remaining hour of daylight that when the victory came before dusk, it seemed as if the sun really had stood still.

"It is getting on toward the eve of the campaign," he said, "and that means that you must redouble your efforts and work harder so that you will, in effect, cause the sun to stand still until the victory is yours on Thursday night. If the campaign should fail to raise the allotted quota by Thursday, it will not reflect dishonor or discredit on you or on the community at large; the blame will rest on the few who did not give. But I feel that this earnest body of men and women will cause 'the sun to stand still' and that your increased efforts will result in a glorious victory by Thursday night."

By far the greatest share of the collections reported yesterday came through the metropolitan unit, for which its chairman, Merritt O. Chance, reported $65,643.87. This sum, together with the collections reported by the special gifts and group solicitation groups, brought the total to date to $1,035,781.42.

FLYNN FACES LOSS OF JOB AS DRY AID

ficials in Baltimore would make any comment on Capt. Flynn's whereabouts.

Senator Borah, to whom Flynn supplied information about Col. Herbert and Mr. Quinn, was asked last night if he would intercede in the case.

"I know of no means that I have of dealing with the situation," he said. "In my opinion, Capt. Flynn will not be surprised when he is dismissed."

Col. Herbert, now prohibition administrator for the Idaho-Montana district, against whom Capt. Flynn launched his charges, arrived in Washington yesterday afternoon coming from his present headquarters in Helena, Mont., upon summons from the bureau.

Herbert Has Little to Say.

Col. Herbert had very little to say relative to his hurried trip to Washington, other than that he had been ordered here by Commissioner Doran, with whom he has an appointment early this morning. He ventured the information that he expected to be interviewed by both Senators Wheeler and Borah before leaving the city.

Prohibition officials have let it be known that they stand squarely in back of Col. Herbert, notwithstanding the charges of Capt. Flynn, and others "Herbert's transfer to Montana and Idaho was effected for no other reason than in the interests of good administration," said Dr. Doran.

"He is absolutely honest, of that much we are firmly convinced," he said. "However, I don't mind adding that Mr. Herbert has upon occasions fallen down in administrative tact, but his loyalty, zeal, honesty and amenability have never been questioned, except perhaps by those with aspiring motives."

Doran Forecasts Action.

Questioned as to just what action the bureau contemplated in the case of Capt. Flynn, Dr. Doran said: "Flynn was ordered to report to Administrator Stone, at the Baltimore office, this morning. Whether he reported or not is something I do not know. That is being handled by the personnel division. However, if I receive a report that Flynn failed to report charges will immediately be drawn and his name dropped from the rolls."

George S. Billard, in charge of prohibition personnel, said at a late hour yesterday evening that he had been unable to determine whether Capt. Flynn had reported at the Baltimore office or not. However, The Post learned from employes of the Baltimore office that Mr. Flynn had failed to appear.

On another occasion, it is charged, Capt. Flynn had been ordered to report at Richmond, but disregarded the order. Just why disciplinary action was not taken in that instance officials of the bureau would not reveal.

DECEMBER AND MAY WEDDING IS HALTED

Manassas Man, 50, Arrested While Seeking License to Marry Girl, 16.

DIVORCE TANGLE HINTED

December and May were almost wed yesterday at Rockville when the cold unromantic voice of Sheriff J. P. Kerlin, of Manassas, Va., on the telephone in the office of Clayton Watkins, deputy clerk of the Rockville Circuit Court, brought the romance to an untimely end.

Archie Roles, 50 years old, and Catherine Beavers, 16, both of Manassas, were making preliminary answers to secure a marriage license when the phone rang. Watkins answered and the nannounced that the marriage was off. Roles left the office and started back to Manassas without his bride. The girl was given into the charge of Miss Irma Mohr, director of the Montgomery County Social Service League, until Sheriff Kerlin and Deputy Sheriff W. E. Partlow arrived to take her to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Beavers.

Roles was arrested by Constable Michael Lynch when he returned to Manassas. He was to be given a hearing last night on charges of contributing to delinquency of a minor, according to Sheriff Kerlin. The sheriff said that the girl had worked for Roles and that the latter has become infatuated with her to such an extent that he divorced his wife in order to marry the girl. His divorce will not be legal until a little more than a month more, though, the sheriff said, as six months must intervene between the signing of the decree and the final issue.

The Beavers girl left her home this morning with a girl friend, Mary Wheaton, to go downtown in Manassas. She met Roles and the two left in a taxicab for Rockville. The girl's parents heard about the elopment when they found the Wheaton girl without Catherine and immediately set the law in motion to halt the wedding.

WOUNDED CANADIAN BLAMES U. S. PATROL

Shot While on British Soil, Man Alleges; Parliament Inquiry Probable.

AMERICANS DENY FIRING

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Col. S. C. Robinson, member of Parliament for Essex West, announced today he would ask the Canadian government to investigate the shooting of Arthur LaFramboise, of LaSalle, Ontario, British smuggler and alleged alien smuggler, on the Detroit River at 1 a. m. today.

Federal authorities at Detroit denied that LaFramboise had been shot by customs border patrol inspectors, as he charged in a statement made at the Hotel Dieu, Windsor, Ontario.

No Reports Made.

No reports of any shooting have been made to Federal agencies here, they said. Immigration authorities said that LaFramboise has been sought as an alien smuggler on several occasions and may have been wounded in warfare between rival alien smuggling rings.

LaFramboise who suffered two scalp wounds after having, by his own store, assisted a rumrunner in freeing his ice-bound sled from the Detroit River, near Fighting Island, said he was shot while on the Canadian side by two men who wore uniform caps and appeared to be customs officers.

Hit By Two Bullets.

LaFramboise said today that he had driven his automobile out on the ice to help a friend free a load of liquor and had started back when the ice gave way and he abandoned his car which went into the water. He then continued afoot toward the Canadian shore.

The two supposed customs officers hailed him, he said, but as he was on the Canadian side of the boundary he did not stop. The men then started shooting and two of their bullets struck him, he said.

Stolen Chevy Chase Car Seized After Pursuit

In a wild chase of more than 2 miles through the southwest and southeast sections about 10:30 o'clock last night, Fourth Precinct Motorcycle Policeman R. J. Knapp seized a stolen automobile bearing the tag, "Chevy Chase Volunteer Fire Department," when its unidentified Negro driver abandoned the car and escaped at Anacostia road and E street southeast.

The machine, owned by Oliver G. Medler, of 6904 Brookville road, Chevy Chase, was stolen a short time earlier from Fifteenth and G streets northwest where it was parked. The motorcycle policeman sighted the car at Second and Canal street southwest, pulled alongside, and gave pursuit when the machine suddenly shot forward. Knapp reported a half dozen near collisions of the car during the chase.

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Women who prize the modern figure with its subtle, seductive curves—men who would keep that trim, proper figure eat healthfully but not immoderately. Banish excessiveness—eliminate abuses. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. When tempted to excess, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain the lithe, youthful, modern figure.

*Be Moderate!... Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. TWO CHIEF JUSTICES.

With profound regret the public learns that Chief Justice Taft's illness is more serious than had been reported—so serious, indeed, that he has been compelled to lay aside all labors and resign his exalted office.

Mr. Taft's long official career is unique in American history. No other man has been both President and Chief Justice of the United States. His early life, during which he was prosecuting attorney, assistant county solicitor, judge of the Superior Court of Cincinnati and then Federal circuit judge, gave him the best of training for higher posts. After serving as president of the Philippine Commission and as civil governor of the Philippines he was made Secretary of War, and in 1908 he was elected President.

The campaign of 1912 was a melancholy experience for the Republican party, caused by the Bull Moose split which defeated Mr. Taft and placed Woodrow Wilson in the White House. Theodore Roosevelt lived to regret the part he played in 1912. Mr. Taft suffered the bitterness of unmerited defeat, but the manner in which he met this situation earned for him the admiration of Americans of all parties. He was disappointed, but not soured, and manfully took up other tasks. After valuable service for Yale University he was appointed Chief Justice by President Harding in 1921, and the people unanimously applauded the President's action.

No one has ever served the country more faithfully and industriously than the retiring head of the Supreme Court. Mr. Taft faced an enormous burden with increasing litigation piled upon a congested docket. With the help of his colleagues he disposed of this vast accumulation, simplified and expedited the processes of the court, and greatly improved the administration of justice in the Federal courts. He pressed the plan for a new Supreme Court Building, which is now about to materialize. In spite of failing health Chief Justice Taft has performed incessant labors during the last nine years, building solidly upon the broad foundations established by illustrious predecessors. Now he lays down his burdens. It is the hope of every citizen that Mr. Taft will be immediately benefited by his relief from responsibility, and that he will be spared to enjoy well-earned repose.

President Hoover has chosen Charles E. Hughes to be Chief Justice of the United States. Mr. Hughes, like Mr. Taft, has had the benefit of long and varied training for this post. The new Chief Justice is preeminently a jurist. As Associate Justice he demonstrated great abilities. Like Mr. Taft again, Mr. Hughes took in good part his defeat for the Presidency. His career as Secretary of State was most successful. After his retirement he took first rank at the bar. His service as a judge of the International Court is now terminated by his appointment to the Chief Justiceship. That Mr. Hughes will cherish and carry forward the traditions of the Supreme Court goes without saying. A splendid field for usefulness opens before him, and with vigorous health he takes his place with the best wishes of his countrymen.

CHEAP HOSPITAL SERVICE.

Most cities have adequate facilities to care for their indigent ill. Free hospital wards are available to which they may be taken, and the medical profession does not take lightly its responsibility to care for those unable to pay. But between the poor, to whom free medical attention is available, and the well-to-do, is the numerous group of small wage earners. Members of this class will not accept charity, and yet they are unable to pay the price of first-rate medical and hospital attention. To them serious sickness is a disaster, in which the savings of a lifetime are sometimes swept away.

Several projects having as their aim the provision of first-class hospital and medical facilities to those of small income are under way. Not the least interesting of these is the Gotham Hospital in New York. Nearly all the rooms in this institution will be moderately priced, at $3 to $5 a day. There will be inaugurated a group nursing system whereby one special nurse can take care of three or four patients in private rooms, if their condition warrants special attention, and the institution itself will employ a staff of special nurses so that patients will not have to hire them by the day or week. The "extras" that are the discouraging feature of most hospital bills will be conspicuously absent in Gotham Hospital. A moderate fixed charge will be made for use of operating and delivery rooms, laboratory work, special drugs and dressings, &c. Fees for physicians and surgeons will be fixed according to a definite schedule.

Gotham Hospital will not meet expenses. The deficits will be met from the income from a $3,000,000 endowment fund now being raised. So real is the plight of the white collar worker in cases of serious illness to himself or his family that the Nation will watch carefully the Gotham Hospital experiment, in the hope that it will point the way to the solution of a complex problem.

NO DUTY ON OIL.

A delegation of independent oil producers and royalty owners is in Washington to demand of Congress a tariff on crude peroleum. A campaign for this purpose was launched at a convention in Tulsa, Okla., and it is reported that upward of $100,000 was collected to finance the movement. These producers lay their troubles to the importation of cheap grades of petroleum from Mexico and Venezuela. Overproduction, which has been the oil men's bugbear for years, would be largely eliminated in the domestic fields, they say, if these imports were regulated.

Any argument for a duty on oil runs up against a stone wall. The United States is drawing upon its oil resources at a reckless rate. In spite of all effort to limit oil production this country turns out nearly 70 per cent of all the world's supply. President Hoover took steps to curb production last year, but the 1929 output exceeded that of 1928 by more than 100,000,000 barrels. With the total domestic production running to 1,005,598,000 barrels, this means an increase of approximately 11 per cent for the year. In the face of this tremendous output Congress is asked to stimulate production by placing a duty on petroleum imports.

Most of the oil produced in the United States is also used here. Exportation of oil is growing rapidly, however, and may be expected to continue unless production is curtailed. In 1928 18,965,000 barrels were exported. Last year the exports jumped to 26,374,000 barrels, an increase of approximately 39 per cent. Foreign countries are drawing out large quantities of American oil and conserving their own. If the present rate of exploitation continues the United States may be left without petroleum resources while vast stores remain under control of foreign powers.

A question of such vital importance to the Nation can not be solved on the basis of profits to oil producers. While the industry and the administration are struggling to find a means of curtailing oil production, Congress can not afford to encourage wildcat speculation and a new orgy of wasteful production by levying a duty on foreign oil.

INCOMPETENT PRISON GUARDS.

Idleness and overcrowding have been considered the foremost causes of the recent prison revolts. The National Crime Commission, through its subcommittee on probation and institutional correction, now brings in a severe indictment against incompetent prison personnel. "It is an undisputed fact," the commission reports, "that the majority of prison guards and wardens have been given their positions for some political service they have rendered." As political plums these positions appeal, in general, to incompetent individuals. The committee found that the pay of guards ranges from $600 to $2,000, and that of wardens from $1,800 to $12,000. The wages of a guard are ridiculously low, and the hours he must be on duty are long. The position of a warden is most difficult and exacting. The statement of John L. Hoffmann, warden of Auburn Prison since the most recent riot, to the effect that he has been "sitting on a powder keg" describes the feelings of many a warden since the rioting mania took root in the prisons a few months ago. In these circumstances only a few of the top positions can draw men of experience and ability.

The situation with respect to probation officers is still more unsatisfactory. Nearly all of the States provide for parole of both juvenile and adult offenders, but only three States provide a systematic method of selecting probation officers. In most instances positions of this kind are poorly paid and go to hangers-on of the party in power. It is not surprising that the probation system offers conspicuous examples of failure.

Administrative weaknesses in the prisons have been accentuated by the tendency to coddle the inmates. Discipline is often weakened by the introduction of "reform" methods that place trust in untrustworthy characters. When this system is operated with a force of guards of lower intellectual standing than the convicts the result is disaster. The first element in the reform of prisoners is discipline, and the second is inculcation of respect for the law. Neither of these lessons can be impressed on hardened convicts by coddling methods carried out by incompetent guards.

The conclusion of the committee that "an advance in penal administration can be brought about only through a full acceptance of the present-day business principle of knowing, really knowing, what each job is and of finding and developing the proper man to do it," should be given due consideration in the prison reform program.

An old ledger discloses the fact that 108 years ago the City of St. Louis paid its employes 37½ cents a day. This compares favorably with the present-day Government pay schedule.

PROHIBITION

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Prohibition is incomparably the most disturbing question in American life, politics and government, and makes the strongest appeal for solution.

(1) Two hundred and fifty years ago, England passed absolute prohibition laws against the taste of the English people to import and use French silks, and continued to increase the penalties till it was made a capital offense to violate her prohibition law. Macaulay, in his History of England, records the result:

"Whole fleets of boats with illicit cargoes had been passing and repassing between Kent and Picardy . . . All the inhabitants of the southeastern coast were in the plot. It was a common saying among them that, if a gallows were set up every quarter of a mile along the coast, the trade would still go on briskly. It had been discovered, some years before, that the vessels and the hiding places which were necessary to the business of the smuggler had frequently afforded accommodation to the traitor. The report contained fresh evidence upon this point . . .

"The inference which ought to have been drawn from these facts was that the prohibitory system was absurd. That system had not destroyed the trade which was so much dreaded, but had merely called into existence a desperate race of men who, accustomed to earn their daily bread by the breach of an unreasonable law, soon came to regard the most reasonable laws with contempt. And, if, in time of war, when the whole channel was dotted with our cruisers, it had been found impossible to prevent the regular exchange of the fleeces of Cotswold for the a-la-modes of Lyons, what chance was there that any machinery which could be employed in time of peace would be more efficacious?

"The politicians of the seventeenth century, however, were of opinion that sharp laws sharply administered could not fail to save Englishmen from the intolerable grievance . . . The penalty for importing French silks was made more severe. The fruit of these wise counsels was such as might have been foreseen. French silks were still imported."

(2) One hundred and twenty-five years ago, the Emperor Napoleon, at the height of his power, decreed prohibition against the taste of the French people to import and use goods from England and her colonies. Ludwig, in his life of Napoleon, records the result:

"Soon in all continental countries huge sums are made by smugglers, who import the very colonial produce which the emperor wishes to prevent his chief enemy from marketing. These goods are then retailed at great profit. Is the smartest ruler in Europe to be robbed of his gains by smugglers? He would rather have the business under his own control, so he imposes a 50 per cent duty on all the colonial produce his agents can find on the continent and pouches these receipts for France. Since, at the same time, he has all English woolen textiles that he can lay his hands on burned, he opens opportunities for illicit gains which are so large that for their sake the people will ignore the risks of draconian punishments."

(3) One hundred and fifteen years later the United States of America passed the eighteenth amendment to her Constitution prohibiting the exercise of the taste of the American people, to import and use wines and liquors, no matter how reasonable and temperate the use, and the ten years which have since elapsed confirm the prior historic experiments with the prohibitory principle, in matters of taste, within the sphere of individual conduct. The opposing unwritten law is inexorable and unrelenting. One hundred years hence, when historians write of America, this will be the strangest episode in her history.

Observation of our ten years experiment would be painfully limited and imperfect, in the science of government, if we failed to extend our observations to other experiments with the prohibitory principle, especially as the experiments made in other countries are both remote and recent, and all have terminated in the same way.

A Fine Finish Improves a Good Car, But It Doesn't Increase the Power.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THERE are thousands of young men in America who have finished high school and now feel bitter and discouraged because they are too poor to attend college.

They think they won't have a fair chance—that a college course would effect some mysterious change in them and insure success.

The truth is, a man who can't succeed without a college education couldn't succeed with one.

It is true that most of the big jobs are held by college men, but it wasn't a college that qualified the men for the jobs.

Colleges turn out able men because able men go to college.

And when they have finished college they must begin somewhere at the bottom and learn to render some useful service the world will pay for.

The poor boy who goes to college acquires a poise and a feeling of assurance that he might not acquire otherwise, and his college degree is a social asset in some environments.

But the "cultural background" a college gives can be acquired at home after the day's work is done.

The advantage of a college course is that it requires certain work to be done, whereas the boy who must educate himself frequently is too lazy or too indifferent to pursue his studies; but one who is determined to learn can study at home and acquire a better education than the indifferent boy absorbs in college.

The ordinary "literary education," whether acquired at home or in school, is useful chiefly as a means of making life more enjoyable.

It doesn't make any man successful as a salesman, manufacturer or scientist.

Education is absolutely essential to success, but essential education is the kind that trains a man for a job.

Edison got no "schooling," and yet few men in America are better educated than he.

The youth who prepares himself for a job—whether surgery or engineering or merchandising—and then keeps on preparing himself for bigger and bigger jobs, is the one who will climb to the top of the heap.

The smattering of miscellaneous knowledge and the veneer of culture usually called an "education" will not make any man successful at anything.

It is a nice ornament and an entertaining possession for those who can afford it, but no man need fail for lack of it.

The youth who can dance and play bridge finds these accomplishments an asset, but they won't keep him on the pay roll if he can't do some useful thing well.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

A Returning Visitor Sees Improvement in Washington, But Finds Some Abuses.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It may interest some of your local readers to consider the friendly observations upon aspects of Washington today by one who, remembering a dusty Southern town of mean residences and petty shops sprawling over the noble L'Enfant plan, was attracted by the reports of new Government buildings and "came for to see."

The visit was of course premature, for physically Washington is still, like Madrid, a National Capital in posse rather than in esse, but enough has been seen to awaken lively hopes. Even though the Triangle is unrealized there is evidence that architecturally Washington has made long strides in 20 years. To cite a single neighborhood from many, McPherson square now has something of the dignity and reticence of Queen's square in Edinburgh.

It was not, however, about physical aspects that I began to write. The intention was to record the impression upon a stranger of three abuses of amenity which habit must have caused residents to overlook; for they are unnecessary abuses which might readily be controlled by a vigorous city government such as it is understood you have.

Street manners—It was perhaps inevitable that with growth of population and loss of homogeneity the manners of the man in the street should decay; but it does seem that motorists, waiting at street corners for traffic signals might, without inconvenience, be required to refrain from encroachment upon the pathways marked out for pedestrians and from the emission of carbon monoxide in the faces of those who wait behind them.

Black smoke—Driving or walking one's attention is constantly drawn to the black flags of smoke which fly from hotels and apartment houses. How great is the resulting nuisance of atmospheric soot is apparent not only from the testimony of housewives but most conspicuously from the rapid conversion of a snowfall into dirty piles of black ice. Municipal governments, even of industrial cities, have found means to reduce this abuse to a minimum.

Noise—Happily the town is saved the characteristic roar of an industrial city, but unhappily it is not free from nerve-wracking noises. They seem to be chiefly the rumblings of obsolescent street railways and the inconsiderate hootings of motor horns—both of which are unworthy of the model residence city Washington is soon to be.

RIP VAN WINKLE.

Advocates Optional Retirement at 60 After 30 Years' Service.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In Senator Dale's radio talk on the retirement legislation, he failed to mention several features which are of vital interest to all employes of the Government under 68 years of age. One of these facts is that all of these employes, constituting, of course, the enormous majority of the whole body, desire to have optional retirement after 30 years' service at 60 years of age. There are many reasons why they want this privilege, while it is certain that comparatively few would avail themselves of it. Occasions on which they might urgently need it are impaired health, when rest is needed, though total disability could not be claimed; the claims of ill or aged relatives to the personal care of a daughter, perhaps; then one might be so fortunate as to be left a sum of money, sufficient with the annuity to live on comfortably.

These and other circumstances might occur in any one's life between 60 and 68 years of age and make it extremely irksome to have to remain in office until 68 years old, or else lose the benefit of the annuity for which they have been depriving themselves so long.

As a matter of fact this is one of the main privileges which each of the several employes' organizations promised to advocate when they secured their members, and their heads still claim to do so when questioned by their members. But at a recent hearing before a congressional committee they each and all agreed that it was best not to ask for this amendment to the Senate bill at the present time. We wish to ask, why not? No reason has ever been vouchsafed from any source, though the identical situation has occurred several times before. If there is a reason that can not be mentioned, it would seem that we are in a bad way, indeed.

There is now in the Treasury to the credit of the annuity fund $144,000,000, of which about $124,000,000 have been contributed entirely by the employes, and still belongs to them exclusively. Why should employes of the Government be deprived of the privilege of enjoying their own property—the $124,000,000 which they have contributed to the retirement fund?

It is devoutly to be hoped that when this bill comes up in the House, its members, one and all, will see this side of the question, as they have before, and make the necessary amendment, despite the opposition, apparently, of those who have promised and are paid high salaries to advocate it.

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYE.

Praises City Government for Prompt Removal of Snow—"Quit Knocking."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Having been a citizen of Washington for a number of years and having visited all the principal cities in the North and West during the winter months I am wondering what the "knockers" have to say about the quick and efficient manner in which the heads of the city government had the principal streets cleaned of the heavy snow which fell January 30.

If members of the Senate and the House and a lot of "psalm-singing citizens" will let the Commissioners of our government alone, the city government would be operated to the entire satisfaction of the population of Washington. It seems to me that most of the citizens of Washington know nothing of city government and are constantly harassing our city officials.

RUSSIA FEARS RAID ON PARIS EMBASSY

Disappearance of Royalist Leader Perils Relations Between Nations.

KIDNAPING IS CHARGED

Moscow, Feb. 3 (N.Y.W.N.S.)—The mysterious disappearance in Paris over a week ago of a Russian royalist leader now threatens the diplomatic relations of the Soviet government and France.

The government here clearly indicated that it is considering the possibility of a severance of relations with France at the same time that a report became current that the Soviet embassy in Paris is in danger of being raided by supporters of Gen. Alexander Koutiepoff, head of the royalist military organizations, who disappeared a week ago Sunday.

"We are compelled seriously to ask the French government whether it prefers to maintain diplomatic relations with the Soviet government or with the Paris emigrants of the White Guard party," if was officially said.

Word has been received that Ambassador Lovalevsky in Paris, acting on orders from Moscow, has informed Foreign Minister Briand that the embassy is in danger from royalists who insist that Koutiepoff was kidnaped.

Answer From Tardieu Expected.

An answer from Premier Tardieu to the entire Soviet position is expected. The press here simply ridicules the theory that the general was kidnaped by G. P. U. agents when he left his house over a week ago not to be seen since. Gen. Koutiepoff assumed control of royalist circles in Paris at the death of the Grand Duke Nicholas.

The government here bitterly accuses the French government for its passivity in regard to the anti-Soviet demonstrations that have been put on by Russian royalists since the general disappeared.

The charge is made that the Koutiepoff furror is but a part of an anti-Soviet movement in France stimulated by Alexander Kerensky and Pavel Miliukov, former Russian leaders. The French government, it is charged, has facilitated the establishment of Russian military organizations in France.

Excitement in Paris Grows.

Paris, Feb. 3 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The excitement here over the disappearance of Gen. Koutiepoff, head of Russian Royalists in Paris, is becoming spectacular with the receipt today by Foreign Minister Briand of a note from Soviet Ambassador Dovgalevsky informing him that Royalists are organizing a raid against the Soviet embassy.

The Soviet Ambassador urged that the embassy be protected at the same time that former Soviet Charge d'Affaires Bessodowsky charges that the embassy is the headquarters for a squad of 20 G. P. U. agents who occupy rooms to which even the ambassador is forbidden.

To add to the strain on French and Soviet relations several papers here have discussed what legal procedure could be used by the Paris police in case it should be proved that the general is being held inside the embassy.

Royalists working with the police say that they have every reason to believe that the general is still alive although a prisoner of Soviet agents.

A musical program will be rendered.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

WAY out yonder in the sovereignty of Utah the children of Brigham Young are sullen in their resentment against the powers that be. As they toil in the fields they utter stolid and guttural maledictions against their oppressors drinking toasts here in Washington.

Revolutionary tendencies and questionings surge and resurge within their breasts, the low sway of the "Volga Boat Song" courses their veins. A faint ray of hope comes, a light gleam appears in the eyes, when the mail plane passes overhead, bound at fast speed from the East to the West.

"Does it bring any glad tidings?" they ask, with their tiny, begrimed hands shading their eyes as they point to the sun. And as the plane soars on away, its tail-smoke writing a negative in the sky, they turn heavy-hearted back to their work.

• • • •

PATHOS blended with grim determination has come to take the place of the clear, starlit skies. The once sparkling, gay, shimmering snow that laid a silver rug over all the earth, seems now an ugly, germ-carrying, menacing thing.

The voice of the rippling brooks, racing down their mountainside courses sounds a plaintive, futile note, and the trees of the forest seem to shrill the mockery of the peasants' plight. Life is not what it used to be out there.

For years these children of Brigham have been trudging onward by day and resting by night, a hard enough life as it was, but comforting in the sight of the promised land just over there beyond the beet sugar fields.

Pioneer children these, and their forbears, pioneer men, a race, indeed, of sturdy, pioneer stock.

THEY had their folk songs and their folk lore. Ah, what fun it was to gather under a cold moonlight and roast weinies and do other foolish, childish play. How happy they all seemed when they rushed to greet the father, coming home from his visit to the city, to the marts of barter and of trade.

"A stick of peppermint for you, Mary, and an all-day sucker for you, Marie—and ah, my little bit of a sweetheart there, here is a plaything for you." And new brogans for the old lady, tried and proven, and a new washing board, too.

But all that is of yesteryear, of a day that is encrusted in the bitter experiences of the present. It is, indeed, as tragic as Little Eva walking across the ice.

A cruel tyranny has grown up in Washington, a regime that would crush these little souls, this sovereign happiness, this statehood longing for bigger and better things.

And there is tragedy being scrolled by you, gentlemen, tragedy that is deep and, that scars. Consider the pathetic appeal of the youngsters when their fathers return now from the store, consider the anguish in their hearts.

"No sugar tariff today, Daddy?"

"No—no sugar tariff today."

UTILITIES COMMISSION SOON TO DEBATE PHONE RATES CUT

the District, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia. This, company representatives maintain, was in an effort to keep separate the service costs for the various units, but necessarily has meant something of an increase in administrative costs per unit.

The existing rates of the local company were fixed several years ago and when they were subsequently challenged by a past utilities commission the company countered with a dispute of the commission's valuation of its property. Subsequently there was worked out an agreement under which telephone rates then existing were left alone for a period ending last June.

Since that time, under the agreement, there has been no legal basis for fixing new rates, because there has been no recognized valuation and rates have continued in effect because the machinery for establishing an adequate valuation was not set in motion by the last commission headed by former Chairman John W. Childress.

In the interim the rates have gone on without more than acquiescence by the commission and the new commission has been confronted with a battle over street car fares, bus fares, merger of the transportation companies, the suit over the legality of the purchase by nationally powerful interests of control of the local gas companies, and numerous matter of lesser importance, including the development of the commission's new regulation of taxicabs.

Woman Goes on Trial In Dry Agent's Murder

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Alpha Harbough, alias Alice Smith, went on trial here today charged with the murder of Charles Stevens, prohibition agent, who was slain from ambush after raiding a still in Atascosa County last September.

The State charges that the woman halted the officers on a highway and signaled with a flashlight to the ambushers down the road, who opened fire on Stevens and two other officers when they approached. Eight others are under indictment in connection with the killing.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Failure to receive a form does not relieve a taxpayer of his obligation to file an income-tax return and pay his income tax within the period prescribed—on or before March 15, 1930, if the return is filed on the calendar-year basis, as is true with most individuals. Forms may be obtained upon request, written or personal, from the offices of collectors and deputy collectors of internal revenue. The tax may be paid in full or in quarterly installments, due on or before March 15, June 15, September 15, and December 15.

Persons whose net income for 1929 was derived chiefly from salary or wages and was not in excess of $5,000 should make their returns on Form 1040A. Persons whose net income was derived from a business or profession, including farming, or from the sale or rent of property, although the amount was less than $5,000, are required to use the larger Form 1040. The use of Form 1040 also is required in the case where the net income was in excess of $5,000, regardless of whether from salary, business, profession, or other sources.

The filing period ends at midnight March 15, 1930. The returns should be filed with the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer lives or has his principal place of business.

tional achievements of our Western civilization, of its purpose, its methods and its accomplishments.

"The name of Washington may not appear. The name of Jefferson may; if so, in connection with the Louisiana purchase. It is doubtful whether Abraham Lincoln's name can properly appear in the text although the personal executive act of Roosevelt brings his name automatically into the text. Mr. Coolidge's name will appear as author."

Mr. Borglum said, "I almost would prefer that we keep every name off the face of the memorial, making it simply a record of achievement.

"Then to the rear of the memorial, in a small canyon, flanked by the same rock on which we are making our carvings there cut the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, the names of the Presidents and a simple statement of why the memorial was built."

CITY SHORTAGE HITS MOTHERS, CHILDREN

Pensions Remain Unpaid, Says Welfare Directors; Coal, Food Needed.

FINANCE SESSION TODAY

Chicago, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Chicago and Cook County were marking time in the financial bog today, with an eye cocked on the Silas Strawn citizens' rescue committee.

The county board and its finance committee, which had sessions scheduled for today, postponed them until tomorrow when the Strawn committee is expected to announce a definite policy in the distribution of money from its pool to various governmental agencies.

The finance committee of the city council, it was stated, was preparing to ask the Strawn committee for $6,000,000 to meet the February 15 pay roll and for $4,000,000 a month thereafter until the long delayed taxes are collected.

Pending the announcement of a definite policy by the Strawn group, county commissioners have been holding in abeyance their plan to pay the county's 4,000 employes, jurors' fees and mothers' pensions with small 1930 tax anticipation warrants.

Many bankers have opposed the scrip payment plan. A statement warning bankers not to accept the scrip caused some indignation in the county building, where some held it tantamount to boycott.

Joseph L. Moss, director of the Bureau of Public Welfare, said economic conditions among county employes and pensioned mothers was growing acute.

"In addition to 1,642 mothers feeling the pinch," he said, "there are 5,700 children. We are furnishing food, coal, shoes and milk to them against the amounts of the overdue pensions, but they are being pressed for rent and their credit for other necessaries has been strained to the limit."

Many small-salaried employes of the city and county have applied to the bureau for aid, Mr. Moss said.

Some creditors of the city and county also were reported embarrassed by the inability of the governmental customers to pay their bills. At least one warned he was facing bankruptcy.

Despite news of the money raised by the Strawn committee, county employes were fearing that Wednesday, ordinarily pay day, will be just Wednesday again. Unless there is money, it will be the third successive payless pay day for them.

"All Over Town" PEOPLES DRUGSTORES —The Better to Serve You

Shopping with Bab

DEAREST GENEVIEVE:

As though to demonstrate that they simply can not stand their winter clothes another minute, women and girls are appearing daily in trim, new tailored suits worn, if necessary, underneath heavy coats. The very last word is to wear a suit of soft navy blue cloth with a camel's hair top coat.

The material used in the suits this spring may surprise you. They are weaves so soft that you might think they would have hardly enough firmness to adopt the smart lines. A crepella, which is not exactly that, and a tweed which can be crushed in your hand are approved developments. Then, too, there is a silky alpaca-like material which is found in all colors.

Shops in all parts of town are showing smart spring apparel, so you may really begin to wear new things as soon as you like.

Now That There Is a Lull

—in social activities you will probably have time to drop in Underwood & Underwood's and have your picture made. It is a wise thing to have a good picture on file, for you never know what may happen, and if your picture must be released for the papers for any reason whatever you may as well be sure there is a good one on file. How forethoughted Jeffries and Margo were to pose for a good picture before they eloped.

Don't think from that that you can not have a picture made unless you contemplate something similar. Just on general principles you should have always on file at Underwood & Underwood's an up-to-date photograph that you are pleased with.

If you stop to think, some of the best pictures are those made on the spur of the moment. When passing Underwood & Underwood's you might suddenly have the inspiration to go in and sit for a picture. By all means obey that impulse. You do not have to be dressed for the occasion. A picture "just as you are" and just as your friends and family see you every day will prove one of their most cherished possessions.

Sale at Schwartz Of Spring Frocks

—is an event that should step you out early today. This dependable shop at 1325 Connecticut avenue is always surprising us with some unusual opportunity.

Beautiful silks which have been $32.50 and $29.75 are re-priced today at $16.75. The collection includes such lovely designs as this: A brilliant green bolero with a tuck-in sleeveless blouse of apple blossom chiffon embroidered in pearls and sequins; a black crepe bolero; a darker green crepe shirred one-piece model, with passementrie adornment; a brown crepe two piece with a tucked chemisette of eggshell and burnt orange trimming. Violet, blue, green, flame, every color in these wonderful values.

Homemade Pastries at Caroline's

—are so good that you will find yourself going back again and again for the toothsome pies and other desserts featured in this unique restaurant.

Caroline's, 734 Fifteenth street, has been appropriated as the favorite place to dine of a coterie of people who feel it is their special discovery. There is no reason why they should keep it to themselves, so I am telling you it is a grand place to have dinner. Prices are 55 cents and 65 cents. Now, you know there are not too many places in town serving a delicious, well-balanced menu at that price. Cafeteria service, needless to say.

Pasternak Shows Spring Models

—for every time of day or evening, and each and every design so stunning and attractive, that you will not be satisfied until you have looked at every new arrival.

The camels hair topcoats I have spoken of, are to be found here, in superb tailoring, as low as $89.50. The tailored suits are in all the new weaves, soft tweeds and so on, some with bloused and others with only skirt and coat. Several special models in these were priced at $69.50 and $89.50, and were in sizes as small as fourteen and sixteen, and on up. Words can not describe the soft colorings, and the clever mannish twills in these first harbingers of spring. You know the high standards maintained by Pasternak, but will be agreeably surprised to find that this maintains even in the less expensive models.

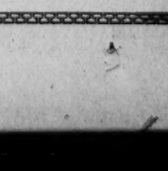
You will be overjoyed with the great variety of day and afternoon frocks which have just been unpacked; frocks for tea dancing, with cap sleeves and cape effects, developed in chiffon and crepe Elizabeth in black and every sprightly spring shade.

You may ask to see a copy of an important creation, a three-piece sport dress in Rodier fabric in yellow and black and chartreuse, for only $27.50. The schoolgirls have discovered that they are able to find the models they like here at smaller prices.

Pasternak, 1219 Connecticut avenue, has a custom tailoring department which is always in operation. Find out more about it.

Fresh Vegetables at This Season

—satisfy the appetite which craves garden food. Paul's Inn, 1118 Connecticut avenue, features fresh vegetables served hot, if meant to be, and also in crisp, green salads.



Paul's Inn has cafeteria service from 11:30. In the evening for dinner, which is served to 8:30, you have table service. This maintains on holidays and Sundays, for luncheon also.

There is a cheery, cozy atmosphere about Paul's Inn which must appeal to the business men in that vicinity, for you see them there by the dozens every day. Prices are extremely moderate.

Mrs. Dulany Has New Tea Gowns

—to show you, which are the most ravishing creations this delightful shop has ever displayed. The tea-gown, as you know, has come into its own again, and is the generally accepted costume of hostesses when receiving informally. In consequence the newest models are entirely different from the boudoir conception of negligee idea. This difference is principally in the neck treatment, but also in the materials used.

A clinging model in gold lame with splashy designs in vivid colors, has a fish-tail train and graceful sleeves. There are brocaded chiffon velvets in pastel colors, luscious chiffons with lace, and other entrancing designs. Mrs. Dulany, 1901 Que street.

Senator Finds Name on Two Dinner Lists

Mr. Capper Manages to Attend Both Events at Mayflower.

By JEAN ELliOT.

THERE was so much going on in Washington last night that it's a wonder people didn't get their dates mixed. Perhaps some of them did. At all events Senator Arthur Capper's name appeared on two dinner lists. The explanation, however, was simple. He had accepted an invitation to the dinner which Representative and Mrs. John Q. Tilson were giving in honor of the Italian Ambassador and Donna Antoinetta de Martino. Then, along came Senator and Mrs. Henry J. Allen's dinner for the Kansas delegation in Congress, with Vice President Curtis, sometime senator from Kansas, as the ranking guest, and the senior senator from Kansas couldn't turn up missing at this dinner with his junior colleague as host.

Happily both dinners were given at the Mayflower, so Senator Capper could—and did—attend Representative and Mrs. Tilson's party, dropping in later at Senator and Mrs. Allen's dinner, which, being an "all-Kansas" party, was a bit more informal in character.

Representative and Mrs. Tilson's guests—besides the Italian Envoy, Mme. de Martino and Senator Capper—were the Minister of China and Mme. Wu, Senator Lawrence C. Phipps, Senator and Mrs. Hiram Bingham, Representative and Mrs. J. Charles Linthicum, Representative and Mrs. Richard P. Miss Lamont Is Presented At Debut Tea

Betrothal Rumor Is Not Authenticated by Her Parents.

No announcement was made, although the rumor persists that Miss Lamont is to wed one of the attaches of the British Embassy.

It was attended by a large company from diplomatic, official and resident society groups. At the tea table were four of Miss Lamont's young friends, Miss Edith Eustis, Miss Betty Thorpe, Miss Winifred West and Miss Kate Carlisle. The debutante wore a gown of cream lace, made with the graceful long skirt of the prevailing mode and with a deep bertha. On Saturday evening Secretary and Mrs. Lamont will give a dinner dance at the Montgomery Country Club for their daughter.

Although the last of the debutantes to be formally introduced, Miss Lamont, as the only Cabinet bud, ranks high in the order of precedence. She has been away from Washington a good deal visiting in New York and at her home in Chicago, but she has made many friends here.

Descendants of Trio of Early Presidents to Attend.

Nearly 700 reservations have been made for this banquet, which is to be the climax of Washington's drive to raise funds for restoration of the birthplace of Robert E. Lee.

Although the famous Confederate leader left Stratford at the age of 4, he returned to spend his vacations there for many years and the homestead, where his father, "Lighthorse Harry" Lee, had lived for 36 years, was always dear to his heart. Stratford is also famous in history as the birthplace of two signers of the Declaration of Independence, Richard Henry Lee and Francis Lightfoot Lee.

The Star-Spangled Banner will float above the "presidential table" at the banquet, at which Mr. Henry Woodhouse will be host. Among the guests will be Mrs. Keckler, direct descendant of Betty Washington Lewis, of Kenmore; Miss Louise Clement, of Newburyport, Mass., who is descended from two Presidents, John Adams and John Quincy Adams; Col. and Mrs. Jefferson Randolph Kean, the former a descendant of Thomas Jefferson; and descendants of President Monroe, Miss Maud Gouverneur, Mrs. Green Clay Goodloe and Mrs. Lawrence Gouverneur Hoes. Envoy of Peru Entertains at Function Here

Luncheon Is Tendered to Senor Gallardo at Carlton.

Dr. Hernan Velarde, Ambassador of Peru, gave a luncheon yesterday at the Carlton Hotel in honor of Senor Conrado Rios Gallardo, newly appointed Chilean Ambassador to Peru. This was perhaps his swan song, as Dr. Velarde is making tentative plans to leave Washington shortly, sailing on March 7 on the Isle de France. Contrary to general report, Dr. Velarde has not resigned from the Peruvian diplomatic service, with which he has been connected for 36 years, but has been granted a year's leave of absence, most of which is to be spent traveling in Europe. At the end of this period he will be assigned to another post. Dr. Velarde expects to go direct to Paris to join Senora de Velarde and other members of his family, who have established a home in the French capital.

Dr. Velarde will fill the coveted post of dean of the Diplomatic Corps in Washington for about a fortnight, the departure of the British Ambassador, Sir Esme Howard, the present dean, being set for February 20. Shortly after the Peruvian Ambassador sets sail will come the departure of Dr. Santiago Bedoya, first secretary of the embassy, who has been transferred to Peru's mission to the Holy See. With his beautiful American wife, Dr. Bedoya will sail some time in March on the first lap of his journey to Rome.

ADMIRAL SEES NAVY USED AS FOOTBALL

Robison Tells D. A. R. Group "Whey Will Be Beaten" Out of U. S. Service.

ADMITS SOME ARE UPSET

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 3.—"Naval policy" was explained by Rear Admiral Samuel S. Robison, superintendent of the Naval Academy, in an address here tonight before the delegates of the Eastern Division of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, holding a two-day conference here. The division comprises the District of Columbia and six States, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware. Each sector has a number of delegates in attendance.

Admiral Robison discussed the several moves for naval limitations and treaties, with particular reference to the League of Nations and the Washington conference, and leading up to the five-power naval conference in London.

Declaring that the Navy is the first line of defence, he said that, after all, the "doughboys" win the war. "Armies and navies do not make wars. Statesmen make wars. Armies and navies, in the last analysis, end them."

Prefers Unlimited Ships.

Summing up his conclusions on proposed limitations, Admiral Robison used the rough simile when he said that the Army, like the Navy, will have "the whey taken out of its glee," as was done to Jerry the mule when the mule skinner hit him between the ears with the butt of his blacksnake whip. In this connection he aid:

"I would rather, instead of serving in a treaty ship, with the treaty armament, the treaty crew, and sailing in the treaty ocean, serve in a United States ship without any limitations and under the American flag, but our Navy is now the football of all international conferences. We will learn its immediate future when the final brew comes from the caldron of international politics.

"You may rest assured that as a body and as individuals the Navy's services are impersonal, in the sense that they do not attach themselves to any political administration nor follow any individual. They carry on their duty to them as servants of the Nation, and although these continual changes create some uneasiness, especially among the juniors, we will all do our best with whatever implements that we are allowed to have."

Mrs. William S. Walker, vice president general, chairman of the national defense committee of the Daughters, addressed the body on "What Price Peace."

Address by Gov. Ritchie.

The initial session of the conference was held this morning in the old Senate chamber of the Statehouse, with Mrs. Elwood F. Hobart, of Washington, president general of the national society, presiding and delivering the opening address. Gov. Albert C. Ritchie addressed the delegates in behalf of the State. Other sessions today and those of tomorrow will be held at Carvel Hall.

Among the addresses was one by Mrs. William Wolff Smith, of Washington, national vice chairman of the committee on better films.

Mrs. Smith told the group "motion pictures represent one of the greatest agencies in promoting wholesome nationalism and in arousing new pride in the works of peace."

Referring to the preview system set up by the industry whereby civic or religious organizations may see films before their release to the public and make recommendations to their membership on these films, Mrs. Smith said:

"In other words, it is entirely up to the organization themselves whether we and our children see the right kind of films."

WEDDING RING LOST; FOUND BY HEIRESS

that when she gets to Warrenton she will have to borrow a riding habit.

After visiting the bridegroom's parents, Dr. and Mrs. William Jeffries Chewning, at Fredericksburg, Va., the couple will come back to Washington. They have rented a small apartment, and the bride says she is ready to live on her husband's salary and to cook and sew for him without the aid of a maid.

Both the fathers concerned had something to say about the spectacular elopment yesterday.

"She took me at my own word," smiled Senator Couzens. "Many times in the past I expressed my distaste for the details of big weddings."

Dr. William Jeffries Chewning awaits his son in the big white house that serves as his home, his office and his "battlefield museum." For 30 years he has ministered unto the ills of the people of his community, as did his father, his grandfather and his great-grandfather before him, and he is a little disappointed that his son did not see fit to carry on this tradition of service. There has been a Dr. Chewning in the block for 128 years.

Dr. Chewning becomes a bit belligerent when the world begins to balance his boy against the millions of his new father-in-law.

"He is as fine and clean a boy as you ever saw," says the doctor. "I never have met Senator Couzens, but I have friends who have known him and they like him. They tell me he is an excellent gentleman.

"But he's got a d——n fine son-in-law, too, I tell you."

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

The Theater Guild of New York presents "Strange Interlude," a play in nine acts by Eugene O'Neill. The production directed by Philip Moeller—associate director, Tom Powers—settings by Jo Mielziner.

THE CAST:

Charles Marsden . . . George Gaul
Professor Leeds . . . Brandon Evans
Nina Leeds . . . Elisabeth Risdon
Sam Evans . . . Blaine Cordner
Edmund Darrell . . . Frank Conroy
Mrs. Amos Evans . . . Maud Durand
Gordon Evans, as a boy . . . Lester Sheehy
Madeline Arnold . . . Mary Holsman
Gordon Evans, as a man . . . James Todd

'Twas during the Yuletide season when last Eugene O'Neill's play, "Strange Interlude," occupied the boards of the National Theater. It may have been respect for the supreme tragedy enacted, or it may have been the spirit of peace and good will toward men that manifests itself at that time of year; anyway, whatever the motive, those who went to see the play then approached the temple of thespis as if they were entering a cathedral. They tiptoed down the aisles and remained silent during the services.

Last night, upon the return engagement of "Strange Interlude," all the reverence had fled. It was like being in a honky-tonk, watching the work of O'Neill unfold on the stage. The altar had disappeared; the god had fled. There was no reverence, nor respect; merely amusement at an entertainment.

Now, there are two or three reasons offered for this reaction to the play. First, a lot of young schoolgirls had been let loose in the upper recesses of the theater—up where the gallery gods used to hold forth, in the balcony—and they probably thought this study in psychology what the younger generation dubs most everything—"just a lot of boloney." Then, again, all the mylstery has been stripped from "Strange Interlude." The play has been analyzed and psychoanalyzed until probably Eugene O'Neill himself, reading some of the laboratory reports, wouldn't know what it was all about. Hence, another set of jibes let loose in the playhouse. Even the oldsters might have gone with their tongues in their cheeks.

Notwithstanding this rowdy-dowy reception accorded an acknowledged piece of theater art, the players making up the cast at the National came off well through al lthe vicissitudes. Miss Elizabeth Risdon, about the fifth in succession to the throne of Nina Leeds, the central character, manages to grow apace; though she certainly got away to a bad start, due perhaps to all the distractions. The role of Nina is no child's play. It calls for a lot of reserve ability—and Miss Risdon has it. She grows old with great grace. There is a life-time unfolded here in an afternoon and night.

The whole ensemble is worth while. Three good men and true play the important roles opposite a strange creature of neurotic tendencies. It may be remembered that Nina is an unsettled sort of person who slowly settles down to a trio of admirers, one a husband, the other a lover, and the third a sort of camp-follower remaining always in a nebulous state until the last drop of the hat, or the curtain. The husband, never an all-important asset in Nina's life, is played well by Blaine Cordner. Frank Conroy makes a massive piece of sculpture out of the lover, and George Gaul rounds out a happy conception of what this nit-wit novelist—poor old Charlie—means in the life of Nina Leeds.

Since it is generally admitted that there is not a sane character in Eugene O'Neill's play, the populace of the Potomac region—or at least that part of it engaged in first nights at the National—probably decided to take a mental holiday and join the party. So, at least, it seemed last night; for supreme tragedy was turned willy-nilly into comely comedy. It was rather an interesting experiment.

POLI'S

"Blossom Time" continued its perennial success at Poli's last night, thereby demonstrating that in the age of jazz there are still those who love music.

There are plays which depend for their vogue upon their smartness, upon the neat turning of phrases, upon suspense and surprise. They are of the category which once seen lose their interest. There are others, based solidly upon the few fundamental human emotions, which may be seen and enjoyed many times, and "Blossom Time" is one of the latter.

Replete with the haunting tuneful melodies of Franz Schubert cast against the background of gay Vienna in the days of Hapsburg glory, the piece is a throwback to a simpler and more pleasant age. Compared with current so-called musical shows it is like stepping from the hectic atmosphere of a Harlem night club into a charming rural garden.

Doubtless it is the immortal quality in Schubert's music which makes the continued popularity of the play possible; but teh plot, while essentially light in nature, is harmonized with the melody. It is a product of the days when emotions were considered ot be simple, wholesome things, not specimens to be placed under a psychological microscope and reduced to inhibitions, complexes and such. Wherefore, the trees do not obscure the forest for the audience and the play moves on its simple, entertaining way, with enough of sadness to make its joy worth while.

Knight MacGregor is a restrained and convincing Franz Schubert in a role where pathos might easily become bathos under inartistic handling. Genevieve Naegele is charming as Mitzi, and Nell Jewell and Mary Maher do well in the other thirds of the Fritzi, Mitzi and Kitzi trio.

Herbert Lyle gives an excellent performance in the role of Baron von Schober, the combination hero-villain who finally wins out as most such characters do. Then there is a delicious bit of character acting on the part of Robert Lee Allen as Christian Kranz the Court Jeweler, a sort of combination Falstaff and Babbitt who adds the proper admixture of comedy.

Doubtless there is no one in Washington who does not know the plot and there are, probably, few who have not seen the play. But still they come; some to be soothed by the magic of Schubert, some to laugh and some to cry, and all three reasons are good.

Second Doctor Ill Of Parrot Disease

Baltimore Health Aid, Who Studied Bird Ailment, Is in Hospital.

Baltimore, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—A second case of illness, believed to be psittacosis, among health department physicians, who handled sick or dead parrots during the department's study of the disease since it appeared in Maryland a month ago, has been discovered here.

Dr. William Royal Stokes, director of the bureau of bacteriology, is a patient in Mercy Hospital and announcement by Health Commissioner C. Hampson Jones brought out that Dr. Stokes had been ill for two weeks, with physicians at first believing he was suffering with pneumonia. Dr. Daniel S. Hatfield, director of the bureau of communicable diseases, was reported "holding his own."

Dr. Stokes and Dr. Hatfield had collaborated in the study of the parrot disease since the appearance of the outbreak that caused two deaths here.

Eight Are Indicted On Drug Charges

Narcotic Suspects Believed to Be Part of Ring Operating Here.

Eight colored persons, suspected of being members of a large narcotic ring with agencies in Washington, were indicted by a grand jury in Charlottesville, Va., yesterday, following their arrest in a raid in Lynchburg, Va., a little more than a week ago.

Those indicted were: Norah White, Mary Taylor, Mary White, Henry and Dorothy Wiley, Mary Nowell, Sue Yancey and Wesley Billups. They were all charged with violation of the Narcotic Act. Norah White was indicted on nine counts. She entered a plea of guilty and was given a 60-day jail sentence. Mary Taylor was placed on probation for five years. The cases against the others were transferred to Lynchburg for hearing at the June term of court.

The arrest of these eight followed sensational raids in Washington, in which Oliver Black, colored, suspected of being head of an East Coast dope ring, was arrested. Black, according to police records, is a paroled gunman. He is being held for action of the grand jury.

AUTOMATIC SIGNAL FOR TRAFFIC VIEWED

SCOUTS PLAN FOR WORK

A vehicle-controlled traffic signal which works automatically to keep traffic moving was demonstrated last night at Silver Spring to county officials and civic leaders of the Silver Spring section. The demonstration was one of a series planned to examine into the various devices on the market to find one suitable for the intersection of Georgia avenue, Colesville pike and Sixteenth street extension.

A miniature signal system was placed in operation for the officials by John A. Anthony, jr., of the Automatic Signal Corporation of New Haven, Conn., in the hearing room at the County Building. County Commissioner Lacy Shaw, in charge of the Silver Spring suburban district, was among those present.

The tiny traffic exhibit was eagerly viewed by the representatives and they showed their interest by the many questions they asked. Mr. Anthony showed with several model automobile the action which would take place at the intersection. The Crouse-Hinds Co. exhibit was viewed a week ago by the officials.

Plans for the scouting activities of the present year in Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties were discussed at a meeting of the activities committees of the scout organizations of the two counties. The Maryland scouts come under the jurisdiction of the Washington Executive Council but do not share in the Community Chest and hence have had separate executive councils to care for their needs.

The leaders discussed the camping, hikes and other scouting schedules for the year in order to arrive at a program which would not conflict with the activities of the various other scouting organizations. Their plans will be presented to troop leaders for approval.

Montgomery County members present were: Wilson L. Townsend, Kensington, chairman; Robert B. Peter, jr., Rockville; A. D. Farquhar, Sandy Spring; Lloyd Jones, Dickerson; Capt. T. Treadwell, Gaithersburg; Phil Gates, Rockville; Capt. Don Clarke, Glenmont, and George Davis, Silver Spring.

Prince Georges members were: Dr. DeVoe Meade, College Park, chairman; L. B. Howland, Laurel; Jack Holiday, Riverdale, and H. T. Converse, Beltsville.

There are nineteen troops in Prince Georges County and eleven in Montgomery County.

Suit to restrain county officials from publishing their names in the delinquent tax list pending a hearing on their suit to have the special assessment for the improvement of Bonifant street, Silver Spring, set aside as illegal, has been filed in circuit court at Rockville by 24 residents of that street.

The complainants are: Mr. and Mrs. Kerfoot Flynn, H. A. Waters, Robert I. Lyons, Dr. and Mrs. Claude Mitchell, Elizabeth G. Newbold, Florence L. Newbold, William H. Thompson, John C. Cowell, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Hammaros, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Perry, Sally N. Downing, Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Lutes, Mary K. Hawkins, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Strickler, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Nicholson, Roy M. Heizer and H. J. Hayden.

Through their attorneys, Talbott & Prettyman, of Rockville, the complainants allege that they are about to be deprived of their property without due process of law, lawful warrant or legal notice and that the assessment has been ordered levied in clear disregard of the mandatory provisions of the law under which it has been laid and that the tax is illegal and unjust in itself and out of proportion to the benefits to be derived.

FINAL PLEA FAILS FOR TORCH SLAYER

New Jersey Court Upholds His Sentence to Die in Electric Chair.

OTHERS TO SERVE TERMS

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 3 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Henry Colin Campbell, confessed torch murderer of his bigamous bride, must die in the electric chair.

Today the court of errors and appeals affirmed his first degree murder conviction, and the murder and manslaughter convictions of six other persons in connection with two other crimes.

One of the latter was the slaying of John Enz, mail truck driver, during a hold-up in Elizabeth in October, 1926, for which Carl e Neary and William Fanning were convicted of first degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment. These convictions were confirmed, as were those of second degree murder and manslaughter against four defendents as the result of an election night brawl in Jersey City two years ago, during which Catherine McGee, 8, was killed with a baseball bat.

Child Innocent Victim.

The defendants are Frank Donato and Vincent O'Keefe, sentenced to 30 years each in prison for second degree murder, and Frank McNally and George Ormsby, sentenced to ten years each for manslaughter. The McGee child was an innocent victim, the blow having been aimed at James J. Whelan outside of a public school in Jersey City, where there was a polling place. One of the men swung a bat at Whelan and the girl was struck.

In the case of the torch murderer, Campbell, in his sixties and ravaged by ailments which have emaciated his slight figure, he has spent the months in the death house in prison here writing a book upon advertising. Denied a typewriter, he used a pencil.

Campbell admitted that he had killed his bride of a few weeks, Mrs. Mildred Mowry, a year ago "to get rid of her," and to collect her $1,000 insurance policy and return to his legal wife, Mrs. Rosalie MacReady Campbell, in Elizabeth, and their three children.

Confesses Second Wedding.

The aged bigamist and former forger confessed that he went through the marriage ceremony with Mrs. Mowry, whom he met through a matrimonial advertisement, in Elkton, Md.; that they lived for several days afterward in roadhouses; that he then sent her to her home in Greenville, S. C., and promised to send for her later.

The reason he gave for the marriage was that he was out of employment and heavily in debt. At one time he was an advertising executive in Chicago earning $25,000 a year. Later he operated a clinic in Montclair, N. J., as Dr. Henry Close.

He confessed also to shooting his nurse bride through the head, as she dozed by his side in his automobile in Cranford, N. J.; to dragging her body to a snow bank at the side of the road, soaking it with gasoline and setting fire to it.

Former Wyoming Dry Head Gets 18 Months

Cheyenne, Wyo., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—William C. Irving, former State law enforcement commissioner of Wyoming, today was sentenced to serve eighteen months in the Federal prison at Leavenworth and pay a fine of $1,000. Irving, with four others, was convicted Saturday in Federal court here of charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

Olinto Marcantie, Mike Bell and Charles Redmon, convicted with Irving, were sentenced to a year in jail and fined $500 each. Biasetti Alfonso, fifth defendant, was sentenced to six months and fined $100. Irving was charged with giving protection to the other men, alleged bootleggers.

First Legal Rye Whisky In Nine Years Is Made

Baltimore, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—The first rye whisky to be made in the United States under Government supervision since 1921 was run into barrells today at the Baltimore plant of the American Medicinal Spirits Co, the old Mount Vernon distillery, which has been idle since 1917.

The company, under Government permit, has started production of 18,000 barrels for medicinal use, of which 35 per cent will be rye whisky made in Baltimore. Manufacture of Bourbon whisky at the company's plant in Louisville, Ky., was begun in November.

Two Killed in Plunges From Seattle Hotels

Seattle, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Sophia Niznik, 16, a domestic, plunged four stories to her death from a window of the Dorne Hotel early today. A few hours earlier Joseph Kennedy, 25, a salesman, died from injuries received when he fell three stories from the Stetson Hotel, after apparently mistaking a fire exit for a stairway.

Police reports indicated both the girl and the man had been participating in different liquor parties. Four companions of Miss Niznik, three men and a girl, were detained for questioning.

Boston Demonstration Brings Arrest of Eight

Boston, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Eight persons were arrested in a demonstration before the statehouse today which followed the arrest of Ben Gold, president of the Needle Workers' Union, while he was addressing a meeting of unemployed at union headquarters.

Gold was charged with using profane and threatening language.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless no-good feeling all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr Edwards Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

With NELSON B. BELL

THERE seems to be no foolin' about Colleen Moore's retiring from the screen after four more pictures, no foolin'. However, the length of time that the four may consume in the making is something else again—by Miss Moore's own declaration, they may take one year, they may require two years or they may be spread over an even longer interval. So there is nothing to worry about at the moment.

In the meantime Miss Moore is enjoying her first extended vacation in nine years—evidently not counting an occasional jaunt to Europe with her husband, John McCormick, who is also her producer—in and around the new fifteen-room house she has just built.

It is an interesting house. Colleen supervised the planning and picked every piece of furniture from the kitchen stove to the chairs in her private talkie theater. It is a colorful house, literally, with dashes and splashes of nicely harmonized hues everywhere.

The house is almost U-shaped, built around a huge garden in which are a swimming pool and tennis court, assorted trees, vines and flowers, flagstone walks and birdhouses.

It is the kind of place any one might build if comfort were the only consideration. With its furnishings it probably represents two years of Colleen's salary. (It has been said that she was getting in the neighborhood of $10,000 a week.)

Quick, Jorkins, the sniffing salts!

Incidentally, it was Colleen Moore who appeared in the silent screen version of "Sally," in which Marilyn Miller—with the aid of dialogue, music and natural color—is currently packing them in at the Earle Theater until the house attendance record seems to be in imminent danger.

And speaking of Marilyn Miller, several who sat in my vicinity Saturday afternoon seemed surprised at the blonde star's histrionics. No need to be, for it will be remembered that at about the time of her schism with Ziegfeld, precipitated by her marriage to Jack Pickford, she toured in the title role of Barrie's "Peter Pan," created in this country by Maude Adams.

The Dawson Brothers, I take it, will continue to add their vocalisms to the overture at the Earle over the public address system throughout the remainder of the engagement. Upon the first rendition of the overture Saturday, they sang from the orchestra pit, moving to the microphone on the organ console for the second. The auricular effect was much better, but the boys' style is certainly cramped when it comes to taking bows from Milton Davis' organ bench—what with him on it, too, and everything!

Already I have been numerously appealed to to offer an opinion as to which is the better Philo Vance, William Powell, first seen in the part in "The Canary Murder Case," or Basil Rathbone, who assumes the character in "The Bishop Murder Case," this week's feature at the Palace.

That is a particularly easy one for me to decide, provided my own personal reaction is all that is desired. To me, Mr. Rathbone is by far the best Philo Vance I have ever seen.

Perhaps the fact that I have never seen Mr. Powell, or any one else for that matter, other than Mr. Rathbone, in the part may have something to do with my view!

Some of the other master of ceremonies who have played Washington might pick up a valuable hint from Miriam Hoffman, serving in that capacity with the "Femme Follies," at the Fox. Miss Hoffman doesn't play with 'em—either the acts or the audience. She hurries the last act off while it might still be taking bows, and the next one on before the customers can catch its name through the noise of their own applause. I mean, the gal works fast!

Cheer up, you'll be out in the yard fussing around the tulips and the croci before long!

$150 in Meats Stolen.

Seven hundred pounds of assorted meats, valued at $150, were carted away from the warehouse of Myer Shulman at 77 I street southeast yesterday by a thief who gained entrance by smashing the glass of a rear door. Police are seeking a Negro, who was seen loitering about the warehouse shortly before the time of the theft.

Templars to Drill And Dance Tonight

Knights Assured of Big Success at Annual Display and Ball.

Washington's Knights Templar will hold their year's gala meeting tonight in the Washington Auditorium with a grand ball, competitive drill, inspection and a massed military display.

For more than a month a committee, under leadership of Eugene E. Thompson, has been working to make the affair outstanding in 15 years of Templarism in the District, and ticket distributions indicate that their efforts have met with success. The majority of the black-uniformed knights of the order, which numbers more than 3,000 members in Washington, are expected to be present.

The combined drill and ball this year replaces the annual field day which has always been held out of doors. Most of the events of that function are scheduled for tonight in addition to the ball.

On the Rules of Traffic

By WILLIAM ULLMAN

The regulation prohibiting parking so as to obstruct a crosswalk is one that is directly intended to insure the safety and convenience of pedestrians. It is plainly inconvenient to park an automobile so that pedestrians must walk around it to cross from one side of the street to the other.

There is the question of personal danger involved also, and the traffic authorities consider this provision one of the so-called safety regulations, for which a permit may be revoked if several violations have been recorded against the holder.

Example: Finding it difficult to get a parking space for his car, a driver leaves it extending partly over a crosswalk. Although there may still be ample room for pedestrians to cross, he has violated the regulations.

What Today Means to You

"AQUARIUS."

IF February 4 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., from 4:50 p. m. to 6 p. m., and from 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 7:30 a. m. to 9 a. m. and from 2:30 p. m. to 3:30 p. m.

Peace and happiness within the home will be engendered by the astrological influences for this date. It is an excellent time for beginning new undertakings, and you should take your courage in hand and step forth. There are no outstanding troubles indicated.

Children born on this February 4 will have positive natures and will desire to rule. They will not take kindly to discipline. They will be able to turn their hands to anything and meet with more than moderate success.

You are a quixotically loyal friend, but a very bitter enemy, and the rancor you feel toward those who you think—rightly or wrongly—have done you an injury embitters your whole nature. You have never yet realized that only the brave know how to forgive. A coward never forgives—it is not in his nature. The power of doing it flows only from a strength and greatness of soul conscious of its own force and security.

Your emotions are powerful, and you will probably be the victim of many infatuations. The fires of your love are too consuming to be lasting. As the years roll by, the signs predict that you will eventually settle down to a more normal condition, and will find in middle life the pleasures and joys of affectionate companionship.

A great measure of success would await you in commerce, if you could acquire more tact and congeniality. You, however, are apt to size up people with whom you come in contact too quickly and too ungenerously. This breeds a spirit of distrust and suspicion. You are a hard worker, honest in thought and deed, rather too careful of externals, a poor mixer, but possessed of many talents that can be, given the opportunity, profitably capitalized.

Successful people born February 4:

1. James Franklin — printer — brother of Benjamin Franklin.
2. Josiah Quincy — orator and statesman — president of Harvard College.
3. James G. Birney—statesman—a candidate for President of U. S.
4. Mark Hopkins—educator and author—president of Williams College.
5. Thomas Hall—inventor—Hall typewriter.
6. Thomas J. Ducey — Catholic clergyman.

HOME BRIDGE CONTEST

To yesterday's winners, congratulations; to yesterday's losers, consolations, with the added thought that today the worm may turn and bring the losers up to par with yesterday's winners. Mr. Work will now preside.

Readers who did not preserve their answers to last week's questions should read the questions today and write down their answers before reading those given below. And note the special announcement regarding the booklet, "Playing Problems."

Last Tuesday's hands and questions are repeated below, the answers accompanying each question.

Well, bridgers, how did the battle go today? It's a hot contest and the telephone will soon be busy all over the city with winners and losers exchanging congratulations and condolences on today's contest. Don't get too chesty, winners, you don't even reach the half-way post till tomorrow.

BRIDGERS, ATTENTION!

Because of space limitations the answers given in our great Milton C. Work Home Bridge Contest are necessarily abridged, but in order to satisfy the intense interest in the Questions and Answers, Mr. Work has prepared a splendid 48-page booklet entitled, "Playing Problems," which reproduces the eighteen hands, the complete auction and contract bidding, with the reasons for each bid, the answers to every question and the reasons for such answers in complete detail, all written in Mr. Work's clear and interesting style.

This booklet, "Playing Problems," which will be of much greater value to the auction and contract player than many high-priced text books, is not for sale. It has been prepared exclusively for readers of this newspaper by special arrangement with Mr. Work. One copy will be mailed to you upon request if you send self-addressed, stamped return envelope, together with 6 cents in stamps, to defray part of the cost of printing and handling this 48-page booklet. Requests not complying with these conditions will be ignored. Address: Milton C. Work, care Washington Post, Washington, D. C.

Wives of Tomorrow

"Crowns for Mothers."

A MOTHER-IN-LAW with a grievance voices her complaint in the letter which follows. Is she justified in her attitude of resentment against the girl who is daughter-in-law? Or is the girl, in marrying this woman's son, merely carrying out the regulation program that keeps the world in motion? Why blame the girl? And why demand that the girl dole out the rewards of motherhood.

"I am a mother, and now, to my grief, a mother-in-law. Have I been fairly dealt with? Here is my story:

"I married at 18 and had one son and devoted my whole life to him. My one interest was my boy. I educated him, made a splendid man of him, and now have to see a strange girl step in and take him coolly from me. He thinks of nothing but her, her health, her happiness. Mother is nobody.

"I am a widow and an invalid. What right has that girl to my son? What has she ever done for him, while I have waited on him all his life? Is it fair? Would she marry, raise a child, sacrifice for him, if she knew this would happen to her? No, never. A mother feels that she will get her reward when her children are raised and old enough to care for her. But this way, where is the reward of motherhood?"

And we can only ask just why a woman should expect a "reward" for motherhood, other than the joys that motherhood invariably brings? Why should any woman claim a "reward" of her children? And still more, why expect it of those who marry her children?

If women are still producing children with the idea that those children will be insurance against future loneliness, then women must learn that such reasoning is selfishness and can result only in disappointment. Children become adults, and one adult has as much right to marry as another, providing he is fit for marriage. If a mother had a right to marry, so has her son, and the fact that he is her son is no reason for taking the stand that he is her personal property, subject to her commands, her wishes or her selfishness.

A son properly reared will love and cherish his mother through life. But the mother who demands that her son remain unmarried is hardly the type to inspire devotion. Perhaps motherhood should be rewarded, but I have noticed the best mothers never look for reward from the children they have brought into the world; yet invariably those mothers are adored. It is, perhaps, that right thinking brings a certain gracious reward all its own, whether the "thinker" be mother or mother-in-law?

William W. Bradford Arrives at African Post

William Werner Bradford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bradford, of 3541 Holmead place northwest, has arrived at Accra, Gold Coast, British West Africa, and assumed his duties there as assistant trade commissioner of the Department of Commerce, according to word received yesterday by his parents.

Mr. Bradford formerly attended George Washington University. He will spend several years on duty at his post in studying economic conditions in that section of Africa, with sojourns each year in Europe.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

IODINE CONTENT OF FOOD.

UNTIL recently there was very little information as to the iodine content of foods other than water, and oysters and other sea fish. Kellogg's New Dietetics has but a brief reference to the subject; he tells of one or two vegetables that have been reputed to be rich in iodine but no details are given. Other books overlook the question.

A recent report by Dr. William Weston, based on analyses made by the South Carolina natural resources commission, shows not only that different vegetables vary enormously in their iodine content but that a given vegetable, such as spinach, varies greatly according to the soil in which it is grown. It is possible that the air in which it is grown, and the rain, dew, and fog which fall on it are additional factors. For instance, McClendon found that carrots grown in Oregon contained iodine 2.3, and the same vegetable grown in California contained iodine 8.5. Remington shows that carrots grown in South Carolina had iodine 197.

Some other comparisons were:

	Calif.	Oreg.	S. Caro.
Beets	8.0	....	227.0
Asparagus	12.0	....	285.0
Spinach	26.0	19.5	694.0
String beans	....	29.0	429.0

Further illustrating the difference in iodine content of different South Carolina products, Dr. Weston reports as follows:

Broccoli, 1,603; lettuce, 761; summer squash, 176; spinach, 694; cucumbers, 523; collards, 452; okra, 438; turnip greens, 433; string beans, 429; egg plant, 338; cabbage, 336; Chinese cabbage, 300; asparagus, 285; peaches, 285; tomatoes, 273; beets, 227; turnips, 223; dill pickles, 216; potatoes, 211; blueberries, 200; carrots, 197; ripe peas, 192; sweet peppers, 150; onions, 136; sweet potatoes, 98; cowpeas, 79; pecans, 58; peanuts, 46; oats in hull, 20.

The best information is that neither pickling, curing, canning, nor cooking robs the vegetable of the greater part of their iodine. Presumably the farmers and manufacturers of South Carolina will make their iodine-rich vegetables available for the people of other parts of the country. It is certain that chemists in other parts of the country will begin analyzing the vegetables grown about them.

I am informed that Michigan chemists are already at work on this line. In all probability the chemists connected with the canneries will not be slow in following suit. Before the expiration of this year we should have much information as to the iodine content of vegetables, fruits, and grains grown in various parts of the country. Meanwhile, South Carolina has the field.

NOSEBLEED? DON'T WORRY.

Miss H. S. writes: My nose bled quite often until I was 14. I lost a great deal of blood and my cheeks lost their rosy color and became pale. In the last few years it bled only three or four times. I go to gym three times a week. The other night, after I returned from gym, it started to bleed. Is it serious? Is going to gym harmful?

REPLY.

No.

Growing children are prone to nosebleed. As a rule it does not endanger life nor do great harm.

Jack Interprets the Mode

Paris, Feb. 3.

IT'S very much the vogue now to have one thing mean several. I'm referring to furniture again . . . the lamp bases that are ashtrays, the dressing table lamps that are perfume atomizers, the funny squat little chairs that have shelves for books.

But what I really started out to talk about was the powder and rouge compact which is at the same time a lighter, and has a tiny watch on the side, which actually runs. Much better than the lighter, if you er-er-sk us. Be that as it may, three gadgets in one, not bad, not bad! That makes it nice for the flatness of one's pocketbook.

Which reminds me of something awfully funny, which just doesn't belong here in this column at all, so our delightful editor is entirely privileged to cut it out if he wants to. Two and a half years ago I took a beautiful lighter purchased in Europe to a musician sort of person with uh-uh, really, a lot of brains . . . and two and a half years later I had to look up a Filipino valet for him to fill the lighter with fuel! According to the most recent letters received from New York, both lighter and valet are doing well.

• • • •

"A dozen American Beauty roses, the best ya got!" Well, maybe he does . . . but that's quite as far as the average American business man goes by way of pleasing his sweetheart, wife or mother. And then the a. a. b. m. wonders why s. w. or m. falls for those darn foreigners.

'Twas only a dozen roses, to be sure . . . but how! Four soft dull velvety pink ones, eight deep, deep red velvety ones . . . tied in just such a way that they fitted into the open top of a miniature mauve hatbox. And then they can't see why American women like foreigners!

• • • •

Heim and coats . . . and this one of deep green and very oddly trimmed in black caracul . . . the oddness not in the combination of green and black, but in the way the caracul trimming is put on the coat.

What does your spring ensemble need? A hat, scarft and bag ensemble . . . that's the thing that will give your suit the chic of the present mode. If your suit is of tweed, a tight cloche knitted in matching threads, with its scarf attached . . . and then the bag. You'll adore wearing them! And you'll even enjoy making them according to our very simple directions, sent to you in an illustrated leaflet, for which you send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post.

But there are so many more suggestions than just this one, and one, two or more of them are bound to interest you.

There's always some thrilling ideas and suggestions in the weekly Dare fashion letter. It's in the big Washington Post every Sunday.

Au Revoir!

Follow The Arrows To Smartness

Simply ravishing . . . lovely frock of cobwebby lace, green as sea foam, ready to dance off into the smartest festivity with calm assurance that it's probably by far the best looking gown at the party. There's a hint of Chanel's influence in the billowing skirt . . . down to the toes in its new length.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

(Bureau of Home Economics, Department of Agriculture.)

Water from cooked rice may be used in soups, for the liquid in scalloped dishes, or for starching sheer materials.

Cold rice, or rice reheated by steaming, may be used as a breakfast dish with sugar and cream, with stewed fruits, or with baked or coddled apples.

Rice reheated by steaming may be served on a platter surrounded with carrots and peas, or turned over in browned butter or other fat and served as a vegetable.

Rice may be combained with vegetables and served cold with cheese sauce or mayonnaise as a salad.

Rice may be used for thickening soups, or in scalloped dishes instead of bread crumbs, or combined with chopped meat and seasoned with onion, parsley, or celery seed and made into croquettes.

Rice mixed with a little chopped meat and green pepper or celery makes a good stuffing for tomatoes or baked fish, or to place between two steaks of fish for baking.

The tougher cuts of meat may be combined in stews with left-over rice.

Rice may be recooked in milk, and a little butter or other fat and sugar added. This makes a particularly nourishing dish for children or invalids.

Rice scalloped with white sauce in which chopped or grated cheese has been melted, makes a substantial and appetizing dish suitable for luncheon or supper.

Prices realized on Swift & Co. sales of carcass beef in Washington, D. C., for week ending Saturday, February 1, 1930, on shipments sold out ranged from 14.88 cents to 24.50 cents per pound and averaged 20.14 cents per pound.—Adv.

G. U. FIVE WINS ROUGH GAME FROM WEST VA., 34-31

Bob Considine 1 of 13 Net Survivors

Capital Youth Wins, 6-2, 7-5, in 2d Round of U. S. Tourney.

Meets Seeded Star Today; Hunter, Hall Win Easily.

By TED VOSBURGH.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Led by Frank Hunter, who won again in a walk, the favorites in the national indoor tennis championship advanced all along the line today as the field narrowed to thirteen contestants.

Among the survivors were all eight of the seeded stars—Hunter, J. Gilbert Hall, of South Orange, N. J.; Julius Seligson, of Lehigh; Herbert Bowman, of New York; Harris Coggeshall, of Des Moines, Iowa, now a student at Harvard; Eugene McCauliff, jr., former Fordham player; Perrine Rockafellow, New York, and Merritt Cutler, New York.

Hunter, a one-sided favorite for the title he won in 1922, crushed S. J. Wadsworth, New York, 6—1, 6—2, to enter the third round. He now has dropped but five games in two matches.

Hall, who is expected to meet Hunter in the final, won twice. After defeating Abraham Bassford, New York, 6—2, 6—1, Hall trimmed Lincoln Halberstadt, New York, 6—1, 6—3.

Bob Considine, lanky Washington, D. C., youth who shares the national public parks indoor doubles title, stayed in the running and next encounters Rockafellow, former Colgate star. The Washington boy's second-round victim was Giles Verstraten, New York youngster, who was beaten at 6—2, 7—5.

Considine played his best tennis today and was too good all around for the lad who reached the finals of the national indoor junior championship. Considine somewhat atoned for the loss of his Washington colleague, Dooley Mitchell. Verstraten on Saturday defeated Bache, Mitchell's conqueror. Ernie Kuhn, New York satellite, has chosen Considine for his doubles partner.

Murphy Is Eliminated By Bowman.

One of the best of the young contenders, Dick Murphy, of Utica, N. Y., was eliminated by the more experienced Bowman, 6—3, 7—5.

In an earlier match Murphy, who formerly held the national junior indoor crown and is now a student at Harvard, made an impressive debut by smothering Tom Cahalan, of Fordham, 6—1, 6—0.

Also eliminated was Udo Zaenglein, of Wurzburg, Germany, who was pulverized in the second round by Cutler in love sets. The German was too erratic for the New York player who is at his best on the familiar courts of the Seventh Regiment Armory where the tournament is being played.

In the third round tomorrow Hunter, at the top of the draw, meets Frank Bonneau, of New York, and the other matches in order are: Bowman vs. Lieut. R. M. Watt, jr., U. S. Navy; Rockafellow vs. Considine; Hall vs. Ed Burns, New York; Cutler vs. E. E. Jenkins, New York; Julius Seligson vs. Appel, and Sidney Seligson vs. Coggeshall.

Hack Wilson Signs With Cubs for 1930

New York, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Lewis Robert (Hack) Wilson, pugnacious center fielder of the Chicago Cubs, came to terms for the 1930 season with William L. Veeck, club president, tonight. Mr. Veeck declined to say at what figure Wilson had signed, but it was generally expected that he received a substantial increase over the salary he was paid last year. Wilson's new contract was for one year.

Hunter, Kiley Reach Pinehurst Golf Final

Pinehurst, N. C., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—James T. Hunter, of North Adams, Mass., and Dan J. Kiley, jr., of Boston, Mass., play here tomorrow for the title in the twenty-sixth annual St. Valentine's golf tournament for men.

Hunter today defeated Jack Rudel, of Toronto, Canada, in the semifinal match by 2 and 1, while Kiley went to the finals of the championship division by the default route. R. W. Smith, of Greensburg, the other semi-finalist, withdrew.

Ruth Cites $25,000 Income In Threat to Quit Baseball

Makes "Open Fight" of Demand For Salary of $85,000.

By ALAN GOULD.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Babe Ruth's latest gesture of defiance, in effect, a threat to retire and live on an income of $25,000 unless the Yankees meet his demand for a new three-year contract at $85,000, caused no great excitement today along the Forty-second street baseball row in general or the Yankee Club offices in particular.

"We are not interested and we have nothing to say," declared E. G. Barrow, business manager of the Yankees, when advised that Ruth, either personally or through an agent, had broadcast a statement from Florida in support of his salary contentions.

Ruth has rejected the two-year contract at $75,000 a year offered by the Yankees, which sum, it is understood, represents the limit the club will go. It is $5,000 a year more that the Babe has received for the past three years.

Saved $150,000 In 3 Years.

The circumstances of the Babe's unexpected debut as a propagandist were somewhat mysterious. Sporting editors tearing open their morning mail were just about to toss some mimeographed stuff in the waste basket when they noticed the Ruthian label. It turned out to be a snappy 500-word piece, designed to buttress the Babe's claims to bigger and better wages.

"If the Yankees reject my request for an increase," reads the Ruthian statement, "I will remain idle, which, at my age, means retirement from baseball. I mean organized baseball. A few years ago I would not have taken this attitude. I would be obliged to sign at any terms for the same reason 95 per cent of all players have to sign—bread and butter.

"Well, there's enough bread and butter in our home even if I never touched another baseball in my life. Without receiving 5 cents from the Yankees during 1930 I am assured an income of $25,000 from established dividends and royalties.

Gets Nothing From Exhibition Games.

"I have saved exactly $150,000 in less than three years, which pays me (an income) every three months. In addition I receive royalties from baseballs, underwear, baseball gloves and equipment, radio talks and the like.

"For example, three years ago a national advertiser paid me $1,000 for a 10-minute radio talk. Recently the same advertiser paid me $2,500 for the same job. Figure it out. Shouldn't the same increased value hold good at the Yankee turnstiles?"

On this basis, by inference, Ruth's salary this year should be two and a half times what it was in 1927—or $175,000.

"Take the matter of exhibition games," the statement goes on. "The Yankees have played more in the last 10 years than most other major league clubs combined, and every exhibition contract reads, 'If Ruth does not play, the game is cancelled,' and yet Ruth never gets a dime from exhibition games."

BABE RUTH.

Pontiac Five, Contender For A.A.U. Court Title, Meets Emerson Tonight

THE Pontiacs, who will make their first bid for a District A. A. U. unlimited championship in the tournament to be held next month under the auspices of The Post, will engage the Emerson Institute tossers tonight at 9 o'clock at Eastern High School. Having scored 15 victories in 20 starts, Manager Larry O'Dwyer expects his team to give the Prep School dribblers a spirited battle.

Playing their third year together, the Pontiacs are enjoying the best season of their existence. They have defeated the Fort Humphreys, Tremont, Eastern Prep, Trinity, Montrose, Army Headquarters and other strong combinations. They have yielded only to such teams as the Stantons, W. H. West and St. Mary's Celtics.

Ken Ellington, Herb Young and O'Dwyer, forwards; Roy Boyd, center, and Reds Dellar, Joe Brennan and Shebey Rice, guards, comprise the squad which will campaign for the A. A. U. title. O'Dwyer is arranging a schedule which will keep his team busy until the tournament gets underway. He is anxious to communicate with managers of teams eligible to oppose his registered team—relative to scheduling games. Call Columbia 5856.

Having scheduled the game with Emerson tonight, the Pontiacs were forced to cancel an engagement booked with the Army Headquarters Five for the same date.

During the period preceding the tournament, amateur teams affiliated with the A. A. U. are finding much competition among themselves. Managers and telephone numbers of A. U. Teams follow:

Generals Win, 29-25 Over Maryland

Old Line Rally Near End Fails; In Lead at Half, 10-8.

Washington and Lee "Freezes" Ball to Clinch Victory.

By WILLIAM F. DISMER, Jr.

WASHINGTON AND LEE retained its basket ball supremacy over the University of Maryland last night in a stirring game at College Park, but the margin of victory wasn't the kind the winners had become accustomed to by their pair of victories last year. Having conquered the Old Liners by overwhelming scores last winter, the Generals were given a rude surprise last night when they were forced to travel at top speed all the way to register a 29-25 victory, and the 4 points just about represented the difference in the two teams.

At that, it looked for a couple of seconds near the end, that the Marylanders might even catch their rivals after trailing by 6 points with 4 minutes to play. "Shorty" Chalmers aroused the Old Liners' hopes with a clean pot shot from the side and when Berger followed with a 2-pointer of the same variety, the home team was only 2 points behind, with the score 26-24.

Generals Gain Lead Of 3 Points.

Here, however, Leigh Williams, of the visitors, was fouled, and making good on his attempt, put W. & L. 3 points to the good. Although Chalmers registered from the charity strip almost immediately after, a snowbird by Martin with 37 seconds to play just about sewed up the verdict, the Virginians succeeding in "freezing" the ball for the short remaining seconds.

Until the middle of the second half, when the Generals coasted ahead to a 6-point lead, neither team was more than 3 points ahead, with one field goal usually separating the rivals. Williams sent the Generals off to a 2-0 lead with two foul shots after the first 5 minutes of play, but Hetzel immediately knotted the count with a short pot. Cox then gave the visitors a 6-3 lead with two double-deckers but two pretty side shots by Hetzel regained the advantage for Maryland by 1 point. Julie Radice's shot from the side just before the half-time gun sounded broke an 8-8 tie and enabled the Old Liners to walk off the floor boasting a 2-point lead at the intermission period.

Hanna's Shot Ties Score.

At the resumption of play Hanna immediately tied the score for the visitors when he caged one on the run and for the next few minutes it was nip and tuck with the lead alternating. Williams' one-handed shot from the side then gave W. and L. a 16-12 advantage, marking the first time that either team had been ahead by more than 3 points. Two fouls, by Williams and Hanna gave the Generals a 20-14 lead before Maryland could score from the floor.

Chalmers then put the home team back in the running with a neat shot from the side and with 6 minutes to play, two fouls by Ronkin and another 2-pointer by Chalmers left Maryland on the short end of a 22-20 count. Williams got loose under the basket, however, to make the score 26-20, an advantage which the Generals held until Maryland's aforementioned vain rally.

Auburn Coaching Bid Declined by Tom Lieb

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—President Bradford Knapp, of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute here, announced today that Tom Lieb, assistant football coach at Notre Dame last season, had definitely refused a three-year contract as head gridiron coach at Auburn.

Dr. Knapp said that Lieb turned down the offer because of his wife's health. Mrs. Lieb is in a hospital now and the football coach believed it would be a detriment to her health to move South.

Dr. Knapp stated that he was conferring with several other coaches with a view toward obtaining their services at Auburn. He refused to state the amount offered Lieb but said that it was "an attractive figure."

Duke-Carolina Bout Tonight Brings Brother vs. Brother

Special to The Washington Post.

DURHAM, N. C., Feb. 3.—Last year when the Duke and Carolina boxers met, Add Warren, North Carolina's heavyweight king, was on the ringside and was treated to a sight he had long wanted to see. John Warren, his fighting brother at the University of North Carolina, and Millard Warren, his preacher-fighter brother at Duke, fought for their respective boxing teams.

This year, if Add is present at the ringside, he will be treated to the same sight, Millard Warren, Duke's brother of Add, did not go out for boxing this year, being a member of the grappling team. However, when Coach Tilson announced that Phil Bolich, his 175-pound star, had a broken nose, Millard volunteered to take Bolich's place and fight his brother, John, at Carolina.

Thus, the same fight will be fought over. Last year the Duke Warren won on the judges' decision after an extra round. The two did not stage a "brother" fight, but went at it with much vim and vigor, "socking" each other freely and with much power.

Millard is not in boxing condition, however. He put on the gloves for the first time this year Monday afternoon. His wrestling practice has put his wind in good shape and with the experience gained last year and the year before as a member of the ring team, he should make a good showing.

That adds another fight to the list of interesting ones which will be staged at Carolina tomorrow night. The Starnes-Goodrich fight, the Carper-Davis go, and the football fight, to be staged between Koenig, Carolina tackle, and Hyatt, Duke end, should be well worth the fight fans' time.

U. S.-CANADA DRAWN FOR DAVIS CUP

Cuba to Face Mexico in Only Other Pairing in U. S. Zone.

PARIS, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Davis Cup tennis players of the United States will encounter Canada in the opening American zone contest of the 1930 campaign to recover the famous trophy from the French, it was determined today by the official draw.

Cuba and Mexico, also bracketed together for the first round play, are the only other nations entered in that zone.

The draw was made amid great ceremony at the Elysee Palace by President Doumergue of France, the holding nation, who drew the names of the various challenging countries out of the Davis Cup itself.

Great Britain Drawn To Meet Germany.

By a coincidence, Germany and Great Britain, which met in the European zone final last year, were drawn to meet in the first round of the 1930 competition. Although the Germans were successful in their memorable last meeting, their team has been weakened considerably since by the death of Hans Modenhauer in an automobile accident.

With the Germans and British clashing at the outset, one of the strongest teams in Europe is sure to meet untimely elimination. These teams are in the lower half which appears slightly the stronger, also containing Australia and Italy.

In the upper half Japan and Holland are outstanding, challenging this year in the European zone instead of the American, the Japanese open against the Hungarians.

24 Entrants in European Zone.

As there were 24 entrants in the European section, eight drew byes into the second round.

Upper half: Second round (drew first round byes)—Czechoslovakia vs. Denmark, Holland vs. Finland.

First round—Greece vs. India, Japan vs. Hungary, Jugoslavia vs. Sweden, Belgium vs. Spain.

Lower half: First round—Australia vs. Switzerland, Monaco vs. Ireland, Poland vs. Roumania, Germany vs. Great Britain.

Second round (drew first round byes)—Norway vs. Austria, Italy vs. Egypt.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Feb. 3.—Florida's leather pushers, runners-up in the Southern Conference Boxing Tournament here last March, opened their Northern invasion by taking four out of the seven matches from the Virginit mittmen here tonight.

In the bantam event Manardi, of Forida, outpointed Wright, but the Cavaliers knotted the count in the next bout, when Legiglea, making his season's debut, scored a technical knockout over Dykes, the Gator featherweight, near the close of the third round. Phil O'Connell, captain of the Florida Team and winner of the Southern Conference featherweight title last year, was awarded the verdict over the Cavalier lightweight, Smith, who had the better of the first round.

The count was evened when Kesser, Cavalier welterweight, won an extra-round verdict over McLanahan. McHugh, Virginia middleweight, registered his second victory of the season to put the Cavaliers out in front, but the two final bouts went to the Gator representatives, Marsales winning out over Gentry in the lightweight match and Proctor flooring Webb after one minute of fast milling in the unlimited event. Close to 2,500 people witnessed the matches.

Unlimited—Proctor (Florida) defeated Webb (Virginia) technical knockout after 1 minute of first round.

Referee—Brockman (Baltimore). Judges—Welch (Army) and Richey (Yale).

Tilden Easily Wins Cannes Tennis Final

Cannes, France, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Bill Tilden easily defeated Hermann Artens, Austria's second ranking player, in the final round of the Cannes tennis tournamet today. The scores of the one-sided match were 6—0, 6—2, 6—0.

The American champion was playing in the best form he has yet shown on the Riviera. Artens, who previously had been showing well, was outclassed and he was lucky to win two games. Big Bill's whirlwind service mystified him completely. Tilden played a total of 102 games in the tourney, losing but 18.

In the doubles semifinals today Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon beat Lyttleton Rogers, of Ireland, and Erik Worm, of Denmark, 6—0, 6—3, 10—8.

Hilltop Team Beats Crude Opposition

Mountaineers Always Close Despite Awkward Play.

By JACK ESPEY.

WEST VIRGINIA'S MOUNTAINEERS, who seem to be thinking of football when they play basket ball, were the second best team on the court at Tech High School last night, when they met the clever tossers of Georgetown. The Blue and Gray, with calmness and precision which stood out in bold relief to the disorder and awkwardness of their foes, carried off a 34-31 victory in a pulse-tingling battle witnessed by 1,200 spectators.

It was sweet revenge for the Hilltoppers, who were the victims of West Virginia's haphazard style last month at Morgantown, and the result was as it should have been. The partisan Blue and Gray crowd fairly rocked the gymnasium with cheers at the finish.

If it had been football instead of basket ball the big boys from the hills probably would have won. They appeared to be masters at shoving, pushing and blocking, while in the rule-fracturing business of "walking around" or taking too many steps, they displayed proficiency that was well-nigh marvelous.

Glenn's Shooting Disappoints.

This was the West Virginia team that shocked the basket ball world last Saturday night by trampling the highly rated Washington and Lee Five, 50 to 34. It had the touted "Little Sleepy" Glenn, supposed to be a deadly shooter, who had been publicized as the second leading point scorer in the East last year. It also presented Johny Doyle, who blasted the netting for 19 points against Washington and Lee.

Glenn scored only 7 points—two field goals and three free tosses, and looked like a big, lumbering giant alongside of wee Fredy Mesmer, who guarded him. One of Glenn's goals resulted from a wild stab in a scrimmage near the basket, and the other came from a long heave, which seemed to be escorted in its flight by Lady Luck. Little Mesmer scored two goals, neither of which touched the rim on well-aimed shots, and sank one of two free throws during the 25 minutes he was in the game.

Walter Morris, local boy who returned to action after a lapse of two weeks owing to an ankle injury, guarded Glenn, while Mesmer sat on the bench during most three-quarters of the second half. Morris also outplayed the Mountaineer captain and came through with a trio of one-pointers which helped Georgetown greatly in the waning moments.

Dillon's Performance Outstanding.

The individual star of the game turned up in Paul Dillon, one of Coach Dudack's utility men, who performed miracles under the basket to collect the fine total of 14 points. Despite considerable jostling and pawing, he dropped in six field goals and made good on two out of five charity chances.

Capt. Maurice McCarthy contributed the shot which sealed victory when he deposited the ball from close range on a long pass from Packy White in the last 15 seconds with the score reading 32 to 31 in favor of Georgetown.

Score Always Close.

The closeness of the score belies the fact that Georgetown was vastly superior as a basket ball team. If the Mountaineers had stuck to basket ball the Hilltoppers might have swamped them.

From start to finish the score was close. West Virginia had enough luck on its long shots to keep its count near that of Georgetown. When the home crew would score on well-executed passing and shooting, the visitors would retaliate with some sort of unorthodox play.

Going into the second half with a 14-13 advantage, Georgetown drew away quickly on follow shots by Dillon and McCarthy. Then Bartrug, West Virginia center, made a four-

SCOTT OPENS TRAINING IN FLORIDA

English Star in Light Workout; Sharkey Again Spars.

By NED BROWN.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 3 (N.Y. W.N.S.).—Things began looking up today in this Jack Sharkey-Phil Scott affair booked for culmination on the 27th of this month in Miami. The boys sprang the first of the "referee" stories and Scott actually got his training under way. He made his opening gestures in the Harvey Seeds American Legion Post arena and quite a few tourists eschewed their golf and their swimming to appraise the English heavyweight champion.

Scott's workout consisted chiefly of posing in belligerent attitudes for the photographers, who, strangely enough, seemed particularly eager to shoot Philip in reclining postures, which he assumed in doing his calisthenics. It augured ill for Philip's chances in the minds of picture men.

Of course, Scott did no boxing. The social amenities must be observed, and it isn't the thing for a fighter to cut loose with his training right off the bat. He has to become acclimated first, and so have the prospective customers.

Scott Weighs 215 Pounds.

Scott weighed 215 pounds today, and a lot of it seemed to be hanging around his middle. "Hanging" is the correct word. Philip expects to be trimmed down to about 204 pounds for the fight, but it wouldn't surprise me if he was trimmed even further than that.

Jack Renault is scheduled to arrive here Thursday and Jimmy Johnston made the grand gesture when he offered $500 for any sparring partner who could "knock Scott off his pins in a practice bout."

Mid-south Golf Title Won by Helen Hicks

Pinehurst, N. C., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Miss Helen Hicks, of Hewlitt, Long Island, brilliant young metropolitan district star, won the third annual women's midsouth golf championship here today.

Miss Hicks eliminated Miss Helen Waring, of New York, 6 and 5, in the semifinals this morning, and in the finals this afternoon she had a still easier victory over Miss Helen B. Morrison, of Pittsburgh, winning 7 and 5.

For the third time in the tournament, Miss Hicks today covered the outward nine holes of the Rolly Pine Needles Course in 39 strokes, which made her four up on Miss Morrison in the final match.

Mrs. Mickey Walker Is Denied Alimony

Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Mrs. Margaret Walker, of Rumson, N. J., wife of Mickey Walker, middleweight boxing champion, today was denied temporary alimony by Vice Chancellor Fielder. Mrs. Walker, through her counsel, had asked a "reasonable allowance" of alimony and counsel fees pending trial of her suit for divorce. She was allowed $200 counsel fees. Mrs. Walker charges cruelty, intoxication and association with other women.

William J. Hanely, counsel for the boxer, told the court today that Walker had given his wife real estate and securities valued at $234,009.

CENTRAL AIMS TO STOP TECH'S TITLE DRIVE TODAY

Keen Rivalry Flares Again In Series

Western Five Faces Elimination in Business Clash.

IF two scholastic fives can repeat their first-round victories scored over their rivals for this afternoon, there'll be a great old four-cornered tie for first place in the Interhigh League when the final crack of the timekeeper's gun is heard shortly before 7 o'clock tonight in the Tech High gymnasium.

With the big thrill featuring the clash of old rivals, Central and Tech, saved for the nightcap, Western can do its part toward starting the deadlock by scoring over a luckless Business team in the opener, starting at 3:45 o'clock. In that event, Central would only have to turn back last year's champs again in order to assure itself, Eastern and Western of being on even terms with Tech, the present leader.

Defeated but twice in the current series, the Maroon and Gray has bowed but one time less than the other three contenders, and more than the cheers of Central students will be heard against Tech today. A win for Tech would leave but Eastern standing in its path to its second straight title, with the game between these fives scheduled for the last day of the league season on Friday.

Central Only Team Changing Its Line-up.

With the exception of Central, each of the teams will stand pat on its line-up which performed in its last series game. However, in an effort to tie the leaders and at the same time to break a three-game losing streak which has proven disastrous to his charges, it is expected that Coach Coggins will make one important change. Downey Rice, regular pivot man for the Blue and White, is expected to go to forward, with George Brandt, erstwhile gridiron captain, taking Rice's place at center. This is the team that has performed for Central in its last two outside games. Lampson and Parkins will again be seen in the guard positions.

Tech will present its regular combination, although Everett Johnson, 1929 forward, has recently become eligible. Johnson is not thought to be in any kind of condition, however, and it is doubtful if he will be seen in action for Tech this year.

Although seeing little action, Frank Cumberland and Henry Broadbent, Central reserves, were yesterday declared ineligible as the result of advisory marks just announced. The ban will probably affect neither considerably, however, as interhigh baseball, a sport participated in by Cumberland, will not start until after the start until after the start of the next advisory, six weeks hence.

None of the five court squads lost a member for the remaining two days of interhigh competition. Although Eastern regained the services of Ben McCullough, his presence in the line-up is doubted in his team's last two games.

point play—field goal and two fouls—and Doyle scored on a dribble, making the score 19-18 in West Virginia's favor.

Here Morris sank two fouls in succession to give Georgetown the lead again, but Glenn interrupted with his weird flip and the lead changed hands once more. This was a sample of the nature of the proceedings.

Finally, with the score tied at 30-30, and three minutes remaining, White, who substituted for Dillon, holed a free toss. Thereafter Georgetown kept in front.

UPSEDAISY, moving into the lead after the first quarter, continued well to the stretch, where she responded gamely to pressure, but was all out at the finish. APPLAUD, far out in the early running, closed an immense gap in the stretch and, with a better judged ride, might have won. ROYAL SPORT, hard ridden throughout, hung under severe punishment in the stretch.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FILM, $9.20, $3.30, $3.20; THE DAGO, $2.50, $2.40; BLACK FLYER, $6.30.

FILM, away in a tangle, met with sharp interference while racing on the inside rounding the end turn, then closed gamely through the stretch and, overhauling THE DAGO, outfinished the latter in a hard drive. THE DAGO, away well, raced forwardly on the outside for three furlongs, then moved into the lead, but weakened in the final drive. BLACK FLYER, a forward factor throughout, finished well.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; allowances. The Burnside. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:02. Winner, M. Dearthrace's br. g. ORMONHEART raced improved, took the lead at once and easily held sway to the stretch where, though tiring, just lasted under hard riding to hold race safe. LEYLAND, reserved off the early pace, slipped through on the inside in the stretch and would have won had a few more strides. KLINGSTONE raced forwardly placed to the stretch, where he challenged in resolute fashion, then hung slightly in the final sixteenth.

SIXTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,000; allowances. The Dolores. For 3-year-olds and upward, fillies and mares. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:33. Winner, G. W. Glick's b. f. D. C. RUNNERS COMPETE IN GOTHAM

G. U. and Maryland Trackmen Entered in Meets.

A SQUAD of fifteen Capital college athletes, representing Georgetown and Maryland, will compete Saturday night at New York City in the annual Millrose A. A. indoor track and field games.

Georgetown has entered its mile and 2-mile relay teams, and Leo Sexton, high jumper, and Erik Kjellstrom, hurdler, while Maryland has entered a mile four and Bob Quinn, sprinter.

Coach John D. O'Reilly today will hold time trials at the Hilltop to determine the personnel of the mile and 2-mile Georgetown quartets. Those fighting for positions on the mile team are Vic Burke, Chuck Carlin, John Cranley, Bob Shotter, Artie Briggs, Louis Ricca, James Nolan, Al Halpern and James Brown. Aspirants for the 2-mile team are Capt. Larry Milstead, Jay Julicher, John Downing, Jack Mara, Richard Douglas and Clarion Cosh.

Capt. Quinn in Invitation 50-yard Dash.

Coach Gerry Epply, of Maryland, has just about decided on the members of the Terrapin mile team. Dick White, formerly of Eastern High; Bob Havell, Urban Linzey and Bill Kinnamon are fairly positive of getting the assignments. Quinn, a former Tech High star, will compete in the invitation 50-yard dash. He is the captain of the Terrapin track squad this season.

Sexton, of Georgetown, will meet a stellar field of rivals in the high jump. There isn't one who hasn't bettered 6 feet 2 inches. Among his foes will be Bob King, 1928 Olympic champion; Ben Hedges, of Princeton, Olympic runner-up and intercollegiate champion; Bert Nelson, of Butler University, who last Saturday jumped 6 feet 6¾ inches to exceed the national indoor standard by one-half inch; George Spitz, of Flushing (N. Y.) High School, schoolboy champion; Charles Major, former national champion, and William Pump, formerly of Colgate, joint holder with Hedges of the indoor intercollegiate crown.

The inclement weather of January handicapped Sexton's training efforts. However, he is in fine condition and is expected by Hilltop adherents to acquit himself creditably.

Kjellstrom May Find 60 Yards Too Short for Him.

Kjellstrom will be making his first competitive appearance in collegiate circles since he won the 400-meter hurdles at the Penn relays last spring. The distance, 60 yards, is a little too short for him.

Karl Wildermuth, Georgetown's 100-yard dash intercollegiate champion, who suffered a pulled tendon in his right leg two weeks ago, will probably resume training in ten days, Coach O'Reilly revealed yesterday. He will not attempt competitive running, however, until the annual I. C. 4-A meet on March 1.

WEEK BRINGS 2 FEATURE PIN TESTS

Valet and King Pin Teams Meet Tonight for 2d in League.

THE first of two headline duckpin battles scheduled for this week will be staged tonight at Lucky Strike when the Grand Palace Valet Shop and King Pin teams of the National Capital League clash. Many of the same bowlers who comprise these two teams will also meet Friday night in the King Pin-Temple clash of the District League at Northeast Temple. This latter match promises to decide the championship of the major circuit.

Since their last meeting, the Grand Palace and King Pin teams have been shuffled backward in the race by the fast-stepping Meyer Davis pinmen, who are out in front in the National Capital League by two full games. However, the Valetmen and champion King Pins are practically tied for second place with the top berth easily within reach. The outcome of tonight's set will play a prominent part in the ultimate awarding of the title.

Rosenberg on Sidelines.

Grand Palace will probably face the champions tonight minus the services of their star anchor, Maxie Rosenberg, who is nursing an ankle sprained nearly two weeks ago. After his sweepstakes victory, Maxie injured the sprained ankle again and is planning to keep off the drives until the crucial District League match starts Friday night.

Paul Harrison, Tony Santini, Jack Wolstenholme, Ollie Pacini, Leo Rinaldi, Joe Harrison and Popkins will carry the burden for the Valetmen. The King Pine line-up includes: Dutch Weidman, Jasper Naples, Bernie Frye, Chester Bild and Howard Campbell. In their previous meeting, the Valetmen won the odd game.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Feb. 3.—The first important game to be played in the Alexandria Gazette series is due tomorrow night when the Knight Store Five tackles the St. Mary's Celtics in the Armory Hall beginning at 8:15 o'clock. The Knights and Celtics got off to a good start last week, each winning its opening game. The Knights are strengthened by the return of Capt. Cronin to the line-up, the latter having been laid up with a sprained ankle. The St. Mary's Celtics, with ten consecutive victories, will send their strongest team on the floor.

Two teams in the city series have been strengthened by the return of local boys from colleges. The St. Mary's Celtics have bolstered their strength considerably with Lester McMeniman at center. He has just returned home after playing regular center for the William and Mary Team. Babe Clarke, who captained the William and Mary Freshman Five, will be seen in the Del Ray line-up on Thursday night against the fast Whitestone Five. The addition of these two boys to the line-up will boost the series a great deal.

Coach Reynolds of the Alexandria High School, is taking no chances on overworking his boys for the third district race, in which his team is leading by a good margin with three wins and no defeats. Tallahassee, Fla., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Assistant Attorney General H. E. Carter held today that the system of racing employed at a recent meet at Pompano, as described to him by State Attorney Louis F. Maire, of Broward County, in which the track is located, constitutes "gambling under the stautes."

In the opinion, requested by Maire for guidance in case of a resumption of racing at the track, the assistant attorney general declared operation of the track under such a plan could be enjoined as a nuisance. Plans for a meet after the close of the Hialeah track have been announced.

COMMODITIES' DROP SENDS STOCKS DOWN

Opening Prices Climb but Are Offset by Losses at Day's Close.

GENERAL RISE IN RAILS

New York, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Efforts to extend the recovery of stock prices today were frustrated by a sharp break in the commodities markets. Operators for the advance succeeded in marking up a long list of issues 1 to 6 points in the early trading, but the break in wheat and corn apparently stimulated the liquidation of stocks by Middle Western speculators, who sought to protect margins in the grain markets, with the result that stocks turned lower in the last hour of trading.

Most of the early gains were cut down, or wiped out, and a long list of issues closed with net declines of 1 to 8 points. Total sales, which fell just short of 3,800,000 shares, set a new high record for the year.

Wheat dropped 4 cents or more a bushel to new low levels for the season on selling influenced by continued heavy offerings of the French and Russian products in Europe, unfavorable export statistics and a denial of reports that the Department of Agriculture had predicted higher prices later in the year. The March option sold down to $1.13 a bushel. Corn sagged more than a cent a bushel on reports of an increase in the visible supply. Cotton dropped $2 to $2.50 a bushel also, to new low levels, in sympathy with an earlier break in Liverpool.

20 Rails Advance.

Rails offered the best resistance to selling pressure, the index of 20 leading issues in that group setting a new high level for the year. New York & Harlem, which scored a spectacular gain of 105 points in odd-lot trading last week, ran up 19 more, to 324, broke to 275, and then rebounded to 279 for a net loss of 26 points. In view of the sharp advance in prices last week, the reaction in the public utilities and industrials was regarded largely as in the nature of a technical correction.

The bullish effect of a further upturn in steel operations was tempered somewhat by the fact that prices have been on the down grade, and are lower than they were a year ago. U. S. Steel common touched a new high on the current recovery at 185, dropped to 181½, and closed at 182, for a net loss of 2½ points. Youngstown Sheet & Tube lost 6¼ points.

A brisk flurry of buying developed in the copper shares on reports of a sharp expansion in the operation of fabricating plants, although buying of the red metal continued quiet. Producers expect a sharp pick-up in the foreign demand in the next few weeks and believe this may also stimulate a demand from domestic consumers, who have been pursuing a "hand-to-mouth" buying policy in the belief that the price would be cut below 18 cents a pound. Gains of 1 to 3 points in the active copper shares were cut down when the general market turned heavy.

Columbia Carbon Declines.

Late selling was directed principally against such speculative issues as Simmons, J. I. Case and Columbian Carbon, which have been the favorite trading vehicle of some of the large Middle Western operators. Net declines in this group ranged from 6 to 8 points.

Call money held steady at 4½ per cent all day, with the supply of funds nominal, although the return flow of February 1 dividend and interest payments to the banks is expected to bring about a lowering of the rate later in the week. Time money was quoted at 4¾ to 5 instead of 4½ to 4¾ per cent. Prime commercial paper and bankers' acceptance rates were unchanged.

The New York Stock Exchange reported a decline of $4,742,208 in member loans last month, one of the smallest changes on record, bringing the total down to $3,984,768,065, which contrasts with a total of $6,735,164,242 on January 31, 1929, and the record-breaking total of $8,549,383,979 on September 30 last.

Establishment of new low levels for the year by the British, French and Argentine currencies featured the lower foreign exchange market. Sterling cables were quoted around $4.86¾.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—A decline of approximately $2.50 per bale occurred in the cotton market today under a renewal of liquidation or reselling by buyers of late last week who appeared to be influenced by relatively easy Liverpool cables and disappointment over the failure of a more aggressive demand to develop following the recent declines. Prices for all positions made new low record for the season and movement with May declining to 16.08, or 51 points below Saturday's closing quotation. That delivery closed at 16.20 and active months generally rallied a few points from the lowest on covering in the later trading, with the close steady at net declines of 39 to 48 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 14 to 19 points in response to the relatively easy Liverpool cables. There was some trade buying and covering, but it seemed to be readily supplied on moderate bulges and the market showed increasing weakness as prices slipped below the low levels of last week. Selling was more or less general and some stop orders were uncovered as the break which extended to 15.85 for March, 16.31 for July and 16.52 for October during the middle of the afternoon, or about 50 to 62 points net lower. Covering became active enough to check the decline at these figures, and closing quotations showed rallies of 6 to 12 points from the lowest on the more active positions.

The market appeared to be nervous and unsettled from the start. Demand was less active after the covering of late last week, while there was selling on the relatively easy showing of Liverpool. Liquidation and selling generally became more active as prices worked much lower without encountering aggressive support, and the market was very unsettled during the afternoon when sentiment was probably influenced by weakness in the wheat market and complaints of a continued slow spot demand.

Cables from Liverpool said that business in cotton cloths and yarns was restricted and that stocks were accumulating. Houses with Liverpool connections were among the early sellers here.

Port receipts today, 11,464. U. S. port stocks, 2,386,809. Exports, 38,769, making 5,018,273 so far this season.

LIVE FOREIGN BONDS MARK TODAY'S NEWS

RAILS PROVE IRREGULAR

New York, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Foreign bonds furnished the feature in today's market. Net changes in this group were well mixed, but there was considerable activity, especially in the French listings. That government's 7½s made a new high at 121¼ on a turnover of $235,000, principal amount. The 7s also moved higher.

Other important changes included losses of more than 3 points in Colombian Agricultural 6s of 1947 and Colombian Mortgage Bank 7s. Belgian 8s eased nearly a point, but the 6½s sold up to 109 for a net advance of ⅞. Denmark 6s, Budapest 6s, Italy 7s, several of the French municipals, Ujigawa Electric Power 7s, Rio de Janeiro 6½s, Austrian 4½s and Brazil 8s were other popular issues, although advances held to fractions.

Time Money Firm.

Firmer time money, which was quoted at 4¾ to 5 per cent for all maturities, served to restrict interest in the domestic corporation bonds, which were again irregular. United States Government gained ground in the late trading after early easiness, the Treasury 4s and 4¼s rising ⅜.

Rails were irregular. Atchison general 4s lost ⅞, Baltimore & Ohio 5s dropped ½, Pennsylvania gold 5s sagged ⅝, and New Haven collateral 6s fell a point. Some of the secondary rails, including Soo Line 6s, and Hudson & Manhattan refunding 5s, closed about a point higher.

Communication convertibles sold off sharply. American Telephone 4½s declined 3½ points to 146½, closing at 147 for a net loss of 3, while International Telephone 4½s dropped 4¼, losing most of the gain they had made late last week.

American Telephone 5s Firm.

Utility company bonds of standard descriptions were mixed. American Telephone 5s of 1965, held very high, but easing tendencies prevailed in Consolidated Gas of New York 5½s, Duquesne Light 4½, Southwestern Bell Telephone 5s and International Telephone debenture 4½s. The last named yielded a full point. Small fractional advances developed on buying of New Orleans Public Service 5s, series B, and Columbia Gas & Electric 5s, May maturity.

Most of the larger changes in the industrials involved speculative and semispeculative bonds. Cuba Cane Sugar 8s climbed 2¼, International Paper 6s gained 1⅞, Fisk Rubber 8s rose 2½. Pressed Steer Car 5s lost a point. High-grade industrials were firm.

WASHINGTON GAS CO. NET INCOME CLIMBS

Gain of $100,000 in Revenue Is Shown by 1929 Report.

BANK FORUM MEETING

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

A record year for the Washington Gas Light Co. is revealed in its eighty-second annual report released yesterday, showing net income for the year of $772,441.78 as compared with $658,768.89 for 1928. Net income before annual adjustment for the month of December was $68,726.59 as against $36,863.09 for the month in 1928.

The figures show a better year than 1928 despite the loss in cash revenues of $97,154 due to a change made in the meter reading system, shortening the billing year by five days. The South Atlantic States average increase in sales was 3.1 per cent for the 11 months ended November 30, and the growth of the local company for the year was about the same.

The report of the company, issued by President Ord Preston, shows that net corporate income amounted to $772,441.78, of which $468,000 was distributed in dividends, the same as has been paid for the last 12 years. There was carried to surplus $304,441.78, an increase over the previous year of $113,672.89. The total amount of gas sold was 6,081,441,205 cubic feet, an increase of 90,004,170 cubic feet over 1928.

5,828 More Meters.

There were in use at the end of the year 696 miles of main of all sizes, approximately 77,700 house services, 8,368 street lamps and, including the subsidiary companies, 130,219 meters. This is an increase of 5,828 meters during the year. Net expenditures for additions, betterments and improvements to plant and equipment amounted to $500,-235.47. Of this amount, 60 per cent was used for the distribution system.

The new garage located at 1100 Twenty-eighth street northwest, adjacent to the stores and shops building completed in 1928, was put into service early in the year and the concentration of the departments housed in these two neighboring buildings has produced satisfactory results.

During the latter part of the year the company put into operation a modern mechanical accounting system for the handling of customers' accounts, at the same time adopting the continuous meter reading method. These changes will produce better records and effect economies in operation.

Net corporate income for the Georgetown Gas Light Co., before annual adjustments, for December was $16,167.93, as compared with $11,-634.92 for December, 1928, and that for the year, $154,070.58, as against $113,830.36. The annual election of the Washington Gas Light Co. was postponed from yesterday until March 4.

New Iglehart Associates.

Announcement was made yesterday that Donald M. Nixdorff, of Winchester, Va., and Charles D. Carroll and Horace C. Haines, of Washington, have become associated with the Washington office of J. A. W. Iglehart & Co. Mr. Nixdorff was formerly with Hemphill, Noyes & Co.; Mr. Carroll with the Chase Securities Corporation and the American Security & Trust Co.; Mr. Haines with Westheimer & Co. and the Riggs National Bank.

The Iglehart firm is enlarging its Washington organization and increasing its facilities here partly because of the growth of its business since it acquired a seat on the New York Stock Exchange, about six months ago, and partly in anticipation of continued improvement in the demand for bonds.

Just before the first of the year announcement was made that John M. Dalger and Robert Stead, jr., would be the resident managers of the firm's Washington office, which is in the National Savings & Trust Building. Other offices are in Baltimore, Md.; Richmond, Va.; Wilmington, Del.; Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; Charleston, W. Va., and Clarksburg, W. Va. It is understood that plans are being made to open another office in the South.

The firm is a member of the New York, Baltimore and Richmond Stock Exchanges, and an associate member of the New York Curb Exchange.

Bankers to Attend Meeting.

Numerous bankers and representatives of insurance and trust companies plan to attend a conference of the trust company section of the American Bankers Association in New York City February 18, a special feature of which will be consideration of means to make the public better acquainted with life insurance trusts.

The first forum meeting of the season for Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, will be held in the ballroom of the Raleigh Hotel on the evening of February 12 at 8 o'clock. Dr. Birl E. Schulz, educational director, New York Stock Exchange, will give an illustrated lecture on "The Nation's Market Place." A buffet supper will follow. The forum committee is composed of James A. Soper, chairman; H. W. Burnside, T. Hunton Leith and I. J. Roberts.

I. A. Long, former assistant cashier of the Peoples National Bank of Leesburg, Va., has been appointed manager of the municipal bond department of the Mercantile-Commerce Co., investment division of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co., St. Louis, Mo.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

GAMBLING MACHINE OPERATORS WARNED

Arlington Owners Told to Quit Operating Slot Devices.

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 309. Clarendon, Va.

Supported by the decision of Judge Howard W. Smith, who in the circuit court at Fairfax a few days ago ruled that the slot machines which were operating then in Fairfax were in violation of the code of Virginia, Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth, of Arlington County, yesterday instructed the office of county commissioner of revenue that no more licenses should be issued for their operation in Arlington County.

Having ordered that no more licenses be issued, Sheriff Howard B. Fields was notified by Mr. Gloth that all persons operating such machines be notified forthwith that they must close them up.

All county officers have been ordered to canvass the county and where such machines are found notify those having them that it is against the law and that they will not be permitted to continue their operation within the county.

What promises to be one of the most spirited political campaigns waged in Arlington County for a public office was indicated yesterday with the statement made by Capt. Crandal Mackey that he is giving serious consideration to the many appeals from his friends that he enter the race for Congress from the Eighth Congressional District.

With Judge Howard W. Smith, of Alexandria, and State Senator Frank L. Ball, from Arlington County, now in the race with the announcement by Capt. Mackey a most spirited fight is promised.

Capt. Mackey, who has been a resident of the county for the past 34 years, held the office of Commonwealth's attorney for three terms for a total of twelve years. During his term of office he holds the record of having cleaned up many sections of the county of alleged gamblers. In 1923 he broke up what was considered one of the biggest gambling houses in the county, bringing truck loads of the equipment to the county courthouse.

Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth, with Edward Duncan, B. M. Hedrick and E. C. Turnburke, members of the Arlington County Board of Supervisors, leave today for Richmond where they will attend the hearing on the proposed change in the distribution of the gasoline tax by the State to be held tomorrow by the special committee from the General Assembly.

Mr. Gloth stated yesterday that at this time he has no comment to make on the proposed changes. He stated further that he will be governed by the recommendations he receives from both Senator Frank L. Ball and Delegate Hugh Reid.

Announcement was made yesterday by F. E. Mann, secretary of the Cherrydale Citizens Association, that a program for the waging of an extensive membership campaign has been completed.

"The purpose of a citizens' association is to promote the interests of the community and to work for further improvements," said Mr. Mann. "With a strong organization and all members working in harmony much can be accomplished," he said.

With this in view a circular letter with the plans of the association for the year, together with a membership card will be sent through the mail to all residents of Cherrydale, Mr. Mann stated last night.

The Arlington Volunteer Fire Department will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow night in the Firemen's Hall on Columbia pike at 8 o'clock.

Group 1 of St. George's Guild of St. George's Episcopal Church will meet tomorrow at 1 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Tupper Stone, Marion avenue, chairman.

The Arlington Post, American Legion, No. 139, announces that it will give a benefit card party the evening of February 19 in the Boulevard Bakery at Clarendon.

The proceeds will go to the drum and bugle corps of the local post.

The ladies' auxiliary of the Clarendon Fire Department meeting last night at the home of the president, Mrs. Louis C. Carl, formulated plans for a benefit dinner to be given the latter part of the month. The time and place of the dinner will be announced later.

The Woman's Club of Lyon Park will hold its monthly card party tomorrow night in the community house, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. T. P. Gary is chairman in charge of the arrangements.

Marriage license issued in Arlington County yesterday:

Joseph I. Robinson, 24, and Mildred M. Smith, 22, both of Arlington. The Rev. James E. Green.

Mrs. Bertha Kelley, of Ashton Heights, was elected chairman of the Arlington County Chapter, American Red Cross, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Jeneffer Broaddus, at a meeting last night.

Owing to the fact that Mrs. Broaddus is now a resident of the City of Alexandria, as a result of the recent annexation, her resignation became necessary after having served as the chairman of the local chapter for more than four years.

The final report of George A. Collier, chairman of the annual roll call, shows that Arlington County went over the top with its quota of 1,000 by having gained a total of 1,003 members. Of the total amount of funds raised by the drive $628.84 remains in the county.

It was shown by the report that with 293 persons becoming members in Washington the county lost 20.

Following the business meeting a farewell reception to Mrs. Broaddus was held as a token of appreciation of her services to the chapter.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. W. M. Seligmann, Hamilton avenue, Clarendon.

Funeral services for Mrs. Clara Jane Lucas, 48 years old, who died at her home in Ballston yesterday, will be conducted from Emmanuel Episcopal Church, Anacostia, D. C., by the Rev L. B. Frank tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, following brief services at the home at 1 o'clock. Interment will be in Glenwood Cemetery.

Besides her husband, she is survived by one daughter, Louise Lucas.

Quarantine Order Issued at Clemson

Cadets Are Isolated After Meningitis Case Is Discovered.

Clemson, S. C., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—The Clemson College Cadet Corps was quarantined today when a case of cerebro spinal meningitis developed in one of the students.

A freshman, Sanford Graham, of Loris, S. C., was taken to the college hospital suffering with the disease and was isolated. College authorities, in quarentining the corps, said it was done to prevent infection among other students. Dr. Lee W. Milford, college surgeon, said he did not feel there was any danger of epidemic, but recommended the quarantine as a precautionary measure.

Until further notice, no students will be permitted to leave the campus, it was announced. The basket ball game between Clemson College and Kentucky, scheduled for tonight, was ordered played with only students admitted.

JURY GETS CASE TODAY

Special to The Washington Post.

Romney, W. Va., Feb. 3.—The prosecution of Walter Crabtree, 36, charged with the slaying of three men here December 18 and for one of which, that of Justice of the Peace H. Carter Inskeep, he is now on trial, put on medical and personal testimony today to combat the defense claim, made Saturday, that Crabtree was insane when he committed the violences.

Dr. L. V. Guthrie, superintendent of the State Hospital at Huntington, W. Va., said he had examined Crabtree in jail in Keyser, the day before the trial, started and found him mentally sound; he disputed the defense contention that Crabtree was a moron and testified that Crabtree knew right from wrong and pronounced him sane. He found no signs of any physical condition that would indicate lack of sanity.

Dr. Cecil Denham, superintendent of the hospital at Weston, supported the opinion of Dr. Guthrie. In answer to a hypothetical question, he said he thought Crabtree was sane the day of the crimes, and was sane during the present trial.

Twelve witnesses, all citizens of Romney and acquainted personally with Crabtree and his record, were introduced by the State today, and gave their estimate of him as being a sane, responsible person. They thought he had been sane all his life and able to transact business intelligently. It was developed by Floyd King and Ralph Bailey, both of a garage company here, that Crabtree had frequently been left in full charge of the garage for short periods. They regarded him as sane and honest.

Both State and defense rested after completion of the State rebuttal evidence. Judge Hughes recessed court until tomorrow morning, when the jury will be instructed and the summation pleas will be heard. It is expected the case will go to the jury tomorrow afternoon.

Today was the seventh day of the trial. Crabtree's plea is not guilty and his defense is insanity. In addition to Justice Inskeep, he is charged with having slain Jailer Ben H. Miller and Edward Wolford during the course of a two-hour rampage.

Good Market Seen For Dark Tobacco

Expert Tells Gathering in Lynchburg of 1930 Prospects.

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Feb. 3.—Dark tobacco growers appear to occupy a favorable position in 1930, Dr. C. C. Taylor, of the V. P. I. extension division, told a meeting of 140 farmers, merchants, bankers and county farm agents at the Virginian Hotel here today. The meeting was held under auspices of the Lynchburg Chamber of Commerce. Attendance was for the most part from ten counties contiguous to Lynchburg.

Present good prices result, he said, from a cut in the acreage. He added that if there is more than a 15 per cent increase this year, producers will be headed back to low prices. Dr. Taylor predicted that bright tobacco prices will be lower this year. The same is true of Burley, unless there be a considerable acreage reduction.

The general trend of apples, he said, will be lower and the outlook for live stock is unfavorable, but milk and cream production will probably increase during the next five years with a price tendency downward.

Rocking Chair Gives Gurgle; Bottles Found

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Feb. 3.—Because she rocked in her chair, Mrs. Lilly Ables, of East Weston, today faced a 60-day term in jail and a fine of $100 imposed by Magistrate W. C. Ratcliffe. While raiding officers searched her home for liquor, Mrs. Ables rocked contentedly back and forth in her chair.

After a while, when the officers had given up, one detected a queer gurgling, squeaking sound from the moving rocker. Mrs. Ables was asked to get up and two bottles of alleged moonshine whisky were found under the cushion.

FIVE ARE ARRESTED AS THEFT SUSPECTS

Three Prisoners Are to Have Preliminary Hearings in Fairfax Today.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Vienna, Va.
Phone Vienna, 64.

Word was received yesterday morning by Sheriff Eppa P. Kirby from Sheriff Stanley Wolfe, of Warrenton, that he had arrested four men and a woman in Warrenton, who, he said, were connected with the robbery of the store of Morris and Uselton at Chantilly last Tuesday morning.

Sheriff Kirby accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Vernon Cockerill and the owners of the store went to Warrenton to identify the goods and bring the prisoners to Fairfax. Those arrested gave their names as Mary Walker, Roy Green, Harry Jackson, George Smith and Isaiah Morgan, all colored, of Warrenton. Practically all the goods stolen were recovered.

These parties had been under suspicion for sometime, the sheriff said, in connection with several robberies in Warrenton and when Sheriff Wolfe raided their house he found the goods belonging to Morris and Uselton and a large still. Smith and Morgan were held by the Warrenton authorities for possession of the still while the others were turned over to Sheriff Kirby and brought to the Fairfax Jail.

In making their alleged confession to Sheriff Kirby, they stated that they left Warrenton Monday evening in an automobile for the purpose of robbing the Chantilly store, and that they waited until early Tuesday morning and gained entrance by prying a bar loose from the window and then unlocking the front door. They then returned to Warrenton they said. Preliminary hearings will be held today.

Thomas, home demonstration agent and girls' 4-H club leader, and Miss Edith Thompson, rural supervisor of white schools.

Miss Annie Robey Walker, musical instructor of the schools, will have charge of the musical program. Selections will be given by Herndon High School Orchestra, Lee-Jackson School Glee Club, Girls 4-H Club, and several harmonica clubs.

Miles G. Falkenstien, 23, and Harriet A. Kline Felter, 21, students of the University of Maryland, at College Park, were married in the Methodist parsonage at Fairfax by the Rev. L. B. Atkins late Saturday evening. Marriage license was issued by Deputy County Clerk E. R. Holbrook.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

LUELLA attended a lecture, came home enthused.

"It must be great to stand on a platform and sway people," she cried, throwing hat and cloak aside. For a moment, I feared she would climb on the sofa and try to sway me.

"My, but you're excited," I told her.

"You'd be excited, too, had you been there. It was perfectly divine!"

"What was it all about?"

"Soviet Russia and the Reds!"

"The Reds? You mean the Red Sox, don't you?"

"The Red Sox? Who're they?"

What a short memory she has. It was only last season I took her to see the Red Sox play the Yankees—and she had forgotten.

"That's the trouble with you," she complained, after I had lectured her, "you think only of America and American institutions when there is this great sociological experiment going on in Russia——"

"What sociological experiment?"

"SOVIETISM," she whispered, fearful-like, "and if you don't look out, the Reds'll come over here some day and shake you out of your lethargy."

That made me mad.

"They will, eh? I'd like to see the Reds come over here, from Russia or any other country! We'd give 'em a coat of White and Blue and make Americans out of 'em!." I yelled, "Red, White and Blue"

My patriotism stirred, I mounted the sofa, delivered a lecture on Americanism that Luella thought the greatest she ever heard.

She clapped her hands, in admiration.

"Gee!" she cried, enthusiastic, "you're as good as the man I heard this afternoon!"

It was merely a burst of oratory, and I told her so; but nothing would satisfy her until she booked me to appear before her lit'ry club. Now they've got me scheduled for a lecture, and I'm stumped, not knowing what to say.

"Never mind," she encouraged me, "you'll sway 'em, I'm sure."

I may sway 'em, but I'll never knock 'em down.

LOWER INCOME TAX MEASURE IS PASSED

Virginia Bill Provides for Levy on $1,250 Instead of $1,000 Annually.

NUISANCE STAMP ASKED

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Feb. 3.—The Senate of Virginia, resuming work today after a week-end recess, passed with one dissenting vote the Fuller bill, which would raise income-tax exemptions for single persons from $1,000 to $1,250, and for persons heads of households from $2,000 to $2,800, and, in addition, sent back to committee the controversial barber's bill which would have set up an examining board for that craft. The House of Delegates had a quiet session, passing over its only controversial problem, the Brewer bill, to allow cities of the second class to assess 40 per cent of the bank stock tax.

In the afternoon, Gov. Pollard outlined his views of needed election law reforms before the joint privileges and elections committees and urged the naming of a commission to study the laws of other States and determine how they might be applied to Virginia.

Both Houses passed resolutions of regret on the death of Justice R. H. C. Chichester, of the State Supreme Court, whose successor the legislature soon will have to fill. The name of Judge Joseph W. Chinn, of Warsaw, is most prominently mentioned, with Judge O. L. Shackleford, of Norfolk, runner-up in the recent race for the election of two justices, and George L. Browning, of Orange, also a strong contender at that time, may be placed in the forthcoming fight.

The House passed the Dovell bill, which would repeal that section of the tax code which provides that poll tax receipts must be exhibited before any resident of Virginia may purchase a State license, and Delegate John W. McCauley, of Roanoke, introduced a measure that would prohibit any person from paying poll taxes of another, under penalty of a fine of not less than $50. This, it is said, is aimed at the wholesale payment of poll taxes by political party leaders in certain sections of the State.

Senator John W. Chalkley, of Big Stone Gap, and Senator George L. Doughty, of Accomac, introduced the nuisance stamp tax bill which would impose a tax of 4 cents a pound on malt extract, said to be used chiefly for the making of home-brew, and 1 cent an ounce on all medicines, lotions, extracts and similar preparations that are used or are capable of being used for beverage purposes, which contain more than 4 per cent of alcohol.

Senator Barron opposed an amendment to a bill that would allow localities to be exempt from taxation for a period of five years on all manufacturing plants and works of public improvement which would have cut the time to three years. The bill, introduced by Senator Buchanan, is in the form of an enabling act carrying into effect provisions of the new constitution, and Senator Barron contended that the localities, in the interest of local self-government, should be given the right to fix their own time limit. The measure was passed for the day without a vote on the amendment. Several chambers of commerce are fighting the measure, it is understood, on the grounds that it will give new industries and temporary industries an advantage over established plants.

Delegate Dovell introduced a bill that would empower the governor to lend to Colonial Williamsburg, Inc., the Rockefeller restoration, the old speaker's chair and the "warming machine," an old type stove which were used formerly in the old House of Burgesses.

The office is unusual in that no counters have been provided, the customers being cared for at the desks of representatives. The building is being erected at a cost of $340,000 and will house the switchboards for the Hyattsville exchange.

The office will have charge of the Hyattsville, Laurel, Berwyn and Bowie areas and will be managed by William L. Hicks, assisted by Miss Mabel M. Hiser and Miss Delmar A. Dyott. It is located at Franklin street and Baltimore boulevard. The switchboards will not be ready for service until spring.

Cinders, which have been donated by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, soon will cover the streets and sidewalks of Edmonston, Md. They are expected to arrive in a day or two. The town will pay for their unloading and distribution.

Corporation Counsel Waldo Burnside is expected to report on a protest made at the order of the town councile to the railroad of the draining of surface water in Edmonston from the pass now being constructed in Hyattsville. The council will meet Friday at the Edmonston School.

A card party will be held under the auspices of the Woman's Civic Club tonight in the home of Mrs. J. Howard Hopkins, at Laurel, Md. The party will begin at 8 o'clock.

BANQUET TENDERED BYRD IN WINCHESTER

Farmer Friends of Former Governor Gather to Welcome Him.

PROGRESS IS SKETCHED

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Feb. 3.—Dirt farmer and fruit grower friends of Harry F. Byrd cheered and applauded tonight as the former governor rose to speak at a "home coming" banquet in his honor at the George Washington Hotel. Gov. Byrd, whose term of office expired recently, said he deeply appreciated the friendship and loyalty of his home county citizens and that he was very glad to get back among them and resume his farm and orchard work. He also appreciated what had been said by other speakers relative to marked progress in Virginia's development in recent years, but disclaimed the credit for it.

He said most of this was due to the Virginia men and women who had served unselfishly on commissions and boards, and also to State officers and members of the General Assembly, without whose hearty cooperation he could not have hoped to inaugurate the program of progress undertaken four years ago. He expressed the hope that Gov. John Garland Pollard would be accorded the same loyal support in dealing with public problems and furthering Virginia's interests.

R. Gray Williams, who served on several commissions, sketched the State's material and industrial development under Mr. Byrd's administration. Referring to it as a new era in "the mother of States," William E. Carson, chairman of the State conservation and development commission, also spoke in high praise of accomplishments in governmental reform and efficiency the past four years.

Charles P. McVicar, president of the chamber of commerce, presided at the banquet, covers being laid for nearly 400. The Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis and American Legion Clubs cooperated with the chamber of commerce and county friends in tendering the banquet to Gov Byrd.

VIRGINIA SUPREME COURT JUDGE DIES

R. H. L. Chichester, 59, Succumbs in Fredericksburg Home After Illness.

PUBLISHER AND BREEDER

Fredericksburg, Va. (A.P.).—Judge R. H. L. Chichester, 59, a member of the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals, died here today.

Judge Chichester had been in poor health for the past two years and since last fall he had been under treatment at the hospital here. Pernicious anemia set in as the result of other disorders and he gradually lost ground in the battle against death. For the last two weeks his condition had been critical, and his death was not unexpected.

Funeral arrangements had not been complete this morning. Judge Chichester, a native of Fairfax County, Va., was admitted to practice at the Virginia bar at the age of 21 years.

Publisher of Newspaper.

From Commonwealth's attorney for Stafford County he rose through various judgeships until in 1925 he was appointed by the governor to the supreme bench of the State.

The General Assembly elected him for a 12-year term to this office in 1928. Judge Chichester was the publisher of the Fredericksburg Free Lance Star and was a breeder of blooded dairy cattle.

He was married in 1895 to Miss Virginia Bell Wallace, of Stafford County. Three children survive: Daniel McCarty Chichester, a member of the General Assembly; Mrs. John L. Wilson, of Knoxville, Tenn., and Richard Henry Lee Chichester, jr.

Long in Public Office.

Beginning with his election as Commonwealth's attorney for Stafford County, Judge Chichester held public office continuously, with the exception of five years when he practiced law at Stafford Courthouse. His offices in succession were as follows: County judge of Stafford and King George Counties from 1898 to 1904; judge of the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit, composed of the City of Fredericksburg and the Counties of Stafford, King George, Spottsylvania, Hanover and Caroline from 1910 to 1925 and during part of that time was a member of the special court of appeals. In 1925 Gov. E. Lee Trinkle named him to the supreme bench of the State, and in 1928 the General Assembly reelected him for a twelve-year term beginning February 1, 1929.

Shortly following his marriage Judge Chichester acquired the ancestral Moncure estate Glencairne at Falmouth in Stafford County. This home had passed through several generations of the Moncure family and had once been owned by Supreme Court Judge R. C. L. Moncure, the maternal grandfather of Judge Chichester.
